Britain Asks Home Defense of 30 Million

SENATE RELIEF BATTLE IS TEST FOR ROOSEVELT

Attempt to Restore 150 Million Cut.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—A behind-the-scenes struggle for votes reminiscent of the court packing battle in 1937 and the reorganization bill fight in 1938, was under way today as the senate prepared to begin debate tomorrow on the 725 million dollar deficiency relief appropriation measure.

The relief controversy will bring the first test vote in the senate on the deficit spending policy embraced by President Roosevelt in his annual message three weeks ago.

Radicals Back Roosevelt.

On one side, seeking to boost the appropriation to the full 875 millions as demanded by Mr. Roosevelt, are the administration forces, aided and abetted by the C. I. O., labor's nonpartisan league, so-called; the United States conference of mayors, the communist dominated Workers' Alliance, and various other pressure groups.

On the other side, seeking to retain the 150 million cut voted by the house of representatives, is a coalition of economy minded Democrats and Republicans under the active leadership of Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], and Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.]

Victorious in the appropriations committee by a vote of 17 to 7, the economy advocates are confident of final victory. The administration leaders are far less confident. Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], the majority leader, said there was only a chance to increase the appropriation.

Barkley Changes Tune.

Barkley is laboring under the handicap of an unfortunate announcement he made after a White House conference soon after congress convened. He expressed the opinion that 600 million would be about the right amount to carry the Works Progress administration from Feb. 7, when funds on hand are supposed to become exhausted, until June 30. Now he must lead the fight to boost the appropriation to [illegible] millions, having received subsequent instructions from the White House.

The anti-New Deal Democrats are staking everything on the outcome of the relief spending controversy. They believe that a vote upholding the 150 million cut will have a good effect, psychologically, on future attempts to curtail appropriations. They are warning the yes-men that fearsome tax bills will be coming along unless spending is curtailed.

Keep Eyes on 1940 Election.

The yes-men also are being warned about 1940, when many of them come up for reëlection. Conservative Democrats with New Deal colleagues are reminding them of the trend in the last election and hinting that if they want support in 1940 they had better heed the handwriting on the wall. In several instances, this method of approach has been successful.

The majority report of the appropriations committee, filed today by Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.] contends that 725 millions will be entirely adequate to meet the WPA relief requirements until June 30.

The records show that in 1936, between February and July, there was a reduction in the WPA rolls of 786,495, and that during the same period in 1937 there was a reduction of 576,745, the report states.

Expect Rolls to Be Cut.

"In view of the large sum of money being expended in the construction of public works projects, which now aggregate one and one-half billion dollars, the rearmament program in progress, the very definite uprise in business conditions, there is every reason to expect as large, if not a larger, decrease in relief rolls in 1939 as occurred in either 1936 or 1937," the report adds.

"With the appropriation at the figure fixed in the house, the amount expended for relief during the fiscal year 1939 will be in excess of the amount expended for relief in any other fiscal year. The committee is unwilling to believe that conditions in the country are as bad as they were in some previous years."

GET READY FOR WAR! PLEA OF CHAMBERLAIN

Entire Population to Be Trained.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain tonight beat the recruiting sergeant's drum. It was the first time it has sounded in Great Britain since the world war.

He launched a drive to mobilize 30,000,000 Britons between the ages of 14 and 65 for the voluntary civil defense army "to make the nation ready for war."

Eden Issues a Warning.

At the same time Capt. Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, warned Britain and France to keep an eagle eye on their interests in the Mediterranean.

He forecast troublesome times if Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, wins the civil war. Eden resigned from the cabinet because he differed sharply with Chamberlain's policy of appeasing dictators.

Chamberlain, in a broadcast to the nation, continued the government's campaign to get ready for war in the face of the expected mobilization of 1,500,000 Germans by Reichsfuehrer Hitler on Feb. 15.

He spoke in connection with the issuance tomorrow and Wednesday of 20,000,000 copies of a 60 page book called the National Service Guide. The book outlines details of wartime service for the entire population. The British are making this recruiting campaign a test of whether democracies such as theirs can compete with the dictatorial methods of Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy in mobilizing manpower.

Demands Stronger Defense.

"Our scheme is to make us ready for war, but that does not mean I think war is coming," Chamberlain told the nation.

"The better we are prepared to defend ourselves and to resist attack, the less likely is it that any aggressor will try an adventure in which chances of success would be so unpromising.

"It is for you to show the world what a free people are prepared to do in defense of their liberties and the ideals in which they believe.

"You know I have done, and shall continue to do, all I can to preserve peace for ourselves and for others too. We in this country would never begin a war. But we might be forced to take part in a war begun by others or we might be attacked ourselves if the government of some other country were to think we could not defend ourselves effectively.

Voices Fear of Air Raids.

"Modern war is not like wars of the past. The development of air forces has deprived us of our old island security, and in our case, as in the case of continental countries, the civilians would be victims of attack as much as soldiers, sailors, and airmen.

"For that reason, if we wish to protect our civilian population in time of war, we must prepare the necessary organization in time of peace.

"More than that, we must train it in peace, for there will be no time to train after a war starts."

Sees Foreign Victory in Spain.

Capt. Eden delivered his warning to "watch out" for Italy and Germany in a speech at Coventry. He said:

"The political independence and territorial integrity of Spain should be respected. No foreign power or powers should be allowed to establish themselves in Spain or Spanish possessions and Spain should be truly free to determine her destiny."

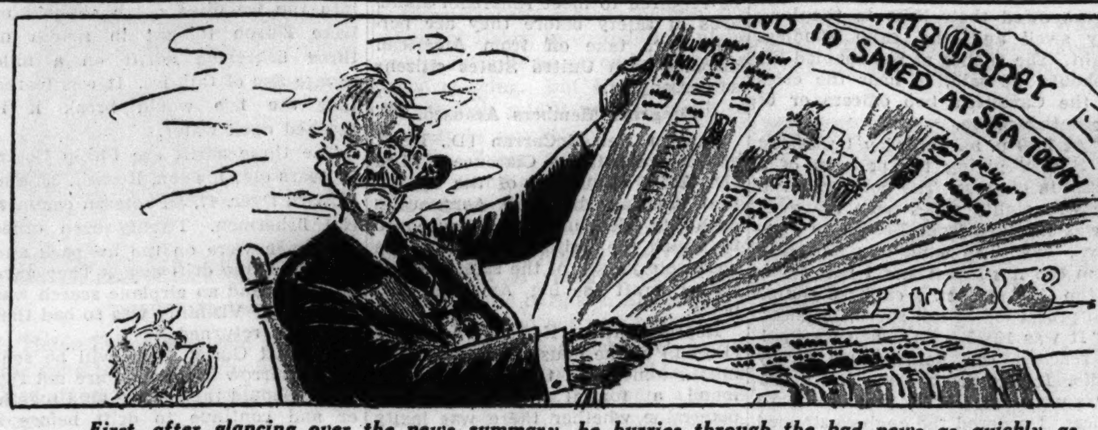
Speaking of the powerful armament pounding at the doors of Barcelona, Eden added, "Every one knows who provides this armament. How can any of us deny that if Franco wins his victory is a foreign victory?

"The truth is that certain states, although pledged to nonintervention, are intervening on a scale they deem sufficient to insure victory for Gen. Franco, and what do they tell us?

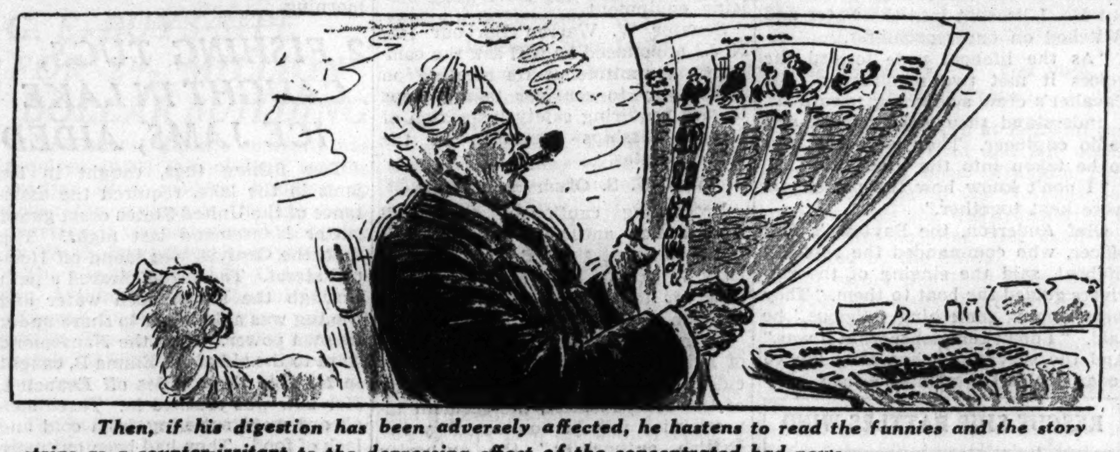
"That if France dares to do even a fraction of what they are doing they will reconsider the situation—whatever that may mean.

"How can dictation of that kind provide the basis for true friendship?"

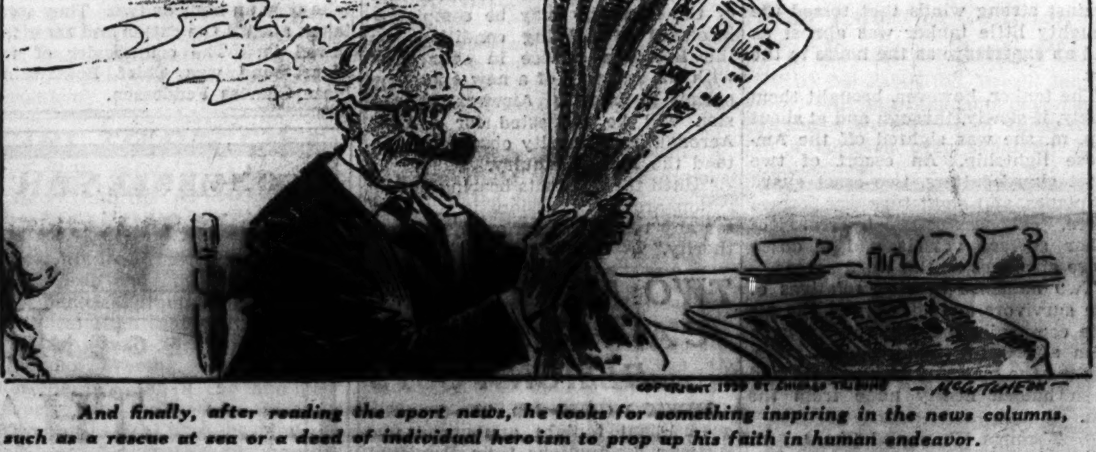
HOW HE READS THE MORNING PAPER



First, after glancing over the news summary, he hurries through the bad news as quickly as possible—war scares, scandal, crime, disasters, and stuff that looks like propaganda.



Then, if his digestion has been adversely affected, he hastens to read the funnies and the story strips as a counter-irritant to the depressing effect of the concentrated bad news.



And finally, after reading the sport news, he looks for something inspiring in the news columns, such as a rescue at sea or a deed of individual heroism to prop up his faith in human endeavor.

Bull Is Hitch in Settlement of Horlick Suit

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Racine, Wis., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The mysterious W. Perkins Bull was reported tonight to be a barrier to peaceful settlement of the celebrated Sidley will contest, in which millions of dollars are involved.

Bull, the bearded Canadian barrister who has been blamed for breaking up the home of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, was left one-third of the malted milk heiress' fortune, estimated at between 3 and 10 million dollars. It was in his Toronto, Ont., home that she made her will.

Judge Postpones Hearing.

Attorneys in conference on a settlement indicated that the opposing camps easily could reach an agreement on the purely financial aspects of the contest, but that Bull's position in the Horlick family affairs is blocking an out of court settlement. Judge J. Allan Simpson postponed further hearing of the case until Wednesday when it will be resumed if no settlement has been reached.

The contest was brought by her son, William Horlick Sidley, 27 years old, who shares equally with Bull.

Each side has strong reasons for wanting to settle the case. Two of Mrs. Sidley's brothers, A. J. and William Horlick, want to protect her good name, even though they are on opposing sides in the will fight. Awaiting introduction are depositions derogatory to both the heiress and her son.

Beneficiary Under Both Wills.

Bull's position is powerful because he is a beneficiary not only under the 1938 will, but in a will made in 1934—when admittedly Mrs. Sidley was of sound mind.

William Horlick, who wants the present will to stand, is Bull's close friend. It is believed that the Horlick's are willing to settle a reasonable sum upon Bull.

Attorneys conferred through the midnight hour tonight in their rooms in the Hotel Racine, but apparently were making little progress. Nothing specific has been made known about the actual negotiations. Negotiations will be continued throughout tomorrow.

ANOTHER BLOW DEALT FINANCIERS; NEW U. S. NICKEL WORTH ONLY 5C

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau today doomed to disappointment thousands of Americans who have been hoarding the new Jefferson nickel. He said the nickel, as first introduced last November, still is being minted and will continue to be. Officials said the hoarding was caused by rumors that the coin had a faulty design and would be withdrawn from circulation, giving the nickels already issued a collector's value.

MAGNET SMALLER THAN RING WILL LIFT 5 POUNDS

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 23.—(AP)—A magnet about half the size of a wedding ring, which picks up a five pound flatiron, was announced by scientists here today.

This lodestone is the most powerful permanent magnet in the world. It weighs about one-sixteenth of an ounce and lifts nearly 1,500 times its weight.

The magnet is made of aluminum, nickel, cobalt, and iron and was developed by W. E. McKibben in the research laboratories of the General Electric company. Made for use in radios, motors, and generators, it is a little flat disk of metal, with a small hole in its center.

POLICE REALLY FIND A BURGLAR UNDER THE BED

Here's a burglar who actually did hide under a bed. He's Benjamin Elting, 19 years old, captured last night by police when they were called to John T. Hall's home at 5814 South Maplewood avenue.

The police kept on searching when they found the silverware in a neat pile. First they found Elting under a bed. Then they discovered Walter Burke, 18, hiding behind a sofa. Then they went up into the attic, pulled a comfort off a small box and found James Hyland, 17, so tightly wedged in that they thought they'd never get him unfolded. The burglars all gave fictitious addresses. Hall and his family are in Florida.

Test Pilot Dies in Fiery Crash of U.S. Bomber

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—America's most modern light bomber crashed in flames in a parking lot near the Los Angeles Municipal airport today. Its pilot, John Cable, was killed when his parachute failed to open.

John Cable. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

A passenger, identified as Paul Chemidlin of Paris, a representative of the French air ministry, was dragged from the rear cabin of the all-metal bomber before it caught fire. He suffered a broken leg, severe back injuries, and minor head wounds.

Ten persons, including four women, seated in automobiles in the parking lot, were injured slightly by flying pieces of wreckage. Nine automobiles were damaged.

Pilot Strikes Earth Nearby.

Cable, a test pilot for the Douglas Aircraft corporation, fell to his death when his parachute failed to open at 200 feet. He struck the earth about 50 feet from the smashed bomber.

Expert witnesses, who saw the tricycle geared, high-winged ship go through a series of difficult aerial maneuvers, said Cable apparently cut one of the engines at 3,000 feet for climbing tests at half-power.

A moment later the plane fell, going into a flat spin. As the craft neared the ground Cable hurtled from the forward cockpit hatch. It was not known whether he jumped or fell.

Company Declines Comment.

Douglas spokesmen declined comment on the crash until after an investigation. They declined to say whether the plane was destined for entry in war department competition or was being prepared for export.

Cable, 35 years old, a veteran test pilot for the Douglas Aircraft corporation, is survived by the widow, the former Vera Mae Trent of Waterloo, Ia., and two children, Clyde, 10 years old, and Betty Mae, 7. Born in Illinois, Cable learned to fly at Moline.

SONG IN DARKNESS LEADS RESCUERS TO TEN IN WATER

BOATSWAIN TELLS OF RESCUE GUIDED BY VOICES IN SEA

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The all but hopeless task of locating the ten survivors of the doomed flying boat Cavalier even after their general position became known was described tonight by Joseph R. Minor of Tappahannock, Va., boatswain of the rescue ship, Esso Baytown, and stroke oar on the lifeboat that picked them up.

Minor's story shows that the rescue was due to the fact that the Esso Baytown, a slow fourteen knot boat, was eighty miles from the Cavalier when it struck the water and was able to make a close search over the entire vicinity. The stories of the survivors indicate that the Baytown passed them once in the darkness without seeing them.

Traces Course Eighteen Miles.

"We had received radio advices of the Cavalier's distress some time earlier," Minor said, "but because of variances in the positions given we retraced our course eighteen miles, finally coming back to the area in which we found the survivors."

Minor said that when the Esso Baytown found that what its skipper assumed was the correct position, Alvin Shannon, Philadelphia, who was manning the lookout bell on the forecastle head, heard voices.

"We lowered a boat then and with the ship's spotlight raking the blackness in a wide arc we set out in the general direction of the voices. We guessed that whoever was out there had seen our lights even before we put on the searchlight and they were trying to call us. We heard their voices about 11:30 p. m. after having rowed about for more than half an hour," Minor said.

Seas Are Running Heavily.

"We would hear voices to our left, and pulling in that direction would suddenly hear them in back of us. The voices evidently were carried from wave to wave and we would hear the voices from two directions at once. The seas were running heavily and, although our spotlight was playing about the ocean trying to pick out those in the water, we had only their voices to guide us.

"Suddenly almost under our bow we found a man swimming along toward the ship. He yelled and we picked him up. He said he was Patrick Chapman, radio man on the Cavalier. He told us he and Neil Richardson, first officer and navigator, had left the main group of survivors and started swimming toward the searchlight when we hove in sight.

"From his directions we got a better idea where the people were. We turned and started on the course he gave us. Within a hundred yards we found Richardson swimming. After rowing a little longer Mr. Anderson [Olaf Anderson, first mate] shouted: 'There they are, dead ahead, men.' When we turned our heads we could see the survivors' heads bobbing above the waves.

Find Them Holding Hands.

"We found them all holding hands and grasping the life preservers. Two of the survivors didn't have any and the others were holding them up. Chief Pilot M. R. Alderson didn't have a preserver. The other without one was a lady. They were all pretty weak. It was lucky we found them when we did.

"We hauled them aboard and covered them with our coats and started back to the ship."

The crew of the lifeboat, in charge of First Officer Anderson, in addition to Minor, were John Tomaschek, Blackwood, N. J.; Thomas J. Brady, White Haven, Pa.; Howell Smith, Mobile, Ala.; Stanley Taylor, Boston, and John Goodwin, Gloucester, Mass.

The life boat, a regulation 27 footer with a 7 foot beam, was a "heavy pull," Minor said.

La Grange Puts Police Magistrate on Salary

La Grange's police magistrate used to have to depend upon court costs for his pay. After May 1 the office will have a salary—$1,300 a year. The salary was voted last night by the village trustees.

Hailed by New York as Heroes of Epic Rescue in Ocean.

PICTURES OF SURVIVORS.

Pictures of survivors of the airliner Cavalier, the rescue ship, and the rescue crew on their arrival in New York will be found on the back page.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Safe in port, the five men and five women survivors of the Imperial Airways flying boat Cavalier tonight told thrilling stories of more than ten hours of horror after their plane crashed and sank, leaving them clinging to life belts 300 miles from shore.

The rescue ship, the oil tanker Esso Baytown, buffeted by high seas and icy winds for thirty hours after picking up the survivors, docked about 4:30 p. m. [Chicago time] and both the rescued and the rescuers were acclaimed by welcoming crowds as heroes.

The rescuers told how a song the survivors sang led them to the ten in the water.

Triumph Over Elements.

Warmed by their miraculous escape from death—death that claimed three of the thirteen passengers and crew that started from New York for Bermuda last Saturday—they recounted how they had triumphed over the ocean, darkness, cold, exhaustion, and sharks that were attracted to their helpless circle.

All of them in their fortitude seemed heroic. They told how Mrs. Edna Watson, Montreal, one of the passengers, clung to the unconscious and helpless pilot of the plane, Capt. M. R. Alderson, and so saved his life, and how First Officer Neil Richardson swam around and around the group splashing to frighten away sharks.

They said that each sustained the others by cheerful words to conceal the slow loss of hope in the breasts of all. They told how, when the oil tanker Esso Baytown neared their group, the gallant Patrick Chapman, the plane's radio operator, and Richardson exhausted as they were, swam away into the night hoping to attract the rescuers before they sailed past.

No Ice on Wings or Hull.

Of the group only two were sorrowful. They were Mrs. J. Gordon Noakes of Malba, N. Y., and Mrs. Donald S. Miller of Lincoln, Neb. Both women saw their husbands die in the water. Both were in a state of collapse more from mental strain and grief than from physical disability.

Although both passengers and crew talked freely of the hours in the water, there was no clear explanation made tonight by the pilots or by Imperial officials of the cause of the tragedy. Capt. Alderson said there had been no ice on the wings or hull of his boat, but he ignored questions about probability that ice choked his carburetors.

DESCRIBES PLANE CRASH

Radio Officer Chapman, who seemed to be in the best physical condition of any of the survivors, told a graphic story of the accident and rescue. He said:

"Our greatest fear when we were in the water was the sharks. I saw one that I am sure of—I know there were others around, what with three human bodies in the water.

"I was still at my key when we hit the water with a terrific crash. I don't know how I got this cut on the chin [there was a healing wound on his jaw], but it must have happened then. The plane started breaking up in two or three minutes. The three men who went down all must have been hurt when we crashed.

"One man died as soon as we hit the water. He was bashed against a wing and disappeared. [Other survivors said this man was believed to be Donald S. Miller.] Robert Spence, the Irish steward, went next, an hour or so later.

Spence Puts Up Game Fight.

"He put up a game show but he must have been terribly hurt. He seemed to lose his head all of a sudden and let go. [Other passengers said Spence had been standing in the cabin of the plane when it hit and struck his head on the ceiling.]

"The other lost passenger [Noakes] was standing when the ship hit the water. It was awful. He was held up a long time in the water after he was dead.

"We tried to keep cheerful kicking around in the water. It was warm water until night and then it began to get cold. Some one suggested that we tell yarns to each other. But that didn't come off. One's brain doesn't work in a place like that—we could not think of any yarns to tell. We thought a lot about sharks, but did not say much about them.

Life belts such as this were provided for each passenger of the flying boat which sank. They were linked together to form a raft.

"When the first ship passed us, two or three miles in the distance, without finding us, we were naturally very discouraged. This was just at nightfall and there wasn't a chance of the ship hearing our cries.

"When we saw the Esso Baytown lights later that night we decided some one should swim for her in an effort to prevent us being passed by again. It was impossible for all of us to swim together as we were all in a circle around the life preservers. So I struck out for the tanker—it was then just 10:45 p. m. by my wristwatch—I remember looking at it—it's waterproof.

Hear Rescue Ship's Siren.

"First Officer Richardson swam after me to kick up the water and keep off the sharks.

"The tanker sounded its siren when it heard our cries and for the first time in the long afternoon and night we realized we were actually going to be saved.

"It was just 12:30 a. m. Sunday—and my watch was right—when we all finally got aboard the Esso Baytown. Most of us had gotten out of our clothes except underware. The surprise to me was the way Noakes lasted so long. There was a deep gash in his head where he'd hit the roof."

MRS. WATSON'S STORY

Mrs. Watson from Montreal, who deprecated her own heroic actions, told a vivid story of how the flight and accident had seemed to the passengers. She began by saying that the plane had flown through several snow and hail squalls early in the trip. She felt no alarm, she said, until the engines slowed.

"When the plane struck the water I was almost immediately taken by the steward to the emergency door in the pantry," Mrs. Watson said. [The Cavalier's pantry is amidship, between the smoking room in front and the after cabin.]

"By the time the steward had the door open the water was already pouring in and the floor of the plane was knee deep in the water. I literally stepped out into the ocean.

Twelve Cling to Six Life Belts.

"The plane sank in about fifteen minutes. Not fast, you know. It just settled slowly. We had climbed on top and the men pulled the injured men up. When the plane finally let down beneath us we hung to a few life belts. There seemed to be about six for the twelve of us."

Mrs. Watson said that as the plane went down they tied all the life belts together into a circle. Then all clung to the floating belts as best they could. Those who could not get a handhold were held up by the others.

"We formed a sort of ring, holding up the ones in between who seemed weaker," she said. "For about an hour and a half after the plane disappeared the ocean was not very rough. The waves were very little ones, but every once in a while a bigger one came along and bounced us.

"Weren't you afraid of sharks," she was asked.

Survivors Lose Track of Time.

"No. Nobody said anything about sharks. But we all felt that, with the three dead, they might be attracted.

"Mr. Richardson swam away from and around us for a long time. I found out afterward that he was hoping to scare away any sharks or hostile fish that might have been attracted to the scene.

"After a while as it got darker, the waves got higher, but by that time we lost track of hours. One of the crew members—I can't remember which now—began to sing.

"It seemed that about 7 o'clock we saw a ship. It didn't see us though, and I don't think we saw the same ship again, I can't be sure."

Searchlights Play on Sea.

By that time, she explained, only ten were left gripping the life belts. All of them were deeply dejected when the ship disappeared from view. None of them knew exactly how long it was before the Esso Baytown hove into sight.

"They, too, seemed to be missing us," she said. "Mr. Richardson and Mr. Chapman left us and swam out toward the moving steamer. After what seemed to be a long time they both shouted with what little strength they had left. The searchlights playing on the water swung around and picked them up after a few minutes of their almost constant yells."

"When we were hauled aboard all of us thanked God to be alive," she said.

TELLS OF STEWARD'S DEATH

Mrs. Katherine Fox Ingham, 24 years old, a native of Wayne, Pa., and now the wife of a Hamilton, Bermuda, business executive, also told a gripping story. Mrs. Ingham, a horsewoman and an athlete, held up Steward Spence for a period after the young man lost consciousness in the water.

"I tried my best," she said, "then he slipped from my grasp and sank beneath the surface."

Spence, she said, had been injured in the landing.

"He was standing up and trying to appear unconcerned so we wouldn't be worried. He hit his head against the roof when the plane hit the water. That's probably why he couldn't hang on and the dead weight was too great for me.

Fly Through Snow Storm.

"None of us had thought anything was wrong," she said in referring to the flight. "We went through a snow storm and then Spence made a round of the passengers to tell them: 'We are going to land on the ocean for lunch.' Spence helped to strap most of the passengers to their seats."

It was explained by airways officials that when the Cavalier began flying between Bermuda and New York in the summer of 1937 there had been no safety belts on the seats. Later, however, both the United States and British civil aeronautics authorities required that the belts be added.

"The plane landed with a terrific crash," continued Mrs. Ingham, "and it seemed as if the whole bottom of the boat was coming up. I was helped to the smoking room emergency outlet, and it wasn't much of a drop to the water. Spence helped hand out the life belts."

Float on Large Swells.

It all happened so quickly that there was no time for panic or preparation, she said.

"If only the passengers had a minute more they could have fastened life belts under their arms," she said. "Sixty seconds would have been enough."

There was no explanation why the passengers were not told to don their life belts while the stricken plane was gliding toward the ocean.

"The first ship passed fairly close to us," Mrs. Ingham said, "but the searchlights failed to pick us out. We had been clinging together trying to remain in a group, thinking a rescue ship or a plane overhead would have a better chance of sighting us that way. Besides we needed each other's presence to keep up our courage.

"When the tanker came into sight the haze had lifted and stars were overhead. We were floating on large swells. One member of the crew and I thought that we ought to do something to attract the attention of those aboard the rescue ship.

"We counted in unison and let out a shout. We kept shouting, yelling and singing, as well as waving our hands about an hour. Then came one of the happiest moments in my life. The ship replied with three short blasts indicating they had heard us. From then on it was just a matter of waiting."

Mrs. Ingham was met by members of her family from Wayne and a friend, William W. Rose, who had escorted her to the flying boat for the take-off from Port Washington on Saturday. Her husband is on his way to New York by steamer and they will sail back to Bermuda on the Monarch of Bermuda, a liner, next Saturday.

RESCUE CAPTAIN'S STORY

Capt. Frank Spurr, master of the Esso Baytown, said that the survivors owed their lives to the long oily swell and the calm windless night. The silence at sea enabled his lookouts, he said, to hear the cries of the Cavalier's two officers or of the entire group.

"At 1:30 p. m. Saturday I received an S O S giving the position of a vessel in distress. The position given me was eighty miles from my own. I was heading from Boston to Baytown, Tex. The wind was moderate from the northwest and I was south of the Gulf stream. I changed course and proceeded at full speed, 14 knots.

"It was 10:35 p. m. when we finally reached the point given us by radio. It was pretty dark, but a few stars were out. Pretty soon we heard voices. I ordered the engines stopped immediately and turned the helm to circle. At the same time I ordered out No. 1 lifeboat into the water and switched on our searchlight.

"As the lifeboat rode toward the voices it met two members of the Cavalier's crew swimming toward us. I understand they were co-pilot and radio engineer. They were the first to be taken into the lifeboat.

"I don't know how the passengers were kept together."

Olaf Anderson, the Baytown's first officer, who commanded the rescuing lifeboat, said the singing of the survivors guided the boat to them. "They were singing something religious," he said. "I don't remember what it was." And the survivors when they landed today couldn't remember either.

RESCUE SHIP BATTLES WIND

The survivors today said the voyage home through high waves and against strong winds that tossed the doughty little tanker was almost as bad an experience as the hours in the sea.

The tanker, however, brought them safely, if slowly, through and at about 1 p. m. she was sighted off the Ambrose lightship. An escort of two coast guard cutters, two coast guard seaplanes, and eight tugs was formed there. This was joined by scores of other surface vessels and a dozen more airplanes as the word spread.

Two launches bearing relatives of the survivors and officials of the air line companies boarded the Baytown soon afterward, taking aboard clothing for the men and women who had been hauled nearly nude from the sea.

Throngs Wave and Cheer.

As the boat proceeded up the harbor there came a mighty greeting of sympathy and good will. Steamers whistled, the airplanes dipped in salute, the shore line and piers were black with throngs that waved and cheered.

Several of the survivors, among them Mrs. Ingham and Miss Nellie Smith of Bermuda, the fifth woman survivor, appeared on deck and waved back. Miss Smith danced a jig of joy. Charles Talbot, 22 year old Harvard business school student who had clung to the life belts with one arm in a sling, came on deck and waved.

There was a near riot as the boat docked in the North river. Throngs shouted to Capt. Spurr and to the survivors. Kleig lights lit up the darkness and newsreel and newspaper photographers ground away and snapped photographs.

All Spurn Ambulance.

Arrangements had been made to take the survivors to a hospital, but all spurned the ambulances that were waiting. Each one walked ashore, with only Mrs. Noakes and Mrs. Miller receiving aid. Then each of the ten was examined by a physician who said that they all had come through their ordeal "in wonderful shape."

They then scattered with relatives and friends to various hotels and homes.

The calmest man at the dock was Capt. Spurr who was roundly cheered again and again. He spoke of the heroism of the people he had rescued but of his own part in the drama he said:

"It was something that is done ashore as well as at sea when any occasion requires it."

ASK U. S. TIGHTEN SAFETY RULES ON FOREIGN AIRSHIPS

Congressmen Aroused by Laxity Over Cavalier.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Revelation that American authorities had never passed on the air worthiness of the ill-fated British flying boat Cavalier and had never required the Imperial Airways luxury liner to install the carburetor de-icing equipment mandatory for United States aircraft on the Bermuda run raised a storm in Washington today.

As a result immediate and radical changes were forecast in the future arrangements by which the United States and foreign companies will exchange facilities for foreign air commerce. Foreign planes probably will be required to meet American standards of safety before they are permitted to take off from American airports with United States citizens as passengers.

Congress Members Aroused.

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] and Representative Clarence F. Lea [D., Cal.], co-authors of the legislation creating the Civil Aeronautics authority, denounced the procedure by which the British air authorities were sole judges of the safety of passenger craft leaving American airports.

Representative Edward A. Kelly [D., Ill.] of the house commerce committee announced that he would demand a formal investigation to determine whether there was laxity or failure by Imperial Airways to equip the Cavalier with the best deicing equipment.

Senator W. Warren Barbour [R., N. J.] announced he will ask the commerce committee at its meeting on Wednesday to consider taking steps toward requiring safety inspection of foreign airships operating in the United States.

Want U. S. Observer at Quiz.

Proceeding cautiously, the Civil Aeronautics authority decided late today to request the British air ministry to permit an official American observer to be present at its investigation of the tragedy.

"Since the Cavalier was an aircraft of British registry involved in an accident outside the territorial limits of the United States, the accident investigation will be conducted by the British authorities," the authority announced.

"In order that the technical staf of the authority may be completely informed of existing conditions on the Bermuda service in connection with the issuance of a new operating permit to Imperial Airways, permission will be requested for a Civil Aeronautics authority observer to attend the British inquiry.

"Until the full facts bearing on the action are known, there is no basis for any restrictive action by the authority."

TWO MEXICAN CABINET MEN RESIGN POSTS

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The government tonight announced two surprise resignations from President Lazaro Cardenas' official family and replacements for these and three other cabinet vacancies.

The unexpected resignations were of Gen. José Siurob, whose administration as chief of the federal district was marked by recent bread strikes, and Gen. Tirso Hernandez, secretary of physical education.

Gen. Jesus Agustin Castro was named war minister to succeed Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, resigned. An engineer, Melquidades Angulo, a former secretary of communications, went back to that post, succeeding Gen. Francisco Mugica. Silvestre Guerrero took the position of public welfare secretary.

To succeed the officials resigning today, Cardenas named his private secretary, Raul Castellano, as chief of the federal district, and Col. Ignacio Beteta to the secretaryship of physical education.

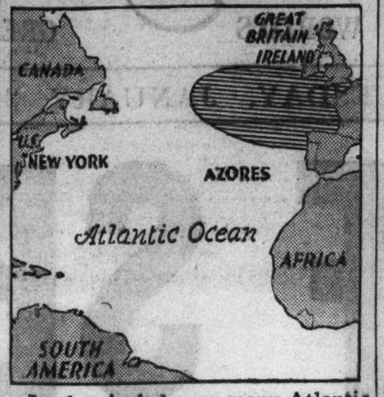
Ocean Storm Area

(Story in adjoining column.)



In the shaded area many Atlantic ocean vessels sent out S O S calls yesterday after they were disabled by severe storm.

RESCUERS HUNT 3 FISHERMEN ON RUNAWAY FLOE

Detour, Mich., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Rescuers drove a gasoline launch into the ice filled north channel of Lake Huron tonight in search of three fishermen adrift on a mile square floe of thin ice. It was feared that the floe would break if it reached open water.

The three adrift are Philip Goetz, 60 years old; his son, Russell, 30, and Willard Dyer, 47, all veteran commercial fishermen. Twenty-seven other fishermen were on the ice pack and saw the three drift away. They gave an alarm and an airplane search was attempted. Visibility was so bad that the pilot returned.

A Coast Guard plane will be sent out tomorrow if the men are not rescued. Should the ice floe hold together and continue to drift before a southwest wind and the lake current it might reach the Ontario shore by morning.

2 FISHING TUGS, CAUGHT IN LAKE ICE JAMS, AIDED

Two fishing tugs, caught in ice jams in the lake, required the assistance of the United States coast guard cutter Nansemond last night. The first, the Genivie, was found off Howard street. The cutter cleared a path through the ice to open water and the tug was able to get to shore under its own power. Then the Nansemond went to the aid of the Emma B, caught in ice floes three miles off Evanston. Her bow was crushed in. Three men aboard were suffering from cold and lack of food. They had been out more than twelve hours after starting on a trip that they had expected would take only an hour or two. They were taken aboard the cutter and their tug towed in. The commander of the Nansemond was Chief Boatswain's Mate Charles Feddersen.

14 SHIPS FLASH S O S AS STORMS WHIP ATLANTIC

24 Lives Feared Lost in 90 Mile Gale.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Wintry gales crippled Atlantic shipping and interfered with continental aviation tonight. Fourteen vessels were disabled or lost in the storms after sending out distress calls. Twenty-four lives were feared lost.

All naval vessels in the English channel were instructed to keep a sharp lookout for a missing royal air force bomber with a crew of seven men aboard.

Crippled ships struggled under the force of waves fifty feet high in a wild Atlantic whipped by a ninety mile an hour wind.

The trawler Pioneiro, which left Madeira Saturday on a fishing trip with a crew of twelve aboard, was not found today after the Greek steamer Risko reported her sinking yesterday.

Storms Hit Mediterranean.

The stormy weather extended across the Mediterranean, forcing down the British Imperial Airways flying boat Centaurus at Bastia, Corsica.

Eleven of the disabled vessels in the Atlantic were cargo boats. One, the British Daleby, reported she was fighting fire and water in her holds in mid-Atlantic.

Two non-cargo vessels were the Chilean motor vessel Aconcagua, of 7,230 tons, with an estimated crew of 200 and an unknown number of passengers, and the former British mine layer, Medea.

Tug Goes to Ship's Aid.

A British tug went to the aid of the Aconcagua. She has been helpless since noon yesterday because of a damaged steering gear. Lloyd's received only a single message from the vessel, reporting the trouble and giving a position of about 200 miles west of Ireland.

The Medea was pounded onto rocks of the southern coast of England while being towed. Lifeboats rescued three sailors but a fourth drowned.

The British freighter Bramhill, a 1,821 ton vessel with a crew of 20, sent a second message from between Land's End, England, and Ushant, France. She reported her hatches stoved in, lifeboats damaged, and said she was unable to steer.

Other Disabled Ships Listed.

Other vessels flashing out SOS signals were:

Turkia [Greek], 1,911 tons, crew of 25.

Steumi Svend Pii [Danish] 1,800 tons, crew of 25.

Satmos [Greek], 3,800 tons, crew of 30.

Avra [Greek], 4,652 tons, crew of 35.

St. Clair Theriault [British], 1,637 tons, crew of 21.

Valdirosa [Italian], 4,434 tons, crew of 24.

Bajamar [Norwegian], 2,757 tons, crew not given.

Lina Fisser [German], 1,497 tons, crew not given.

Igarion [Greek], 4,013 tons, crew not given.

Two other ships, which previously had asked for help, reported they were out of danger.

The British steamer Terlings, of 3,800 tons and with a crew of 30, broke her steering gear in the Bay of Biscay, but was able to proceed toward shelter slowly.

Springs Leak in Mid-ocean.

The Dutch Parklaan, of 3,807 tons and with a crew of 31, made for the Azores under her own power after springing a leak in mid-Atlantic. She was escorted by the British steamer Deerpool.

Seven fatalities were would-be rescuers who set out from St. Ives, Cornwall, in a lifeboat in answer to a distress call from a small disabled craft off the coast. The lifeboat capsized and only one man escaped. The disabled boat finally crashed on the rocks and a lone man aboard was drowned.

Two children were killed when a house was blown over at Devonport. One sailor was lost at sea from the German steamer Buenos Aires, bound for South America.

BATTLE FIRE ON SHIP LOADED WITH POISON; WIN AFTER 14 HOURS

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The 15,000 ton British freighter Silverash, scheduled to sail for Manila with a general cargo this morning, was wrecked bv fire at its pier at the foot of 57th street, Brooklyn. Two officers and three firemen were injured in the fire, which raged in the hold for fourteen hours.

Three fireboats and a large concentration of other apparatus fought the fire from shortly after midnight until nearly 3 o'clock this afternoon against the threatened danger of deadly cyanide fumes. Some 6,000 drums of cyanide were stored in the holds.

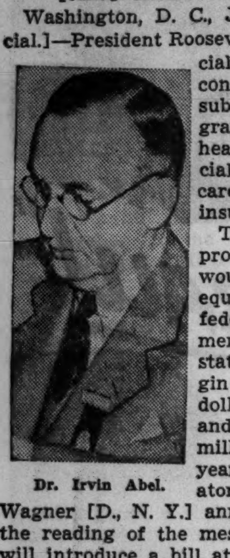
PRESIDENT PUTS HEALTH PROGRAM UP TO CONGRESS

Federal-States Plan Will Cost 850 Millions Year.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt sent a special message to congress today submitting a program of public health service, socialized medical care, and sickness insurance.



Dr. Irvin Abel.

The cost of the program, which would be borne equally by the federal government and the states, would begin at 100 million dollars this year and rise to 850 million dollars a year by 1949. Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.] announced after the reading of the message that he will introduce a bill at once providing for the initiation of the program at a cost of 50 millions to the federal government, this amount to be matched by the states.

Opposed by Conservative Doctors.

Avoiding a specific request for the legislation and stating that he transmitted the program "for careful study," the President made a gingerly approach to the highly controverted question of socialized medicine, which is opposed by the conservative wing of the medical profession on the ground that it would impair medical standards to the detriment of medical progress and the health of the nation.

A delegation of the American Medical association, headed by its president, Dr. Irvin Abel, recently informed Mr. Roosevelt that the organization supports those phases of the project designed to place medical care within reach of persons unable to pay for it, but opposes that part providing for compulsory sickness insurance. Experience has shown, said Dr. Abel, that compulsory insurance "lowers the quality of medical care."

Four Point Program Outlined.

President Roosevelt transmitted with his message the report of the interdepartmental committee to coördinate health and welfare activities, which evolved the program as the result of a three year study. The specific recommendations follow:

1. Expansion and strengthening of existing federal-state coöperative health programs under the social security act for larger grants in aid to the states and through the states to localities. These activities embrace maternal and child health services and general public health services devoted to eradication of tuberculosis, venereal diseases, and malaria, control of mortality from pneumonia and cancer, and development of mental and industrial hygiene programs.

2. Federal grants in aid to the states for construction, enlargement, modernization, and operation of hospitals, including health and diagnostic centers, particularly in rural or sparsely populated areas.

Funds from Two Sources.

3. Federal grants in aid to the states for development of programs of medical care for low income groups of persons, "who, though able to purchase food, shelter, and clothing, are unable to pay for necessary medical care." To finance the program, said the committee, the states could draw funds from two sources: [a] General taxation or special tax assessments, and [b] specific insurance contributions from the potential beneficiaries of an insurance system.

4. Development of social insurance "to insure a partial replacement of wages" during sickness or other "temporary or permanent disability." Temporary disability insurance would be established through federal-state coöperation along the lines of unemployment insurance.

Concerned Over "Inequalities."

The whole purpose of the plan, according to the President, is to provide the medical care for backward states and low income groups that more advanced states and well-to-do persons enjoy.

"I have been concerned," said Mr. Roosevelt in his message, "by the evidence of inequalities that exist among the states as to personnel and facilities for health services.

"We have reason to derive great satisfaction from the increase in the average length of life in our country and from the improvement in the average levels of health and well being. Yet these improvements in the averages are cold comfort to the millions of our people whose security in health and survival is still as limited as was that of the nation as a whole fifty years ago."

48 Navy Planes Join Fleet for Caribbean Maneuvers

Houston, Tex., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Melba Guthrie Withers, 19 years old, who was Oklahoma's harvest queen in 1938, is in Houston to contest an action by Pierce Withers, 44 years old, to annul their marriage. Withers and Miss Guthrie were married on Jan. 1 after a courtship which she said began only three hours before. Withers, a wealthy oil man and grandson of Shanghai Pierce, famed early day Texas cattleman, contends he was too intoxicated to know what he was doing when they were married.

A SIMPLE DEVICE CLEARS AIRWAYS OF STATIC PERILS

Trailing Rope Puts End to Radio's Howling.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Static interference with aircraft radio—one of the greatest hazards of air transportation—virtually has been eliminated by a new invention, according to an announcement of United Air Lines' engineers yesterday.

A simple and inexpensive device has been developed which cuts out 90 per cent of the static and insures normal reception of radio signals, they said.

In bad weather, when the need for radio is greatest, interference by static has made reception of signals impossible. Many air line accidents have been attributed to the fact that pilots lost their way when static drowned out the guiding radio signals.

Three Year Search Rewarded.

For more than ten years the world's best radio engineers have worked on the problem. United's laboratory crew, headed by P. C. Sandretto, worked for three years and spent $30,000 before perfecting the static eliminator displayed yesterday.

J. R. Cunningham, United's communications chief, described the eliminator as a five foot length of hemp rope, five feet of woven steel fishing leader, and a heavy waxed paper cup with the bottom removed. Experiments conducted with United's flying laboratory during the summer and fall of 1937 pointed the way toward the final solution.

The engineers learned that interference resulted from uncontroled discharges from the airplane's skin of static electricity accumulated on the ship when it flew through clouds, rain or snow.

Electricity "Drips" Off Plane.

When this electricity built up to high voltages — as much as 300,000 volts—it "dripped" off the airplane from rivet heads, door handles, wing tips and tail. The frying, crackling, popping and roaring sounds picked up by the radio were these discharges, each of which sent out its own radio wave.

The engineers found that by placing a solid pointed rod—much like the lightning rod on a house—at the tail of the plane most of the static charges could be "bled" off at that point. It did not solve the problem, however, because even this discharge sent out radio waves.

Ultimately the engineers found that by using a five foot length of rope, impregnated with graphite, a gentle "trickle" of discharge could be obtained. The five foot length of fishing wire provided the point from which the electricity was released.

Rope a Noiseless Outlet.

"The rope," said Sandretto, "provides a one-way valve. The charges go out but do not back-fire through it. The result—no static."

The paper cup is an essential part of the eliminator which is carried in a cartridge with the ten foot length of wire and rope wound on a reel. When the eliminator is needed the pilot pulls a switch that shoots the paper cup out the tail. The cup acts as a wind cone, unwinds the wire and rope, and holds the line out behind the plane.

Two cartridges are now installed on each of United's planes.

HOPKINS DEBATE ENDS; CONFIRMED IN SENATE, 58-27

Five Democrats Join in Opposition.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The senate this afternoon confirmed the appointment of Harry L. Hopkins, former relief administrator and chief spender of the Roosevelt administration, as secretary of commerce. The vote was 58 to 27.

The vote followed a three day senate debate in which both Hopkins and President Roosevelt were condemned by Republicans and some Democrats for playing politics with human misery.

Administration yes-men defended Hopkins as a great humanitarian and benefactor of the human race. Senator Matthew M. Neely [D., W. Va.], who controls the WPA relief organization in his state, said that Hopkins had been inspired by a holy enthusiasm comparable to that of St. Paul, Father Damien, and St. Francis of Assisi, and had performed a greater service for humanity than any man since George Washington.

Five Democrats Vote No.

Of the 23 Republicans in the senate, only Gerald P. Nye and Lynn Frazier, both radicals, voted for Hopkins' confirmation. Five Democrats—Walter F. George of Georgia, Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, Rush Holt of West Virginia, William H. King of Utah, and Frederick Van Nuys of Indiana—voted against confirmation, as did Senator Henrik Shipstead [F.-L., Minn.].

The size of the vote by which the appointment was confirmed was not in any sense an indication of the senate's regard for Hopkins, nor a vindication of his record while spending 9 billion dollars for relief.

This was made clear as one Democrat after another took the floor to explain that in voting to confirm he was not condoning the political activities of Hopkins and the WPA. They took the position that the President should be permitted to select the members of his own official family.

Purgees' Votes Vary.

This was the attitude of most senators on President Roosevelt's ill-fated purge list in last year's primaries because of their opposition to the court packing bill. Senators George and Van Nuys were the only intended victims of the purge who voted against confirmation. However, Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], another intended victim of the purge, who had announced he would vote for confirmation, followed the example of Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.] and did not vote.

Senator Glass followed the example of Senator Tydings in placing the responsibility for the political activities of Hopkins and the WPA squarely upon President Roosevelt.

"I believe that nothing Mr. Hopkins did or said was done or said without the sanction of the appointive power," Senator Glass declared. "I do not care to vote for Mr. Hopkins because I do not want the impression to get out anywhere that I approve anything that Mr. Hopkins has done or said; nor do I approve the system under which he has acted.

Glass Explains Attitude.

"I voted against the lump sum appropriation of 4 billion 800 million dollars to begin with, because I thought that any senator who supposed it was not to be used for political purposes was simple. It was to be used for the purpose, largely, and was used for that purpose, largely.

"On the other hand, I subscribe to the view that the President of the United States should have the widest possible latitude in selecting his advisers; that if he wants men of the Hopkins type to advise him he ought to be allowed to select them, because Mr. Hopkins, in no event, could give him any worse advice than people who surround him who are not subject to confirmation by the senate."

Refers to Warren Rejection.

Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] took exception to the view that the senate could shirk its constitutional responsibility in advising and consenting to legislative appointments. He called attention to the fact that many Democrats still in the senate took no such position when the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren for attorney general in the cabinet of President Coolidge was rejected by the senate.

'Skinny Little Bandit' Robs Third Oil Truck Driver

A "skinny little man" who specializes in holding up drivers of fuel oil trucks was sought by police last night. In two weeks he has held up three drivers. His latest victim was Anthony Marino of 1132 Cambridge avenue. He robbed Marino of $75 last night in front of 535 Elm street. Marino described the bandit as about 21 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, and weighing 120 pounds. He wore a mask. Marino described him as a skinny little man.

G. E. BUYS SITE FOR 2½ MILLION DOLLAR BUILDING

The General Electric company has acquired 70,000 feet of land for the erection of a modern building to house the company's Chicago headquarters, it was announced yesterday by W. O. Batchelder, vice president.

The site is bounded by Canal, Clinton, Arthington, and Cabrini streets, adjacent to the Burlington railroad tracks. The project will cost approximately $2,500,000, of which about 20 per cent represents the site investment.

The building will provide space for the company offices, a warehouse, a service shop, the General Electric Supply corporation, R. Cooper Jr., Inc., and other associated interests. Title will rest with the General Electric Realty corporation, Schenectady, N. Y., which will supervise the construction.

GIRL TO RECEIVE HER DIPLOMA IN HOSPITAL ROOM

Jeanette De Fronzo wanted to wear a gray cap and gown and graduate with her class from the Lucy Flower Technical High school. She won't be able to attend the commencement Thursday evening. But tomorrow morning, wearing a cap and gown, Jeanette will receive her diploma in her room at St. Luke's hospital. She has been ill there for six months.

Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson will hand the diploma to Jeanette in the hospital. Others at the ceremony will be her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick De Fronzo of 850 South Morgan street; her teacher, Miss Ethel Bonfield; her physicians, Dr. Newell Clarke Gilbert and Dr. Edwin W. Ryerson, and five classmates. Jeanette is 20 years old.

MRS. G. W. CHILDS IS RECOVERING FROM HER BURNS

Mrs. George Washington Childs was recovering in the Evanston hospital yesterday from severe burns suffered Saturday night when her evening gown became ignited at an Evanston wedding reception. The quick thinking of her husband and a guest who smothered the flames with a dress coat and put out the fire with a bowlful of punch saved her from death.

Mrs. Childs, 60 years old, was attending a reception in the First Methodist church after the marriage of Miss Katherine Kittleman and Donald Macpherson Wood Jr. Her dress caught fire from a carelessly tossed cigaret. She lives at 850 Sheridan road, Highland Park.

GIRL, 14, DONS PANTS TO LEAD BURGLAR GANG

Tells Police She Was Studying Crime.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Helen Zubor's mother blames the plight of Helen, in custody last night in the Juvenile home, on her love for boys' clothing. But Helen, arrested for stealing, said it was the result of a quest in psychology.

Helen Zubor, 14 years old, is a stocky young girl with a boyish bob. She was arrested yesterday by Town Hall police. With her arrest, the police rounded up a gang of seven boys from 11 to 14 years of age whom Helen led into burglary. She says she "wanted to find out why boys steal."

Helen's face was dirty, her pudgy hands grubby. Her eyes, behind spectacles, were sullen. She wore a green skirt, a red sweater, a boy's topcoat, and a pair of brown trousers, which the gang stole for her three weeks ago in a tailor shop.

Research Nets Little.

When asked what her research had netted her, other than an arrest, she could tell little.

"Aw," she said, "I found out boys steal because they want things they haven't got, and some of them have an instinct to rob, and others don't have money."

Helen said her interest in crime was that of a detached bystander. But her companions, one of whom thought she was a boy [they called her "Teddo"] laughter at this. Together, they said, they had robbed cleaning plants, stores, a laundry [taking coins from the telephone box] and a pawn shop.

The boys held are John Davito, 12 years old; David Barry, 12; John Bacus, 14; William Julian, 13; Frank Rarey, 14; Dale Wear, 11, and John Thorp, 14.

Helen denied that the gang had used or carried a gun. Yet the boys admitted stealing two pistols, as well as three wristwatches, from the pawn shop.

She's Long Been a Problem.

When Helen said she had never contemplated burglary, Policewoman Mary McCarthy turned fiercely upon her. "I know you well," she told Helen, "and you know me."

Even Helen's mother, who lives at 3450 Fremont street, nodded sadly at this. Helen always had been a problem, she said, since she tried to stop wearing girl's clothes. When the mother locked up her trousers, she began to disappear in the evening.

"She'll never wear trousers again," Mrs. Zubor promised. "All this never would have happened if she had dressed as a girl ought to."

CAFE EMPLOYES AND OWNER LOSE PICKET BAN PLEA

A petition for a temporary injunction against picketing of three restaurants owned by Gust C. Terzakes was denied yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Superior court. Judge McKinlay referred the case to James R. Bryant, master in chancery, for a full hearing on a permanent injunction.

Ninety-seven employés joined Terzakes as co-plaintifs in the suit. He operates the Corner House restaurant, 100 East Ohio street; the Ranch, 123 East Oak street, and the G-T restaurant, 2138 Michigan avenue.

The suit was directed against the Hotel and Restaurant Employés' International Alliance and Bartenders' League of America. A strike was called at the restaurants Dec. 6. Since then, the bill charged, the places have been picketed and strikers have interfered with delivery of supplies. Attorney Harold Levy, representing the unions, produced affidavits of strikers asserting the picketing was peaceful and legal.

ADMITS 'SLAYING'; FIND GIRL ALIVE; SKULL CRUSHED

A girl 17 years old suffered possibly fatal injuries last night when she was beaten over the head with a hammer by her escort during a violent quarrel. Believing he had killed her, he surrendered at the River Grove police station.

The girl is Miss Doris Wickenkamp, 2558 North Harlem avenue, Elmwood Park. She stumbled into the Pow-Wow tavern at Belmont avenue and River road and fell unconscious on the floor. Franklin Park police took her to the Westlake hospital, whence she was transferred to the County hospital. Her skull was fractured by the blows.

Her escort was Fred Olsen Jr., 21, of 2546 72d court, Elmwood Park, a plumber. He told River Grove police that he had known Miss Wickenkamp eighteen months. He resented her friendship with another man, he said. They quarreled over this and he struck her. Olsen said he then intended to kill himself, but lost his nerve.

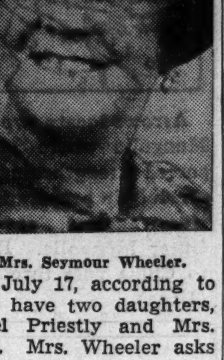
MRS. CHRISTABEL WARD WHEELER SUES FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Christabel Ward Wheeler of 1291 North Elm Tree road, Lake Forest, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan from Seymour Wheeler, manufacturer and civic leader. She charged cruelty.



Mrs. Seymour Wheeler.

The Wheelers were married in Evanston in 1910 and separated last July 17, according to the bill. They have two daughters, Mrs. Christabel Priestly and Mrs. Eleanor Lihme. Mrs. Wheeler asks court approval of an out of court property settlement which was not disclosed.

It was indicated the suit will be uncontested. Mrs. Wheeler, an ardent horsewoman, is socially prominent. Her husband was chairman of the Republican finance committee of Illinois in 1936. He is an official of Pickands, Mather & Co., iron and coke manufacturers. He lives at the Racquet club.

JAPS MASS ARMY ON FRONTIER OF SOVIET MONGOLIA

Troops Move to Northwest Border of China.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Japanese are reinforcing their Mongolian garrisons, possibly in preparation for the long expected offensive against the vast area to the north of China proper which leads, through the Outer Mongolian state, to soviet Russia.

Fresh troops, it became known today, are arriving daily at Paotow, terminus of the Peking-Suiyuan railway, and at Pailingmiao, the westernmost Japanese bases in Inner Mongolia.

Claiming he had repulsed exploratory attacks by the Japanese, Gen. Fu Tso-yi, chairman of the Suiyuan provincial government and commander-in-chief of the Chinese northern army, reported to Chungking that his defenses were ready.

Hope to Protect Supplies.

The Chinese concern is to protect their munitions route from the Mongolian town of Urga across the Gobi desert.

The Japanese grasp on Inner Mongolia now is along the railway from Peking through Nankow pass to Kalgan, a city of 80,000 population, Tatung, Kweihua, and Paotow.

The surrounding area, with an estimated half million population, is nominally under Japanese control, with 10,000 Japanese civilians following the army in an effort to take over rich coal, iron, and wool industries.

The Japanese Kwantung army clique, which controls Manchukuo, is playing a leading rôle. Foreign military observers believe the Japanese hope to use Inner Mongolia as a major base for an offensive against the Russian influenced Outer Mongolia—with a Japanese controled Mongol buffer state adjoining the soviet as the ultimate objective.

Establish Puppet Régimes.

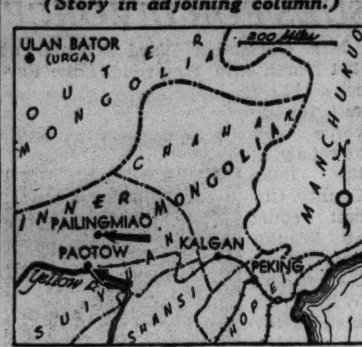
The Japanese already have established three governments in the area, with the Mongol Prince Teh heading a federated government at Kalgan.

Japanese in the Hankow area today occupied Kingshan, about 75 miles air line distance northwest of the fallen Chinese capital.

A second Japanese column still was trying to capture Tienmen, approximately 55 miles air line west of Hankow.

Menace Mongolia

(Story in adjoining column.)



Arrows locate two towns of Inner Mongolia where Japanese are reported strengthening their garrisons possibly in preparation for an offensive against soviet dominated Outer Mongolia. Russian supplies to China pass through Ulan Bator (Urga).

SOVIET GENERALS OFF TO INSPECT NEW STALIN LINE

See Forts on Polish, Rumanian Borders.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 23.—Marshal Klementi E. Voroshilov, soviet commissar of war, accompanied by Gen. Ivan Fedko, his deputy, and Gen. B. H. Shaposhnikov, chief of general staf, left Moscow today aboard a special train to inspect the so-called Stalin line of fortifications along the Polish and Rumanian frontiers.

K. E. Voroshilov.

Gen. Timoshenko, commander of the Kiev military district, who recently visited Moscow to report on construction of the Stalin line, will join Marshal Voroshilov at Kiev. The special train will travel fifty miles through the fortifications along a camouflaged line.

It is reported that most of the 325,000 members of forced labor gangs employed in construction of the fortifications have been sent to work on the Volga-Don canal. The remainder were transported to the far north where the timber industry again has fallen far behind in production.

Two hundred selected officers from two far eastern military districts have arrived in Moscow to undergo a special course of instruction by the general staf. They range in age from 22 to 26 years. Many of them already have obtained the rank of major and colonel as a result of recent purges.

An important decree aiming to renew the morale and discipline of the Red army has been prepared by Marshal Voroshilov. Hereafter political commissars will be appointed from the officers' corps. Formerly they had been chosen from the ranks and held equal authority with the commander.

BRITISH SEIZE 2 IRISH GIRLS; FIND BOMBS IN HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Manchester police today arrested two Irish sisters, 18 and 22 years old, on charges of illegal possession of 100 pounds of explosives, including bombs. The explosives were found beneath the flooring of their house. The girls were ordered held until Wednesday, pending an investigation of bombing outrages which have been blamed upon Irish Republican extremists. A system of guards for government buildings, public utilities services, railroads, seaports, and airfields has been established. Guards have been increased at the royal residence of King George VI. at Sandringham.

CUBA ARRESTS 16 SPY SUSPECTS AT U. S. NAVAL BASE

Japanese Called Leader of Group of Aliens.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUANTANAMO, Cuba, Jan. 23.—Saseyuta Iniki and fifteen other Japanese and Germans were arrested here today. The police charged they were members of a group of spies sent here to watch movements of the American fleet which is concentrated in Guantanamo bay for Caribbean maneuvers.

Iniki, who was called the leader of the group, was arrested by Cuban army intelligence service agents. He denied the spy charges. He said he was an official agent of the Japanese government on a commercial mission to buy Cuban rum, liquors, and alcohol. His companions refused to answer questions.

Fail to Win Release.

Efforts of the Japanese minister in Havana to obtain the release of Iniki and his companions failed. They will be taken to Havana tomorrow.

James B. Canel, special correspondent for the Havas News service, who arrived here from New York by plane this morning to cover the fleet exercises, was arrested and his newspaper credentials confiscated. Two hours after his arrest he was released and put aboard a train by two soldiers after promising not to return to this city.

The Cuban intelligence service, cooperating with American detectives, has established extraordinary vigilance throughout Guantanamo and nearby Caimamera.

Shore Leaves Recalled.

Two thousand sailors who had landed at Guantanamo on shore leave were recalled to their vessels immediately after the arrest of the alleged spies.

Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of the army and Cuba's "strong man," tonight ordered the army commander of Oriente province to hasten to Guantanamo and arrest every foreigner suspected of being a spy and to watch all foreigners, especially those of Japanese, German, and Italian origin.

Batista also ordered the army commander to keep an eye on other persons who came here recently. Their unexplainable presence was said to have caused great concern among both Cuban and American authorities at the Guantanamo naval base.

ORDERS SCHOOL HEADS TO REDUCE COSTS BY $605,000

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, yesterday called upon department heads to reduce expenditures in the educational fund by $605,000. The reduction is necessary, he said, to conform with an estimated pegged tax levy of $47,500,000 for 1939.

The proposed educational fund for 1939 now stands at $55,895,416. This includes revenue from the tax levy and other sources such as school property rentals and state funds. In 1938 the school board operated on a pegged tax levy of $45,000,000.

The increase in the tax levy for 1939, Mr. McCahey explains, is due to necessary school improvements and additional teachers in the schools and junior colleges. The board's share of state motor fuel taxes has been reduced $1,000,000 by relief needs this year, he said.

Additional expenditures required for 1939 because of increased student enrollment include:

Salaries for 583 new teachers....	$1,050,000
Automatic teacher salary increases	300,000
Additional educational supplies....	245,000
Teachers' retirement fund.........	25,000
Sight saving classes..............	100,000

Mr. McCahey pointed out the budget committee also has included several proposals submitted by civic groups and parent teacher organizations which entail an additional $720,000 in expenditures.

SUES BANK AFTER BEING SWINDLED BY AN EMPLOYE

August Dahlberg, 81 years old, 1510 West 71st street, filed suit yesterday in Circuit court for $2,337 against the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, 815 West 63d street. He charged he was defrauded of his life savings as a bank employé.

The suit, prepared by Attorney Patrick J. Murray, states that Dahlberg purchased a $3,000 mortgage at the bank on Jan. 27, 1937. He received a trust deed, a guarantee policy, and a note for $3,000 with six coupons attached, according to the bill.

Later, the suit declares, the bank notified Dahlberg that the notes and coupons were forged by an employé.

WARSHIP RUSHES TO AID AMERICANS PERILED IN SPAIN

Barcelona Citizens Begin Exodus as Foe Nears.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 23.—The United States cruiser Omaha tonight steamed under forced draft toward Barcelona to rescue Americans in the threatened capital of loyalist Spain.

One of Generalissimo Franco's three rebel armies was reported besieging the village of San Boy, nine and a half miles southwest of Barcelona. Previously the rebels had captured the mountain position of Olesa de Bonesvalls. In the southern sector the rebels had taken Sitges, "the Hollywood of Spain," and advanced on Castell de Fels.

In the central sector the rebels claimed the capture of Martorell. [This was denied by the loyalists.] A third rebel column was reported attacking Manresa, twenty-five miles northwest of Barcelona.

The loyalist government ordered the mass evacuation of Barcelona except for defending militiamen and persons working on fortifications in the outer ring of suburbs.

Cruiser to Arrive today.

The cruiser Omaha sailed from Villafranche, on the French Riviera. Capt. Wallace Lind expected to reach the Spanish coast at 10 a. m. tomorrow [4 a. m. Chicago time]. The warship will anchor off Caldetas, 24 miles up the coast from Barcelona.

There are about 150 Americans in the Barcelona area and possibly 200 in Catalonia. Most of them are Filipinos and Porto Ricans who planned to remain. It was expected that only about thirty Americans would leave.

Walter D. Thurston, American charge d'affaires in Barcelona, warned Americans that they stayed in the war zone at their own risk and advised them they should make use of the means of escape at their disposal now.

Embassy Farther North.

The Americans were asked to assemble at Caldetas. The town was chosen because of the danger of attempting to embark in the Barcelona port zone which has been under almost constant aerial bombardment in recent days. Highway and rail transportation also are open from Caldetas to France.

The American embassy and consulate now are located at Caldetas. Thurston is counselor of the embassy and has been chargé d'affaires during the absence of Ambassador Claude G. Bowers, who has made his headquarters at St. Jean de Luz, France, since the Spanish civil war began in 1936.

Great Britain, too, has made preparations for the evacuation of 200 British citizens from Barcelona and is in a positon to assist in the general evacuation of Spanish citizens.

May Offer Aid of Fleet.

The British cruiser Devonshire and the destroyer Greyhound were cruising off Barcelona. Their officers kept in touch with Gibraltar, where a British fleet arrived on a Mediterranean cruise.

Reports reaching Perpignan said that the loyalist government planned to move to Gerona or Figueras, near the French frontier, if Barcelona were in danger of capture by the rebels. However, officials in Barcelona asserted the government would remain there. It was not denied that many government archives already had been sent to the foothills of the Pyrenees in northern Catalonia and to the southern section of loyalist Spain.

[Numerous reports reached France asserting President Manuel Azana had gone to Valencia and that plans had been laid for a quick escape by Premier Juan Negrin, President Luis Companys of Catalonia, and other officials should Barcelona fall. It was asserted some officials already had fled Barcelona.]

Declare Full Martial Law.

The separated areas of loyalist Spain were put under full martial law, transferring all civil authority to the military. In the Madrid-Valencia area Gen. José Miaja, the hero of the Madrid siege, is in command. The rebel blockade by sea and air has practically halted transportation between Barcelona and Valencia.

Although the order was given for mass evacuation of Barcelona, it was believed that the exodus would begin with the removal only of women, children, and feeble persons. It was expected they would find shelter in towns of the mountainous north and that some would receive permission to enter France.

Six additional squads of French mobile guards were moved into the Perpignan area to reënforce border patrols against any concerted refugee movements. French army officials were said to be considering sending detachments of troops to the region if the situation should become serious.

Halt Industries in Barcelona.

Numerous deserters from the government forces in the Pyrenees were among the great numbers of refugees crossing into France.

In Barcelona all industries except those essential to the defense of the city were shut down today and the released workers—men and women—were sent to dig trenches and build fortifications.

The city was under almost constant aerial bombardment. Five British ships in the port zone were hit and two officers were killed. The steamer African Mariner, which was hit yesterday, was sinking. The others hit were the Dover Abbey, Stanbrook, Thorpe Bay, and Huntress.

The aerial attacks have seriously curtailed Barcelona's food supplies and also have impaired telephone and electricity services. In spite of the great material damage by the aerial bombs, the casualty list of today's eleven raids was reported to be thirty-two persons dead and 100 wounded. The raids began last Saturday.

Prepare for Last Stand.

BARCELONA, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Indications of a bitter end defense of Barcelona grew today as the government ordered all civilians unable to help to leave the capital.

Many feared they would be put to death if captured by the rebels, and they preferred to die fighting. Able bodied civilians, including women, worked on fortifications and dug trenches.

The severe strain of a month of uncertainty, deepened by three days of virtually continuous air raids, was shown clearly by the drawn, anxious appearance of Barcelona's citizenry. A constant shriek of warning sirens was mingled with the sound of anti-aircraft batteries. Army trucks, ambulances, and war machines dashed through the streets.

Civilians fleeing the city packed their belongings and moved along streets where harried women were bundling records from public offices into available conveyances, or where clerks were preparing to leave offices.

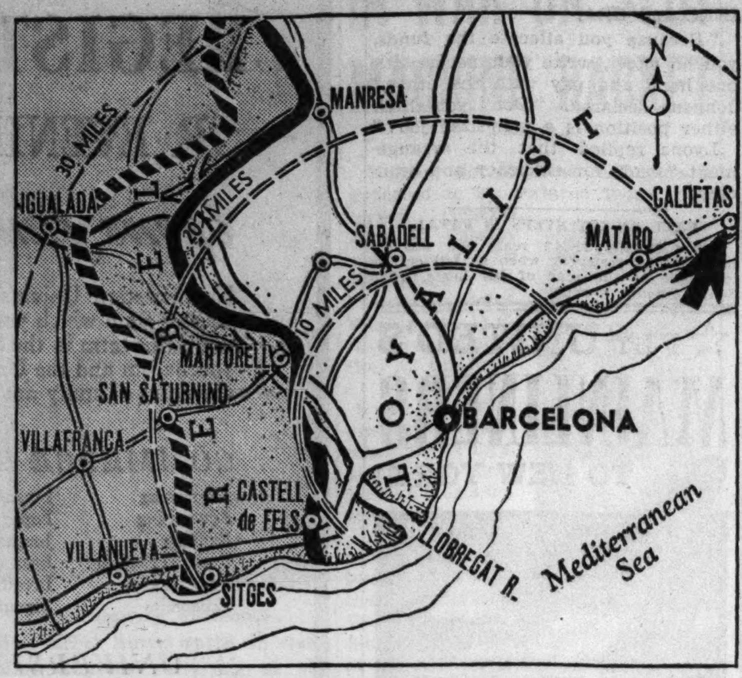
Refugees moved toward roads leading to the north, some carrying bundles or homemade knapsacks, some riding in crude peasant carts with whatever treasured possessions and food they were able to pack.

SMOKE ROUTS HOTEL GUESTS.

Smoke routed several guests from their rooms in the Hotel Coolidge, 2950 Jackson boulevard, last night when fire broke out in a basement storeroom.

Rebels Close In on Barcelona

(Story in adjoining column.)



Spanish rebels yesterday reported advances which brought them within 9½ miles of Barcelona. They claimed the capture of Martorell and said they were attacking Manresa. The heavy black line locates the front and heavy dotted line indicates the extent of the rebel advance since Sunday. Arrow locates town where United States cruiser Omaha is to pick up Americans fleeing Barcelona.

SPANISH WAR SWIRLS AROUND ARTISTS' SPOT KNOWN TO CHICAGOANS

The fighting around Sitges in the Spanish war recalled the gay little seaport town to many Chicagoans who have traveled in Spain. Sitges is internationally known as an artists' resort, and enjoys the title of the Hollywood of Spain. Plans have been afoot for a number of years to make Sitges the Spanish movie capital. A number of Americans have homes along Sitges' golden beach. Among them are the Chauncey McCormicks, who have a small place in the vicinity. They have not seen it in years.

WINDSORS TAKE UP RESIDENCE IN NEW PARIS HOME

PARIS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The duke and duchess of Windsor returned by train from the Riviera today and settled down in their new Paris home—a comparatively modest but comfortable house in the fashionable west end of Paris.

The former King Edward VIII. of Great Britain and his American-born wife have rented the house for two years, by far the longest period they have taken any residence since their marriage on June 3, 1937. They have an option to renew the lease for a longer time.

The house, at 24 Boulevard Suchet, overlooking the Bois de Boulogne, is owned by the Comtesse de Sabini and has just been refinished. It was built in 1932 and has been valued at $85,000. It has three stories, with four main rooms on the first floor, three on the second and servants' quarters on the third.

HITLER DEMANDS CZECHS GIVE UP RUSSIA AS ALLY

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany and his foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, have demanded Czecho-Slovakia renounce immediately her mutual assistance pact with soviet Russia, reliable Prague circles reported today.

Germany also demanded that Czecho-Slovakia join the anti-communist pact, which now includes Hungary, Germany, Italy, and Japan, and that she prepare for closer military coöperation with the reich.

HITLER AVENGES U. S. 'SLURS' WITH A FILM BOYCOTT

Movies Made in Hollywood Frowned Upon.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A source close to Adolf Hitler's government tonight reported that the number of American films shown in German theaters had been cut sharply in retaliation for "incessant agitation" against Germany.

This source summed up what amounted to a tacit boycott of American films as follows:

"Incessant agitation against the third reich in the United States, which, among other things, has hampered the showing of the Olympics film otherwise received throughout the world with the greatest applause and which forced Hollywood film artists to sign an inflammatory declaration against Germany, has brought an understandable reaction in the film industry in Germany.

Reports Decline in Films.

"It is pointed out that the American film industry stands under predominating Jewish influence and it may be stated that the number of American films in Germany has declined."

For the first time in years, none of the first run theaters in Berlin is showing an American picture. Two first run French films are being shown.

[Leni Riefenstahl, German film actress and producer, announced Jan. 7 in Los Angeles that the American public would not see the film of the 1936 Olympic games which she produced. "The pictures of the sports events," she said, "will not be shown here as the motion picture industry is controled, both in production and distribution, by men who are opposed to Germany's political activities.")

Rublee to Return to Berlin.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The intergovernmental refugee committee today authorized its American director, George Rublee, to return to Berlin to resume negotiations for emigration of Jews from Germany. He came here for a meeting of the refugee organization's steering committee after having conferred with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht in Berlin until the German financial expert recently was removed as president of the Reichsbank.

Order Report on All Cases Pending in Federal Court

United States District Attorney William J. Campbell yesterday requested that a report on all criminal and civil cases pending in the District court here be forwarded to the department of justice in Washington. The district attorney, who is now in Washington, directed his staf to file similar reports every three months in compliance with an order of Attorney General Frank Murphy.

FRANCE AGREES NOT TO BAR REBEL VICTORY IN SPAIN

Deals for Nazi Help in Pacifying Italy.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—France was reported to have agreed to do nothing to prevent a rebel victory in Spain in exchange for a German promise to press Italy into halting the Fascist campaign for slices of France's African empire.

Julio Alvarez del Vayo.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet had a surprise meeting with the German ambassador, Count Johannes von Welczect, at the foreign ministry tonight at which the agreement was said to have been reached.

The conference followed closely the appeals of the Spanish government's foreign minister, Julio Alvarez del Vayo, for French help in caring for thousands of refugees and soldiers if Catalonia is overrun by the rebel armies.

Asks Opening of Frontier.

Alvarez del Vayo asked specifically that the border be opened to thousands of civilians. This put the Paris government in a difficult position. It would involve a large financial outlay. Refusal would bring complaints from French sympathizers with the loyalists. The refugees later would be sent to the southern zone of Spanish loyalist territory, it was reported.

Official circles guarded the Bonnet-Von-Welczeck interview with great secrecy, but sources close to the government said an agreement had been reached by which Bonnet would guarantee in his speech on foreign affairs in the chamber of deputies tomorrow that France would stand by her policy of nonintervention in Spain.

May Send Agent to Burgos.

In return, the German ambassador promised that Reichsfuehrer Hitler would find some means of bringing his ally, Premier Mussolini of Italy, to terms with France.

Diplomatic quarters reported, meanwhile, that France had decided tentatively to send a representative to rebel Spain.

The cabinet was understood to have favorably received a suggestion by Foreign Minister Bonnet that France must be represented at Gen. Franco's capital, Burgos, if she is to salvage anything out of a rebel victory. Diplomats said a French agent at least could work to offset Italian and German influence.

LEADERS LINE UP FOR DEMOCRATS' MAYORAL RACE

O'Brien Backs Courtney; Labor Group Assails Him

BY PARKE BROWN.

Battle lines for the Democratic mayoral primary began to take on their final form yesterday with the issuance of two formal statements and further evidence of the gradual changes of allegiance among leaders of influence in many wards.

The primary is five weeks from today. It is expected that this week will see the final touches put on the regular organization, which is supporting Mayor Kelly, and the independent organization supporting State's Attorney Courtney, which is being built up with part of the Horner-Courtney organization of 1936 as its foundation.

Labor League Hits Courtney.

One of the statements which may affect the final trend in organization development was issued by Labor's Nonpartisan league of Cook county. It was based on a cry of "Courtney must be defeated!" and included a severe attack on the prosecutor. It was not an indorsement of Mayor Kelly, but is expected to throw him a big vote.

The other statement was issued by Martin J. O'Brien, Horner job holder and committeeman of the 29th ward, which followed a mysterious silence that began after O'Brien returned last Saturday from an unsuccessful effort to talk to Gov. Horner at Miami Beach, Fla. Minus any definite personal instructions from his superior, O'Brien announced he would continue his old alignment with Courtney.

Courtney Record called "Myth."

The statement of the local branch of Labor's Nonpartisan league, which described itself as composed of both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions and neighborhood groups with a membership of more than 100,000 workers, was made public by Harry W. Deck, executive director. Following are some extracts:

"We view skeptically any claim that Mr. Courtney offers any possibility of furnishing honest, progressive and efficient municipal leadership.

"Thorough consideration of every aspect of Mr. Courtney's public career convinces us that he is a routine politician who has been built up as a Lochinvar by an astute publicity campaign on the part of a large Republican newspaper; that his record is almost entirely a fabrication of newspaper myths; that he is being utilized as the spearhead of a coalition of conservative Republicans and Old Deal Democrats endeavoring to attain on a local scale in Chicago a consolidation of backward-looking forces similar to that now trying to block the social program of President Roosevelt in the congress of the United States."

Statement Issued by O'Brien.

Committeeman O'Brien, who holds the office of public administrator of Cook county under Gov. Horner, avoided talking to reporters on Saturday and Sunday. He and State's Attorney Courtney conferred with others about the statement he would issue.

The statement was issued from Courtney headquarters, which was the authority for the wording that O'Brien "saw" the governor.

"It is my intention," read the O'Brien statement, "to devote my energies to the Courtney campaign throughout the remainder of the Democrtic primary. Both in the 29th ward and in an organization capacity at the downtown headquarters, I intend to give as much of my time as may be necessary toward Tom Courtney's nomination.

"In doing so I feel I am following the identical line of action the governor would follow if he were physically able to participate in this primary contest."

Touches on Big Question.

That touched on the big question of the campaign up to this time. The only instructions issued to the rank and file of the Horner following have been to remain neutral.

The results of the instructions were shown clearly by an inquiry based on a recent confidential announcement from Courtney headquarters that became public. It consisted of the list of so-called ward committeemen constituting the frame work of the Courtney organization. This revealed that among the many Horner ward leaders missing from the list there were many who probably will be supporting Mayor Kelly before Feb. 28.

A comparison was made between the Horner-Courtney ward committee list of 1938 and the present Courtney campaign list. Only 21 of the fifty leaders of 1938 appear on the new list and one of those already has said that his name was used without his authority.

Eleven 1938 Leaders Missing.

Eleven Horner appointees listed as ward leaders in 1938 are missing from the 1939 roster. So also are three ward leaders considered Horner men but not holding state positions. Inquiry by telephone among these fourteen men indicates that nearly all of them declined places on the Courtney committee, that some of them are waiting for some real expression of the governor's wishes and that some of them already have determined to support Mayor Kelly and are withholding their declarations.

In filling the vacancies on their committee, the Courtney management has named six members of his staf and two of his office employés to fill places formerly held by Horner appointees.

Framed in Snow

Miss Helen Johnson, peeking through her snowblown window at 2244 Cleveland avenue during yesterday's storm.

The heaviest snowfall of the season covered the city last night and continued, with traces of sleet, into the morning. The storm blew across the north central states from Kansas. Highway travel was hazardous and activity at Chicago airport was halted except for one flight to the west.

Two and a half inches of snow fell from midafternoon to early evening. Then it lessened. C. A. Donnel, government forecaster, said he expected the storm to end this morning. Fair weather is predicted for tomorrow.

Surface and elevated lines reported little trouble. Bus drivers shared the discomfiture of private motorists on the ice streets. Incoming airliners were held in outlying cities and passengers completed their trips by train.

2 INVENT A WIND THAT WILL BLOW OUT LIGHTNING

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Invention of a blast of magnetic wind that will blow out a flash of man made lightning was announced to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers today.

These lightning flashes occur on high voltage power lines when, in emergency, a circuit breaker opens. Lightning leaps in a short, hot arc across the gap between the open ends of the circuit. It makes the noise of thunder and may fill a workroom with fumes.

The new magnetic wind is based on the fact that magnetism is the twin of electricity and just as quick. It reduces the lightning flash to hardly more than a wisp of flame, chokes the thunder to a puny bang, and permits no great smell. The development was reported by L. R. Ludwig and G. G. Grissinger of the Westinghouse company, East Pittsburgh.

SMASH 1 PARTY RULE OF SCHOOLS, GREEN DEMANDS

Tells Voters Monopoly Fosters Corruption.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Charging that Democratic monopoly of local government has corrupted the Chicago public school system, Dwight H. Green last night outlined the remedies he will apply if elected mayor. He is the regular organization candidate for the Republican mayoral nomination.

Green, a former United States district attorney, spoke over radio station WMAQ in the third of a series of Monday night broadcasts sponsored by the Committee of Ten Thousand, composed of independent voters.

"If the school system is to be released from Democratic domination," said Green, "it must be done by the breaking up of the Democratic monopoly in government in Chicago.

Charges Flagrant Abuses.

"It can be accomplished only by the building of a strong Republican opposition to the all-powerful Democratic monopoly. What Democratic public official has raised his voice in protest against flagrant abuses in our educational system during the last six years? The answer is—None!"

Only after one-party rule is smashed can his program to make Chicago schools the world's finest be carried out, Green declared.

"Let me go on record here, without reservations," he said. "When I am elected mayor, I will appoint to the board of education the finest and highest type of men and women in the field of education—who are free and independent politically.

"I will appoint as superintendent the most qualified and best suited educator available.

Pledges Merit System.

"I will restore the merit system and reward principals, school teachers, and all other employés only upon their records of achievement. It shall be my purpose to restore teachers' salaries to former levels, to bring back the ten-month school term, to relieve overcrowded classes, and to insist upon a highly trained personnel.

"I shall insist upon centrally located vocational schools. I shall extend facilities for adult education. I shall see to it that every dollar collected in taxes for educational purposes shall be so used."

After the broadcast, Green spoke in his home ward, the 46th. Judge Oscar F. Nelson, G. O. P. leader, introduced him to an estimated 1,000 persons. The meeting was held in Belmont hall, Belmont avenue and Clark street.

DECIDE TO SEEK NEW ASSEMBLY QUIZ ON RELIEF

G. O. P. Leaders Insist on Cutting Costs.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—House Republican leaders decided tonight to recommend another legislative investigation of relief in Illinois.

The leaders who agree to sponsor the inquiry are convinced that waste is prevalent under the present setup of administering funds to the jobless, and that the state cannot carry its $3,900,000 monthly contribution much longer, and that a start toward cutting down must be made.

Immediate results must be had, it was decided at the meeting in Speaker Hugh Cross' office, attended by Leo M. Lyons, an official of both the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and of the Chicago Relief administration.

Seek Joint Committee.

Accordingly, the effort will be made to obtain approval of both senate and house to appointment of a joint committee which will report back by March 15.

In the meantime, the leaders favor amendment of a senate bill, now pending in the house, to continue the present monthly load of $3,900,000 until May 1. As passed by the Democratic senate, the bill reads July 1.

Those who attended tonight's meeting believe that some way can be found to cut down relief expenditures by March 15.

"But if that is so, why wasn't it done before?" inquired Reed F. Cutler of Lewiston.

"It wasn't done," replied Calvin T. Johnson of Belleville, "because of the politics in the situation. Every one who had a hand in administering it—throughout the whole nation—wanted to use the system to get votes." Johnson will offer the amendment to the senate bill tomorrow.

The Belleville representative criticized Lyons because he is holding two jobs—executive secretary of the IERC and CRA.

"Because you allocate the funds, you, in effect, write your needs with one hand and pay with the other," Johnson declared. "Don't you think either position is a man-sized job?"

Lyons replied that the arrangement "made for efficiency and economy."

FALL ON ICY STEPS IS FATAL.

WOMAN PATIENT STABS NURSE IN EVANSTON HOME

Uses Carving Knife for Mad Attack.

A young Evanston woman, under treatment for a nervous disorder, suddenly seized a carving knife yesterday and slashed her maid. Then she stabbed and seriously wounded another woman who had been caring for her.

The stabber is Miss Ellen M. Coolidge, 28 years old, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Coolidge, who live at 2400 Harrison street, Evanston. Dr. Coolidge is a dentist with offices at 25 East Washington street.

Runs Next Door for Aid.

The seriously wounded woman is Mrs. Jeanne Mather, 45, of 1303 Elmwood avenue, Evanston. With the knife imbedded in her back, Mrs. Mather ran next door to summon the police. She refused medical aid, but policemen forcibly took her to the Evanston hospital.

According to the story told Sergt. Anton Schultz and Policeman George Gunnerson, Mrs. Mather had been treating Miss Coolidge at her home every afternoon for nine months. Mrs. Mather was attempting to cure Miss Coolidge by faith.

Maid Hears Cry for Help.

Miss Coolidge left her room yesterday afternoon and got a carving knife from the dining room. Going to the living room, she started for Mrs. Mather, who screamed for help.

Miss Evelyn Buchholz, 19, a maid, who was in the basement ironing, heard the commotion and rushed upstairs. Miss Coolidge slashed at her, cutting the maid's thumb. Then she stabbed Mrs. Mather in the back under the right shoulder.

Mrs. Mather ran next door to the home of Edward M. Ladd, suburban newspaper publisher. His son, Stephen, 22, alone in the house, opened the door. Mrs. Mather asked to use the telephone.

Young Ladd offered to summon a physician. When Mrs. Mather refused, according to Sergt. Schultz, Ladd drew out the knife. Mrs. Mather meanwhile had telephoned for the police. They called an ambulance and took her to the hospital.

Returning to the Coolidge home, the police were met at the door by Miss Coolidge.

"I'm the one who did it," she cried. "I'm the one you're looking for. I believed it was up to me to kill her."

The police took her to the Psychopathic hospital.

Miss Coolidge, a slight woman, was taken to the Kenilworth sanitarium on Oct. 27, 1936. Policeman Gunnerson, who took her there, said she was considered a mental case.

Dr. Coolidge was at his office at the time of the tragedy. His wife had gone horseback riding, police said.

LEGISLATORS JOIN IN WAR ON SLOT MACHINE RACKET

Edward P. Saltiel.

War on slot machine racketeers is expected to be declared today. Attorney General John E. Cassidy returned to Springfield yesterday from Washington, D. C. He has announced that all the force of his office will be thrown against the slot machine rings, blamed for eight recent gang murders.

T. P. Sullivan, head of the state bureau of investigation, acting on Cassidy's orders, has completed a preliminary survey of the state's 102 counties. He is said to have found evidence of slot machine racketeering in virtually all the counties.

Cassidy received word yesterday that his war on slot machines would get hearty support in the legislature. [Legislative committees have authority to subpena books and records from prosecuting and other officials. Such committees could inquire into official laxity.'

Legislative support was promised yesterday by two Democratic and two Republican legislators. They are Representative Edward P. Saltiel [R., Chicago], chairman of the house judiciary committee; Representative Joseph Sam Perry [D., Wheaton]; Representative Drennan J. Slater [R., Evanston], and Senator Nicholas L. Hubbard [D., Mount Pulaski].

"Slot machines are public enemies," Saltiel said yesterday. "They don't even come under the heading of gambling. In gambling the player theoretically has a chance."

Representative Perry echoed Saltiel's sentiment. In 1937 Perry sought the impeachment of Judge Edwin L. Wilson of the Will county Circuit court, because Wilson issued an injunction restraining officials from wiping out the racket in the county.

Slater said the house should determine whether the laws against slot machines are being ignored. Senator Hubbard promised his help.

All four legislators agreed that Democrats and Republicans should band for a nonpartisan inquiry. Perry said both Republican and Democratic officials doubtless are being subsidized or at least compromised by the slot machine gangs.

"So why be partisan about the matter?" he asked.

GRAND JURY GETS BOOKIE SLAYING DATA TOMORROW

Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis will go before the grand jury tomorrow to present evidence concerning the holdup slaying last Feb. 10 of John Delcourt, 49 years old, a handbook operator, in an alley between Lowe and Union avenues.

Peter [Husk] Biron, 22 years old, 5518 Dorchester avenue, and Charles McCarthy, 21, of 5158 Morgan street, arrested Sunday, have confessed their part in the crime. They told Sergt. Jack Hanrahan that Stanton Cooke, 21, alias Roger McPatrick, was with them. Cooke, now in the county jail awaiting transfer to Joliet, is already under sentence of one year to life on a robbery charge. He also was identified by Delcourt's daughter, Hazel, as having been near the Delcourt residence at 6604 Lowe avenue just before the shooting. Cooke denies he took part in the fatal robbery. Biron has admitted firing the shot.

KIDNAP ANSWER FROM HUMPHREYS EXPECTED TODAY

Attack on Motive of His Union Accuser Looms.

Murray Humphreys, once the No. 1 Chicago public enemy, is expected to take the witness stand today at his income tax hearing.

Because he asked the United States board of tax appeals for the hearing, he has the privilege of explaining why he doesn't think he owes $37,165 the government has ordered him to pay. But it was reported last night that he would talk about Steve C. Sumner instead, explaining what he thinks Sumner's motive was in accusing him of collecting the $50,000 Sumner paid to free Robert G. Fitchie from kidnapers.

Ransom Basis of Charge.

Sumner, who is 89 years old, is secretary of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union. Fitchie is president. The government contends that Humphreys should have reported the $50,000 as income, along with the money government men say he kept in two bank accounts held in assumed names.

Humphreys' brother, Ernie, tried to explain about the bank accounts yesterday. He said he had assumed the name of Jack Wright, the name the government insists was Murray Humphreys' alias. Ernie told of cashing checks for Murray through the two bank accounts in question.

One of these, he said, was maintained by Lefty Leventhal, owner of a twine and paper company at 3354 Ogden avenue, in the name of M. L. Brunswick. The fact that Murray Humphreys' checks went through both accounts, Ernie said, was no indication that they were Murray's accounts.

If Ernie Humphreys kept on the subject yesterday, few of the other witnesses did. Pat Roche, former chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, said he didn't believe Humphreys had anything to do with the kidnaping of Fitchie in 1931.

Denies Humphreys Slapped Him.

Police Lieutenant John Howe defined a racketeer as a graduate hoodlum. Asked if Humphreys had ever slapped his face at the detective bureau, he replied, "The answer is definitly no." He ventured the opinion that 80,000 policemen couldn't stop Chicago's gambling. Howe was called by the government to testify that he once arrested Humphreys with hoodlums.

Several witnesses blamed Sumner for trouble in the dairy business. There was also considerable testimony about the cleaning and dyeing business with which Humphreys was connected at the time the government says he underpaid his income tax.

There was a long discussion on truth by Jerry Donovan, secretary and treasurer of the Soda and Mineral Water Drivers' union, Judge Bolon B. Turner, who is presiding, and John D. Kiley, counsel for the internal revenue department, whose claim Humphreys is appealing. They decided there's no such thing as an honest lie.

The government charges that Humphreys had a financial interest in the New Drexel Cleaners and Dyers. Mrs. Jere Nichols of 5821 Wabash avenue, who was a bookkeeper for the firm, said her books showed no records of ownership.

Tax Case Witnesses

(Story in adjoining column.)

Ernie Humphreys and Mrs. Jere Nichols, who testified yesterday in Murray Humphreys' tax appeal hearing.

Everybody Gets Locked Up in Humphreys Tax Hearing

Judge Bolon B. Turner worked the attorneys overtime yesterday in the Murray Humphreys income tax case. When the hearing was adjourned at 7 p. m. in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals building at 1212 Lake Shore drive attorneys, witnesses, and the judge found that the custodian had locked them in and gone home. Hostilities were forgotten. Every one searched until an unlocked back door was found.

Cuban Mayor Found Slain in Car; Blame Politics

HAVANA, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The body of Pedro Acosta, mayor of Marianao, was found today in an automobile abandoned on the outskirts of Havana. There was a gunshot wound in the back of the head. Police assumed it was a political crime. Acosta was a liberal.

MORAN AND AIDS FACE NEW TRIAL IN FORGERY PLOT

George [Bugs] Moran, prohibition gang leader, and two associates in an alleged plot to forge $500,000 in spurious express money orders, will be retried Feb. 6, Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright said yesterday. The others are Frank Parker, once known as the airplane bootlegger, and Frank Hicketts, who served an eight year prison term for murder.

Last Friday a jury in Criminal court acquitted them on a charge of forging a $50 American Express company traveler's check which was passed in a loop shoe store. The trial lasted more than two weeks. Prosecutor Wright said the state would try them on another forgery indictment. The evidence, he said, would be the same as in the first trial.

Judge James F. Fardy, who presided at the first trial, set the new trial date after defense attorneys had asked for a month's continuance. It was considered likely that the trial may last over Feb. 14, the anniversary of the 1929 St Valentine's day massacre of Moran's gang.

VISION OF VICTIM TORMENTS KILLER INTO CONFESSION

Adam Schasky couldn't sleep. For eleven nights, in his cell at the Albany Park police station, he was tormented by the vision of a man dressed as a railroad section hand. Yesterday he summoned Sergt. Harry Larson and Capt. Thomas Connelly and confessed a murder committed nearly twenty years ago.

Schasky said he shot a section hand, whose name he did not know, in a holdup near Minneapolis in 1920. Shortly afterward he was sent to Stillwater, Minn., penitentiary for robbery. He served fourteen years. Since 1934 he has been at Vandalia, Ill., prison farm and in Waupun, Wis., prison.

Minnesota authorities were notified of Schasky's confession. He was seized here Jan. 12 on a charge of burglary after the fact. He was holding stolen watches and diamond rings for Mike Wojcik, the $40,000 ladder burglar who was arrested Jan. 10.

FALLS ON ICY WALK; DIES.

Injuries suffered Jan. 19 in a fall on the icy sidewalk caused the death yesterday in the County hospital of George Surma, 28 years old, 5217 South Fairfield avenue.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH? UNION LEADER GIVES AN ANSWER IN COURT

This colloquy on truth was heard at Murray Humphreys' income tax hearing yesterday when Jerry Donovan contradicted testimony by Steve Sumner:

John D. Kiley—Was Sumner ever known to tell anything but the truth? Donovan—I wouldn't say he always told the truth.

Kiley—Do you consider Sumner an honest man? Donovan—I wouldn't say he's honest on some statements he makes.

Kiley—Do you consider yourself always truthful? Donovan—I do not.

Judge Turner—What do you mean by an honest statement?

Donovan—Well, it might be an honest lie.

Judge Turner—Do you think there's any such thing as an honest lie? Donovan—No.

REFUGEE BRIDE AMENDS SUIT TO ONE FOR DIVORCE

Attorneys for Fred B. Blockert and his estranged wife, Miriam, announced yesterday the couple have reached an agreement in their marital difficulties. Under the settlement, Mrs. Blockert will amend her present suit for separate maintenance to one for divorce to be heard this fall. Blockert operates a linen importing business in the Drake hotel. His wife is the daughter of a Jewish lawyer in Vienna. She left Austria at the time of the German occupation last March and was married Oct. 1 to Blockert in London. They separated three weeks later.

VAST TAX STAMP FRAUD BARED BY U. S.; TEN SEIZED

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Ten persons, including a woman, were held today in one of the largest federal tax stamp frauds on record. It was estimated the frauds cost the government $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 a year in the metropolitan area here in the last three years.

An investigation, begun last May by federal agents, revealed a widespread ring engaged in buying canceled stamps for washing and resale. These stamps are affixed to real estate and stock transfers, steamship passenger lists, manifests, marine insurance policies, and all papers in transactions requiring federal taxes.

Assistant United States Attorney Powelson said the inquiry was begun when revenue from the sale of these stamps fell off sharply in the metropolitan area while rising in other parts of the country. Legitimate business organizations were used unwittingly by the washed stamp dealers, he said.

EX-KAISER GIVES WOOD AND CAKE TO POOR OF DOORN

DOORN, The Netherlands, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Firewood cut by former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany on his estate was among the gifts he and his wife, Princess Hermine, presented today to the fifty poorest Doorn families. Baskets containing birthday cake and other foodstuffs also were given to the poor to mark the beginning of festivities for the ex-ruler's 80th birthday next Friday. One crippled recipient told Wilhelm amid cheers that all hoped he would remain happy at Doorn for at least another 20 years.

FIRE DRIVES 15 TENANTS OUT.

Fifteen tenants were driven into the street early yesterday by a small fire in a three story building at 1402-08 Larrabee street.

PRESIDENT PICKS AMLIE, DEFEATED RADICAL, FOR I. C. C.

Member of Maverick Bloc While in Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today nominated Thomas R. Amlie of Wisconsin, an ultra radical ex-congressman who was defeated for the senate nomination on the Progressive ticket in last year's primary, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission. If confirmed by the senate he will receive $10,000 a year. His term will expire Dec. 31, 1945.

Thomas R. Amlie.

Amlie was named as a "minority" member of the bipartisan rate making and regulatory commission to succeed Balthazar H. Meyer, a Wisconsin Republican, whose last term expired on Dec. 31. Commissioner Meyer was appointed originally by President Taft in 1911.

Senate Caught Unawares.

Members of the senate were surprised and some of them amazed by the Amlie nomination. Even Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, a leader of the Progressive party which President Roosevelt recognized in making the appointment, said he had no advance knowledge of it.

Amlie represents the extreme left wing of the La Follette Progressive party, which was repudiated in the election last November. He was repudiated by members of his own party when he lost the Progressive nomination for the senate to Herman L. Ekern. Although the La Follettes favored Ekern against Amlie in the senate primary contest, Senator La Follette said he will support Amlie's appointment to the I. C. C.

Amlie long has been active in political realignment efforts looking toward the formation of a united front, the immediate goal of the communist party. In 1933 he was elected national chairman of the Farmer-Labor Political Federation. In 1935 he was named chairman of the American Commonwealth Federation.

Member of Radical Bloc.

In the house of representatives, where he served three terms, Amlie was a member of a bloc of radical extremists whose nominal leader was Representative Maury Maverick of Texas. Maverick was defeated for renomination.

In 1937 Amlie introduced what he termed a "human rights" amendment to the constitution. It provided for the complete socialization of business and industry. In 1939 he introduced a bill calling for establishment of an "industrial expansion administration" with dictatorial powers over all forms of production.

Most senators reserved comment on Amlie's nomination. Few seemed to know anything about him. Warren Austin [R., Vt.] said he will demand public hearings by the interstate commerce committee. Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] said a "vigorous effort should be made to stop Amlie's confirmation."

Widens Party Breach.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's nomination of Thomas R. Amlie to the interstate commerce commission today served to widen the rift already existing between the President and his party leaders in Wisconsin. In this, his home state, Amlie is regarded as one of the most extreme radical leaders in the nation.

BAR TESTIMONY OF LASSER FROM SENATE RECORD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Members of the senate appropriations committee said today testimony on the relief bill by David Lasser, president of the Workers' alliance, had been stricken from the record because it was vituperative and insulting.

Lasser testified in support of a $1,050,000,000 relief appropriation. The committee voted for a house approved allotment of 725 millions, or 150 millions less than the sum asked by President Roosevelt.

COLDS
Help Ward Them Off This Winter with the "COLD-FIGHTING" VITAMIN A

New HIGH-VITAMIN Yeast now Gives You 6200 Units of this Vitamin Daily

If winter makes you an easy prey to severe colds that "hang on," you very likely need more of the important "COLD-FIGHTING" Vitamin A.

Start now to make sure of a good extra supply every day by eating the new Fleischmann's HIGH-VITAMIN Yeast.

Just 2 cakes of this new, improved yeast eaten daily give 6200 units of "COLD-FIGHTING" Vitamin A—all the average person needs (plus meals)—as well as Vitamin B and D, and a rich supply of the "VITALITY" Vitamin G.

You also get the helpful "BOOSTER ACTION" of fresh yeast. The yeast helps stimulate slow digestion. This better digestion helps your body take up the vitamins you eat more fully—gives more complete results than just vitamins alone.

Eat one cake of Fleischmann's HIGH-VITAMIN Yeast ½ hour before breakfast and one ½ hour before supper. Begin today!

CATHERINE BURNS.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Searching parties yesterday found the frozen bodies of Miss Catherine Burns, 20, and Martin B. Newell, 22, both of Syracuse, on Oneida lake, near Bridgeport.

Miss Burns was a daughter of Francis Burns, vice president and general manager of Loft, Inc., New York candy manufacturers.

The pair became separated from Newell's brother, the Rev. John P. Newell of Utica, during yesterday's storm. The three had gone to inspect "tip-ups" which they had placed on the ice for winter fishing.

REDS INSIST U. S. END ARMS BAR TO LOYALIST SPAIN

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Observing the fifteenth anniversary of the death of Lenin, 20,000 communists and sympathizers, filling Madison Square Garden tonight, signed a "collective telegram" to Washington urging an end of the arms embargo against loyalist Spain and heard party leaders warn that the country and the world faced a "serious offensive of reaction."

William Z. Foster, national chairman of the communist party; Israel Amter, state chairman, and James W. Ford assailed the Republican party, the Dies committee, the "financial oligarchy," the "poisonous priest in Detroit," and others as "attempting to lead the United States in fascism."

Amter said former President Hoover, William Randolph Hearst, Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, Father Charles E. Coughlin, and Representative Martin Dies, together with the "financial oligarchy," were prepared to "lower the American flag and raise the flag of Fascism in the United States."

PERKINS LETTER DEFENDING SELF IS READ IN HOUSE

Bridges Case Reviewed by Secretary.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today sent to congress her first official defense against charges that she has been guilty of neglect of duty in connection with her failure to deport Harry Bridges, west coast labor agitator, and other aliens with communistic connections.

Rep. J. P. Thomas, who asks Secretary Perkins' impeachment.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Mme. Perkins chose as her spokesman the woman chairman of the house labor committee, Mrs. Mary T. Norton [D., N. J.]. Mrs. Norton read a lengthy letter to the house which she received from the secretary of labor. Mme. Perkins declared that communism was "objectionable" to her. She denied the charges of the Dies committee on un-American activities that the labor department was guilty of almost unbelievable laxity in dealing with alien disturbers of the peace.

Letter Provokes Debate.

Reading of the letter provoked a warm debate in which Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] inquired of Mrs. Norton if she condoned the behavior of Bridges in preventing vessels by force from entering or departing from American ports.

"I know nothing about that," said Mrs. Norton tartly. "Only what I read in the press dispatches. They mean nothing."

"The news reports mean nothing?" repeated Hoffman.

"O, you read one thing in one paper and another in another," replied the lady from New Jersey.

Mrs. Norton finally admitted reluctantly that if it was true that Bridges used force to bar the movement of vessels, she would consider it a defiance of the government. She insisted that a case had not been proved against Bridges.

Two Defend Secretary.

Two members sprang to the defense of Secretary Perkins. They were Mrs. Caroline O'Day [D., N. Y.], close friend of the President's wife, and Representative James F. O'Connor [D., Mont.], known for his radical sympathies. Representative Sam Dickstein [D., N. Y.], presiding in the speaker's chair at the time, shut off several attempts of other members to criticize the secretary of labor. Dickstein has publicly condemned the Dies committee's findings.

An attentive listener to the Perkins letter was Representative J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. Y.], who has drafted a resolution calling for the impeachment of Mme. Perkins on the grounds of neglect of duty.

Thomas announced, after the house had recessed, that he would introduce his resolution tomorrow. It is a 40-page document, he revealed, containing a long list of actions and failures to take action by the labor secretary which prove, according to Thomas, her unfaithfulness to her oath of office.

"I suspect," said Thomas, "that an effort will be made to table the resolution by the Democratic majority. I do not believe, however, that any member of the house, no matter how partisan, can read this indictment of the secretary without conceding that it contains grounds for impeachment proceedings."

Mrs. Norton first read to the house a letter she had sent to Secretary Perkins in which she stated that many members of the house had asked her as chairman of the labor committee concerning the truth of the charges made by the Dies committee with respect to the administration of the immigration laws.

Asks for Information.

"I am deeply concerned that charges should be brought that the department of which you are the head is lax in deporting aliens who carry on propaganda hostile to our democratic institutions," Mrs. Norton wrote. "Since I am regretfully aware that you have had no opportunity to present your own report of the official history of the Bridges case to congress, I should appreciate a statement from you as to the facts in this case and the application of the law to them."

Secretary Perkins' answering letter began with an assurance that "communism or any other system of political thought which has as its object the destruction of our historic liberties and the form of government of a constitutional democracy is as objectionable to me as it is to you.

"I of course cannot agree to any charges that I have been guilty of neglect of duty in enforcing any statute of the United States," she continued. "It must be remembered, however, that the secretary of labor has been given no roving commission by congress to deport all aliens whose activities happen to be unpopular with many people."

Reviews Bridges Case.

Madame Perkins argued that in carrying out the immigration law the labor department should maintain "punctilious regard to the rights of individuals."

Reviewing the history of the Bridges case, she stated that Bridges was legally admitted to the United States in 1920. No complaint regarding his status in the United States was made until the longshoremen's strike in 1934, she declared. Her department was then called upon to deport Bridges.

"The various immigration acts do not forbid an alien to organize workers, lead strikes, induce fellow stevedores not to unload ships or engage in other trade union activities," Secretary Perkins wrote. "Nor can such actions be regarded as attempts to overthrow the government."

Proceedings were finally started in 1937 to deport Bridges, she wrote. But she has held up the hearings in the Bridges and all other alien communist cases, she declared, because of a Circuit Court of Appeals decision in the Strecker case involving a confessed member of the communist party.

Until the Supreme court hands down a final decision in the Strecker case, she plans no action in other cases, Secretary Perkins wrote, in order to avoid needless legal expense.

Contrary to the Dies committee findings, there is no evidence that Bridges has advocated the overthrow of the government or has advocated sabotage, Madame Perkins contended.

"I am as desirous as any member of congress to preserve our American institutions and to defend them from damage by aliens," she concluded. "I have not found anything in the Dies report which convinces me that I should not have postponed a deportation hearing in the face of my knowledge that deportation itself could not be effected until the conflict of decisions among the Circuit courts had been ultimately resolved by the highest tribunal."

WORKERS RUSH C. I. O. PICKET LINE TO GET BACK TO THEIR JOBS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 23.—(AP)—With a cry "Let's go," several employés of the Hubbard company rushed a C. I. O. dues collecting picket line today and entered the plant, police reported.

The workers had been turned back at the gates when they could not produce paid up membership cards in the Steel Workers' Organizing committee. They gathered across the street from the shovel plant, formed a wedge, and then rushed the picket line. None was seriously hurt, police said.

HAY WHILE THE MOON SHINES

By CALEB

IN A mathematical sense which holds some surprising possibilities, we are most of us men and women of leisure. Even on the very conservative basis of free time available only between seven and ten in the evening, the simple arithmetic of Leisure yields us out of each year no less than ten hundred and ninety-five hours—or a full month and a half.

Twelve and a half per cent of one's year—a margin that should produce some rather handsome dividends. Moreover, the margin enormously expands, the moment one adds the further fifteen full days represented by an extra morning hour liberated for leisure use. A total of two whole months out of every twelve, in short, becomes ours to do with as we please!

And there, in Hamlet's famous phrase, lies "the rub." For the transition from please to pleasure is so painless as to be instinctive; and instinct, the psychologists remind us, is the very antithesis.

The answer? For ninety-nine out of a hundred individuals, there is but one. Pleasure, by all means! And they can advance nine-and-ninety reasons, moreover, to justify it: the "daily grind," "all-work-and-no-play" . . . an impressive category. Reasons, frequently, that are in good standing. And yet—

"The crux of the whole matter," once commented a nationally famous advertising man, in discussing this question of Leisure, "is so simple, it's invariably overlooked. I can easily attribute half of all the useful, profitable information I have accumulated — information that has not only made me 'big money' in my business, but added to my cultural equipment as well—to the carefully selected reading I have done on daily rides as a commuter. Just that and nothing more! But I began the habit early, and I continue it still. It was the habit, planned in advance, that did the trick."

Famous instances of capitalized "free time" illuminate the whole field of biography. Courses that give leisure ample rewards are available in any sizeable city. From public library to private tutor, the ways are wide open; and self-education, self-development, are accessible as sunlight—to the seeker. At least a thousand non-redeemable hours of 1939 are, on this basis, even now at the disposal of anyone willing to make hay while the moon shines.

EXPELLED BOARD PICKS RIVAL AUTO UNION PRESIDENT

Completes Dual Setup in Warring Labor Ranks.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Schism in the C. I. O. affiliated auto workers' union became complete today when the seventeen members of its executive board, suspended last week by President Homer Martin, named an acting president to take the place of Martin, whom they have impeached. Their new leader is R. J. Thomas, regarded as a protégé of John L. Lewis, czar of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

R. J. Thomas.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Thomas immediately appointed a committee of eight to go to Washington for a conference with Lewis.

"We want to find out definitly if the C. I. O. is going to support us as the legal board of the U. A. W. A." he said.

Two Complete Setups.

The board action today leaves the United Automobile Workers of America, probably the third most powerful union in the C. I. O., with two presidents, two executive boards, two headquarters, and calls out for two conventions of members at which the leaders' differences will be submitted to the rank and file.

Martin's fight with the executive board, smoothed over last summer by Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman, appointed by Lewis as mediators, broke out afresh two weeks ago.

The ex-preacher who rose to leadership of the automobile workers opened the battle with a declaration that he was seeking to purge the union of communist influences. Communists had obtained control of the executive board, he declared.

Martin has appointed Loren Hauser of Detroit as secretary-treasurer, the post he claimed was vacated by his suspension of George Addes, one of the insurgents.

Four Loyal to Martin.

Martin has four members of the original executive board on his side, against the 17 insurgents. The latter, after naming Thomas, voted to suspend Martin's four followers. Besides Houser, these are Irvan Cary of California, Frank Tucci of New York, and Lester Washburn, who called the labor holiday at Lansing which resulted in widespread criticism of Attorney General Frank Murphy, then governor of Michigan.

Late today the anti-Martin faction asked Circuit Judge Arthur Webster for an injunction restraining Martin from handling the union's funds or records. The requested injunction would restrain Martin from pursuing what it termed an "illegal agreement and conspiracy" with the Ford Motor company "to disrupt the union and establish a company dominated fake union," and from "conspiring" to destroy the union.

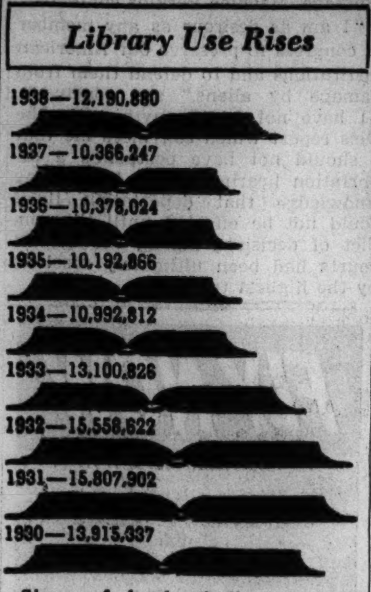
Instead of complying Judge Webster issued a temporary order restraining both factions from disposing of any funds or records of the union. The effect of the injunction is to preserve the status quo pending a hearing on Saturday.

Workers Get No Pay.

One phase of the quarrel has been a double barreled purge of the union's headquarters staf. First the executive board fired all the Martin employés. A few days later Martin fired all the help sponsored by executive board members. The remaining employés are working, for the time being, without pay.

At Martin's demand, the executive board, on Jan. 17, called a special convention to meet March 20 in Cleveland. Martin since has called a convention to meet March 1 in Detroit.

In its call, the executive board ordered that only members and locals who had paid their dues before Dec. 31 could be represented in the convention. Martin, who claims his greatest strength in the rank and file of the union, wanted Feb. 15 as the deadline for payment of back dues to qualify for convention representation.



Sizes of books indicate recent increase in book circulation by Chicago public library, though the 1938 circulation was still less than that during the worst of the depression years.

The Chicago public library ended 1938 with all bills and salaries paid and a cash balance of $3,500, Joseph B. Fleming, president of the board of trustees, told the board at its meeting yesterday. Expenditures for the year were $1,666,609, compared with $1,655,062 in 1937. The library operates on a $2,000,000 pegged levy set by the state legislature.

Fleming said the only tax anticipation warrants outstanding are $83,000 of 1932 warrants and those issued against 1938 taxes. He said the library finances are the best they have been since 1930. He said last year's expenditures were about $100,000 less than the appropriation.

Last year the book circulation was 12,190,880 volumes, compared with 10,366,247 in 1937, an increase of 18 per cent. The increase was attributed to both the business recession and the fact the library bought $200,000 worth of new books during the year. According to Carl B. Roden, librarian, people start reading when business slows up and they lose their jobs. The circulation is the highest it has been since 1933 when it dropped off considerably because the library had curtailed its purchases of new books due to economy measures. The circulation was high during the depression in 1931 and 1932.

$10,000 IN FORGED NOTES FOUND IN DELAVAN BANK

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Howard Doyle, United States district attorney, announced today that more than $10,000 in forged notes had been uncovered by examiners in the Tazewell County National bank. Willis W. Crabb of Delavan, president of the bank for 12 years, was ousted by directors Saturday.

Doyle said any future action will be based on a study of examiners' reports. The federal district grand jury will convene in Springfield next Mon-

In Delavan today, Mrs. Crabb reported her husband seriously ill from influenza and sciatica. She added that the former banker had enough money to pay any shortage found in the bank and that the family is puzzled by the refusal of bank officials to accept Crabb's offer to hand over in cash any amount found to be missing.

"Willis is not in bad financial straits," Mrs. Crabb said. "He has a sizeable sum in cash at hand and plenty of property in Delavan. The home in which we live is worth more than the reported shortage in the bank."

DIES OF CROSSING INJURIES.

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Charles Haney, 67 years old, a boilermaker at the Armour & company packing plant, died today of injuries incurred Sunday when his car was struck by an Alton & Southern train at a suburban grade crossing.

DETROIT TRUCKING STRIKE HELD UP; VIOLENCE FLARES

Call for General Walkout Deferred by Union.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Sporadic fighting continued today in the American Federation of Labor jurisdictional quarrel that has threatened Detroit with a general trucking strike, but the strike call, scheduled to go out at noon, was deferred.

The fight is for union jurisdiction over 700 beer truck drivers at seven Detroit breweries. The teamsters' union claims the right to represent the beer teamsters by virture of a 1933 decision of the A. F. of L. convention, supplemented at later meetings, but its claim is still disputed by the A. F. of L. brewery workers, an industrial type of union.

Charges Unfair Practices.

The brewery workers' union has a closed shop contract with local breweries that does not expire until 1941. In recent months some of the beer drivers have broken away from that union and affiliated with the teamsters.

Today Ora L. Smith, attorney for the teamsters, wired a brief to the national labor relations board at Washington charging the brewing companies with unfair labor practices for refusal to recognize the teamsters' union as bargaining agent for these drivers.

The strike call was authorized last night at a meeting of the teamsters' joint council. The council was given authority to make the strike statewide if necessary.

Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, who defeated Frank Murphy in the November election on a platform denouncing violence in labor disputes, returned to his home at Grand Ledge following a conference here yesterday. He offered his services as a mediator, pledged Mayor Richard W. Reading the backing of state forces if they were needed in Detroit, and announced that deliveries of food and other necessities would be protected in the event of a strike.

Mayor Hopeful of Solution.

Mayor Reading was hopeful today that the general truck strike would be averted. The teamsters' union was expected to seek an early hearing on a state court injunction obtained by the brewery workers' union, forbidding the teamsters to interfere with beer deliveries.

Beer has been moved in the city only under police guard since the trouble started, and brewers said that they have laid off 8,000 of their employés. Four arrests were made today as a result of fights in the vicinity of breweries, in one of which uniformed teamsters smashed a taxicab that had delivered a passenger at a brewery office.

HOLD EX-CONVICT AS OPERATOR OF STILL; SEEK PALS

Paul Lupo, alias Leone, 36 years old, an ex-convict, was held to the federal grand jury yesterday by Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of operating an illicit still at 1012 Lake street.

Seven federal agents were in the building Saturday when Lupo and two other men entered. The three pretended to be police officers, the agents testified, but after the agents identified themselves they fled. Lupo was captured.

Lupo pleaded not guilty, denied knowing his companions, and said he was a chauffeur for a wealthy and prominent Chicagoan whose name he refused to divulge. He served two years in Joliet penitentiary for robbery.

That is the biggest price paid for a single page of advertising in any publication on earth.

But on a strictly space-buying basis—looked at in terms of families and readers you get for your money—it represents the lowest price per color page per thousand* of any national magazine an American advertiser can buy.

And it's "chicken feed" when you stack it against what you get back for what you put in.

Something's bound to happen when your selling message suddenly appears in one out of every four homes in America where English is read—the largest magazine circulation in the world.

Something's bound to happen when you send your selling message to one out of three families in the richest buying areas—the towns and cities of 2,500 and over—where $4 out of every $5 are spent.

Something's bound to happen when you flash your words and pictures to an audience bigger than the average of the ten top programs on the air.

Something's bound to happen when you run your advertising in a magazine with a punch powerful enough to get action in a market which has seen total magazine circulation jump from 20 million to 79 million copies per issue since advertisers first began to study their ABC reports. A SUBSTITUTE FOR THE WAGNER ACT.

In the campaign last summer Senator Wagner, after some reluctance, pledged himself to move for amendments to the labor act bearing his name, but thus far he has taken no action in fulfilling his pledge. A Missouri Democrat, Representative Arthur Anderson, has tired of waiting for the senator to take the initiative and has introduced a bill proposing drastic changes in the supervision of labor relations by the federal government.

The country has reason to be dissatisfied with the operations of the Wagner act. It was supposed to prevent strikes. As strikes frequently interrupt the flow of goods in interstate commerce, a law designed to prevent strikes was found by the Supreme court to be valid under the interstate commerce clause of the constitution.

Unfortunately, the law in its operation has not realized the expectations of those in and out of congress who supported it. It has not reduced the number of strikes. On the contrary. The labor department's figures show that the number of strikes increased somewhat in 1935 when the act was passed and increased by more than 100 per cent in 1937 when the validity of the act was upheld by the Supreme court. There were 1,856 strikes in 1934; 2,172 in 1936, and no less than 4,740 in 1937. Judging by these figures it could be argued plausibly that the law has promoted industrial unrest, has increased both the number and severity of industrial disputes, and instead of promoting the flow of commerce has actually retarded it.

The law seems to have given a good deal of impetus to jurisdictional disputes and to have provided no satisfactory means of quieting them. It has promoted division and bad feeling within the labor movement itself. In the opinion of many competent observers the Wagner act has played a most important part in prolonging the depression by adding to the hazards which business men face in undertaking new ventures. No one is eager to risk his money in the knowledge that an officious and prejudiced labor board may make it impossible to earn a fair return on it.

To these failures and deficiencies of the Wagner scheme others must be added. The act is notoriously unfair to employers. They must bargain with the union which represents their employés, but no means are provided for enforcing a settlement against a union. If the union has fallen into the hands of notorious racketeers, who maintain their hold on it through terrorism, the employer must still deal with these men as if they were law-abiding and respectable citizens.

An effort has been made to persuade congress and the public that the opposition to the Wagner act derives entirely from a desire to destroy unionism and prevent labor organization. That is not true, and if it is generally believed will work great injury to employés as well as employers. The fact is that the act as it stands is retarding business and by doing so is preventing reëmployment of many thousands of men and women.

Representative Anderson's bill would abolish the labor board as it now exists and replace it with an investigating and prosecuting agency. The serious and justified complaint that the present board is at once prosecutor, judge, and jury is met in Mr. Anderson's bill. The board will not prosecute alleged offenders on its own complaint before itself but will take its cases, when necessary, into the federal District courts for impartial adjudication.

The present set-up under the Wagner act is disliked by the A. F. of L. From labor's viewpoint the act is a dangerous one, for it invites arbitrary action. If today the employers are being maltreated, tomorrow it may be the unions. A government of laws is a protection to all citizens; a government of men is a threat to all of arbitrary, tyrannical denial of rights.

FARMERS AND THEIR MARKET.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. has now sold most of its grain elevators. Dissolution of this old and important house began some months ago when the firm gave up many branch houses and private wires. The grain trade is on the skids. Government controls both here and abroad have rendered the business less and less profitable.

For a generation or more the professional friends of the farmer have been damning La Salle street as the source of the farmers' troubles. The result has been a succession of regulatory measures, each more severe than the last. The grain trade fought back but it was overwhelmed. That the market still exists and functions is a tribute to its usefulness. If it could have been dispensed with the burocrats would long ago have destroyed it for the political glory to be gained thereby.

The political friends of the farmer have had things pretty much their way for twenty years and especially for the last ten years. It is to be hoped that the farmers themselves will now look around to see just what good they got out of all this regulating, regimenting, and badgering. Wheat this year has been selling at less than 70 cents; corn at less than 55 cents; oats at less than 30 cents. From this it seems pretty clear that whatever the remedy for the farmers' difficulties may be, it does not lie in destroying their market.

The grain market is the gathering place of the farmers' customers. It was a strange kind of thinking which led to the notion that the way to help the farmers was to drive their customers out of business; but that is exactly what has been going on in this country in the supposed interest of the farmers for a generation. The farmers can blame their political prophets for no small share of the trouble which agriculture faces today.

UNCLE SAM'S REAL ESTATE.

A special board has been created in the federal government to supervise the real estate owned by the nation. There is a lot of it to supervise, including four-fifths of Nevada, three-fifths of Arizona and Utah, almost as much of Idaho, and nearly half of Oregon and Wyoming, to mention only the states in which the federal ownership is largest. The government owns in all about one-fifth of the land area of the country. There is, of course, no state in the Union in which the national government hasn't some real property. In Iowa, at the bottom of the list, the federal government owns about a thousandth of the state.

The new board is to consist of representatives of the departments of agriculture, commerce, interior, justice, navy and war, together with a man from the procurement division of the treasury, another from the budget bureau, and still another from the TVA. The new board is expected to maintain an inventory of government owned lands with a view to avoiding additional purchases if presently owned properties can be used for the desired purpose. Recommendations will be made, also, for the sale of properties not needed by the government.

The federal government ought not to be a land owner and ought to dispose of its surplus holdings as rapidly as possible, if only to save the costs of administration. Experience shows that in private hands land is more likely to be devoted to its most productive use. In the hands of the government it produces little or nothing for the benefit of the nation and, of course, pays no taxes to help meet the costs of local government.

RUSSIA'S FIRST LADY.

Paulina, the wife of V. M. Molotov, who isn't but is called the soviet premier, has been appointed commissar of the fish industry, one of the three divisions into which the food commissariat recently was divided. This lady made her first large business and political success in Russia by introducing American methods of promoting and handling the trade in cosmetics. She learned her stuff in the United States in 1936 and on her return home found that daughters of the proletariat took to the beauty methods of the capitalistic bourgeoisie like fish to water.

The soviet proletarians will embrace any bourgeois practices and advantages the commissars will permit them to enjoy, proving, it is to be feared, that the comrades would like to climb over on the other side of the fence if they could be at all sure that the commissars and the secret police wouldn't catch them. Paulina, as assistant commissar in the food commissariat, does not outrank her husband but she can talk back at him even politically.

Nowhere will the success of the lady be welcomed more than in the White House at Washington. She was a guest of Mrs. Roosevelt when she was in the country and, being in her own right an attractive person, a warm and sincere friendship seems to have sprung up from this acquaintance. The lady of the White House and the lady of the Kremlin have successfully found careers in public life and do not shine in the reflected light of the head of the family.

Mrs. Molotov is probably even busier than Mrs. Roosevelt, because with all the malingering and loafing which goes on in Russian industry, supplying food to the Russian population is even harder business than supplying ideas to the American populace. The friendship of the two distinguished ladies is only one of the many ties which sympathetically unite the White House and the Kremlin. Former Commissar Litvinov also was a White House guest when the present administration reversed the policy of the American government and recognized the soviet government in a treaty, the stipulations of which the communistic brethren have been very careful not to keep.

The admiration of the White House for the achievements of the Red union of so-called republics, under Chief Executioner Stalin, was expressed on its twenty-first anniversary by a congratulatory message from Mr. Roosevelt to Comrade Kalinin, who is called and is not the soviet president, the like of which greeting was not sent to Herr Hitler on the Nazi birthday anniversary, to Signor Mussolini on the day of Fascist celebration, or to Japan. The selection of soviet Russia alone among the dictatorships was full of meaning and significance and the favor is repaid by the enthusiastic support given by Earl Browder and the American communist party to the New Deal and the chief New Dealer.

Official Washington lets no opportunity escape to express its liking for the system of government prevailing in Russia, where social order depends upon purges which do purge.

Editorial of the Day

GENIUS AND THE WEATHER.

[New York Times.]

Dr. Ellsworth Huntington of Yale last week told the Association of American Geographers that mass outbreaks of human genius appear to be correlated with changes in the weather—changes, unfortunately, for the worse. The dark ages, it appears, coincided with "one of the least stormy and least stimulating periods of weather in the Mediterranean region." Another way of describing such a period, of course, would be "one of the most comfortable." But in the days of Pericles and in the renaissance storms occurred with increasing frequency, people were stimulated to mental and physical activity, and so in due course produced an extra supply of geniuses.

This holds out the hope that somehow good will be the final goal of ill, even so large an ill as the late New England hurricane. Dr. Huntington is already on record as holding that the southern coast of New England [where he lives] offers the optimum climatic conditions for a flourishing civilization; and now that it might have a hurricane any fall it ought to be due for a second flowering. Take a plebiscite among the people who live there and they would probably vote for less wind even at the price of more mediocrity; but since they have to take whatever wind they get it may help a little to know that there will be compensations half a century later.

MR. PEPYS MEETS BEN FRANKLIN.

Jan. 23.—Sitting down to while away a long, cold Sabbath by reading the new Life of Ben Franklin, with my little white dog at my feet, I did find in the very first chapters certain things that threw me into a chuckle and are well worth passing on to my friends. It seems when a poor lad of 17, apprenticed to his brother, a printer, this worthy did write and put into his brother's newspaper observations on life in Boston, 1722, as good as anything Joseph Addison ever wrote for the Spectator, and much in that style, such as these remarks on drunkenness:

"It argues some shame in the drunkards themselves that they have invented numberless words and phrases to cover their folly, whose proper significations are harmless or have no signification at all. They are seldom known to be drunk, though they are very often boozy, cogey, tipsy, foxed, merry, mellow, fuddled, groatable, confoundly cut, see two moons; are among the Philistines, in a very good humor, see the sun, or, the sun has shone upon them; they clip the King's English, are almost froze, feverish, in their altitudes, pretty well entered, etc. In short, each day produces some new word or phrase which might be added to the vocabulary of the tipplers."

I did write upon the margin, "How true!" and did think it might be amusing to prepare and publish a "Drunkard's Dictionary," with all these words and phrases, ancient and modern, set down and discussed. But it would be so big a book, no doubt, that nobody could afford to pay for its printing.

And likewise I did learn how young Ben had a dissolute and learned young friend named Collins, who came to a bad end.

SONNET TO A GORDON SETTER.

(After deciding that the Linemaster's dog may be of this breed.)

Nor Byron's "Boatswain" nor the silken "Flush"
Of England's laureled poetess; nor he
That watched by dying Ailie's bed to see
The knife's swift issue and to feel the hush
Of life's still sea—I say thou need'st not blush
With these to have compared thy pedigree,
Thy virtues, or thy beauties rare. For we Know well thy Gordon line, thy sudden rush
O'er stubbled field, thy quivering nose low-bent,
Thy flag-like tail flung wide. And well we know
Thy deep-set, solemn eye aglow, attent
Upon the family or the field. We owe
Thee praise for love, and faith magnificent,
And bless thy heart's perpetual overflow.

The West Side's Hall of Fame.

Back in the 1870s, three promising lads whose homes were in the Washington street-Union park area attended the old Brown grammar school on the west side. One of them was Florenz Ziegfeld, who created a great tradition in American theatrical entertainment. Another was the late Harvey T. Woodruff of the Tribune's "Wake of the News" column. The third was Willie Tascott, who is believed to have murdered a banker named Snell, and, if alive, is this city's No. 1 fugitive from justice. And which was the best marble player? Why, Willie Tascott, of course. [From the recollections of C. P. Garst of Janesville, Wis.]

Time Saved for Use at Funeral.

I took the star of my heaven for a ride to show her the beauty of the snow covered country. I saw a train approaching and put my foot on the accelerator, saying:

"If I can beat that train across the track I can save three minutes."

I beat the train, to the discomfiture of my dream girl, who remained silent for some time afterward and then said:

"What are you going to do with the three minutes you just saved?" Leon Arnold Muller.

HOW TO PRONOUNCE PEPYS?

There are people, I'm told—some say there are heaps—
Who speak of the talkative Samuel as Peeps;
And some, so precise and pedantic their step is,
Who call the delightful old diarist Pepys;
But those I think right, and I follow their steps,
Ever mention the garrulous gossip as Peps.

GROWING STRONG, EVEN TEETH.

CARE of the teeth is a lifelong job and at least a mild interest in the shaping of the jaws should be manifest within a few weeks after the baby's birth. Because of their influence, such habits as thumbsucking, a bad sleeping posture, or the employment of a "pacifier" may result in improper pressure and hence deformity of the bones of the face. Indulgence in these pastimes is often responsible for the fact that the uppers and lowers do not meet accurately or, as the dentist says, the occlusion is faulty.

We must remember always that the skeleton of the newborn is soft and that it may be altered easily. If a finger inserted into the mouth maintains a pulling force there is but one possible outcome—distortion. When the thumb pushes the roof of the mouth upward—through suction—this area may become narrowed, resulting in protruding teeth. In addition, if the youngster sleeps on his stomach with the chin pressed into the pillow for several hours daily, enough power may be exerted to drive the jaw backward, with the creation of a receding chin. Occasionally the mother's custom of carrying the babe so that the point of its chin rests on her shoulder will produce the same effect.

As most of us know, when the child is born the teeth are already lying within the jaws, where they undergo development until they are ready to emerge from the gums. But no sooner are they out into the open than their root tips begin to absorb slowly to make way for the oncoming permanent set which will be even, well formed, and in correct alignment if there is enough room.

We can explain the situation by assuming that a lily bulb has been planted squarely beneath the stump of a tree—the bulb representing a growing permanent molar. If the roots of the old tree decay, or if the stump is grubbed out, the lily will blossom in proper position, but if all remains in status quo the stem will be obliged to turn to the right or the left to reach light and air.

The first enduring teeth are the so-called six year molars—two in each jaw—which demand plenty of space. If there is crowding, the dentist may find it necessary to provide for greater freedom. Crooked teeth are unsightly and many a little one is compelled to wear a brace for months on end in an effort to restore a symmetrical arrangement. There are but few cases wherein care will not avoid this necessity. But it means that the mouth and the dental apparatus should be examined at least once every six months until the solid ivories have erupted.

But we must not ignore the first lot. Each member must be maintained in its assigned site, free from decay or abscess formation. Cavities should be filled and just as much attention given them as to those that are to constitute our masticating tools for the duration of life. We depend upon the temporary grinders to serve as pathfinders for their followers.

Not only do we need even teeth as an aid to personality through a pleasing facial contour, but well modulated speech is impossible without them. This means that a natural meeting of the upper and lower dentures is essential. With the structures in true apposition we lessen the possibility of injuries and disease. Whenever the so-called "buck teeth" come in at an angle there is usually some speech defect. But removal is rarely indicated because deformity will be produced if they are lost. In all but rare instances they can be straightened satisfactorily.

Diet must not be forgotten, as all parts of the body are influenced profoundly by nutrition. Not only should the menu be well balanced but an excess of minerals and vitamins is essential. Every boy and girl is entitled to the necessary allotment of fresh fruits and vegetables, milk, eggs, and cod liver oil. Food also plays a vital rôle in training for thorough mastication. Crusts of bread and melba toast offer excellent opportunities for exercise. Meats fulfill the same function. It may be well to serve fresh or cooked fruits for desert, as the flow of saliva is stimulated thereby. This constitutes a natural cleansing agent.

YES.

A. N. G. writes: Can tongue-tie be cured? Is the operation dangerous?

REPLY.

At birth the frenulum [a little band of tissue beneath the togue] may interfere with normal movements. If it extends too far forward or is too short it may be snipped with a pair of fine scissors. The procedure is neither painful nor dangerous.

NEPHRITIS.

T. S. writes: What causes albumin in the urine?

REPLY.

Nephritis, which means inflammation or degeneration of the kidneys. The condition may be associated with an infection such as scarlet fever, diphtheria, tonsilitis, erysipelas, etc. There are many other causes.

YES.

B. writes: Is it harmful for a man with pus in the urine to use alcohol?

REPLY.

Yes. He should discontinue its use, as alcohol aggravates the condition.

KEEPING OF RECEIPTS.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The keeping of old receipts over a period of seven years becomes very burdensome.

1. Is it necessary to keep receipts for all monthly bills—hotel bills, department store bills, etc.?

2. Is a receipt for the payment of the last bill rendered valid proof that all previous bills of similar nature have been paid? J. M. F.

1. The Illinois limitation period on an oral agreement is five year and on a written contract ten years. Even after such a period has run, there is the possibility that a creditor might collect on showing a part payment, new promise or other special facts extending the period. You will have to use some discretion in deciding which to save and which to throw away. It will depend on the amounts involved, the reputation of the creditor, your information as to possible grounds for dispute, etc.

2. It would be some evidence, but would not be conclusive.

THE NAZIS IN ITALY.

Astoria, N. Y., Jan. 18.—David Darrah's article entitled "Il Duce's Grasp on Italy Shaken by Nazi Inroads" is both a travesty on American journalism and an insult to the intelligence of the American people.

It would seem that in the light of the events of the past several years American newspaper correspondents should seek rather to explain to their readers the secret or secrets behind the unbelievable strength displayed by the totalitarian nations instead of concocting stories about the imminent demise or disintegration of the only two nations in the world which during the past ten years have become consistently more powerful.

What good does it do us Americans to be made to believe that all is not well between Germans and Italians when current events tell us grimly and clearly that they are strong, united and determined in their outspoken aims?

But Mr. Darrah not only fails us by writing more than a column of fantastic hearsay; he gives us a report which is false even in the light of common knowledge. For instance, he states that the OVRA is the "organizazione vigilanza riservata sulle associazione" when in fact it is [and any man, woman or child in Italy can tell you this] the "Opera Volontaria Repressioni Anti-Fascista." Then he goes on to say that "three Germans actually sit on Premier Mussolini's commission for the defense of the race." There is no such commission. The defense of the race is entrusted to the Grand Council of Fascism, the membership of which is entirely Italian, and a list of whose names is available to any one for the asking.

I could go on, argument for argument, proving that Mr. Darrah's informants are unmitigated liars, but that is not my purpose nor would it here serve the interests of American readers. It does seem to me, however, that with the dangers confronting our own democracy, it is time that we began to demand more unbiased information about Nazlism and Fascism, both of which are no more than the answer of the German and Italian peoples to those forces which not only threatened their own democratic institutions but sought to destroy the family, private property, and every tradition by which they lived.

JOHN FRANKLIN GARRETT.

QUESTION.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Gen. A. F. Lorenzen, speaking of the mayoral election, says: "Neutrality in a matter of so much importance as the coming mayoral election is an act of cowardice." Well spoken, my brave general, but doesn't that accusation put Gov. Horner on the spot? Why has he refused to indorse Courtney? Is it a fact that the governor promised Mayor Kelly to stay neutral? I would very much appreciate a definite answer to that question. How about it, general?

P. J. BROWNE.

NOBODY'S NICKEL.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Your sarcastic editorial, "Nobody's Nickel," impels me to suggest that you look over the news columns. In the recent past I read of an $80,000 theft from a bank in Iowa. Have you forgotten Richard Whitney? Have you forgotten, or do you think the public has forgotten, the theft of 4 million dollars from the Continental Bank of Chicago? I can recall many more cases in privately managed business and am sure you can. L. J. BOARDMAN.

BRIDGE OPENINGS.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I read in your issue of Jan. 15, 1939, with my usual interest, your semi-annual article on the holdup of city trafic by the opening of bridges along the Chicago river.

Take two examples at random from your table for comparison; that is, Michigan avenue and Dearborn street:

You show for the year 1938 that at the Michigan avenue bridge there were 2,313 openings of about four minutes each, which would total about 154½ hours per year, or 6.42 days. At the Dearborn street bridge there were 2,373 openings of 3.3 minutes each, which would total 130.5 hours per year, or 5.44 days.

You do not say that for the five rush trafic hours of each of the week days these bridges are closed, and that the openings occur during the night [or the nonrush hours of the week days] and Sunday. Nor do you call attention to the fact that at street intersections the Michigan avenue trafic is stopped for a much greater length of time each day. For example, take Michigan avenue at Randolph street, where the north and south trafic is stopped by stoplight 25 per cent of the time; that would be six hours each day, or more than ninety days each year, instead of six and a half days per year at the Michigan avenue bridge.

At Dearborn and Randolph streets the north and south trafic is stopped about 55 per cent of the time, or roughly, thirteen hours each day. That would be about 200 days each year, instead of five and a half days a year at the bridge. WILLIAM JOHNSON.

THE PACING RECORD.

Mount Carroll, Ill., Jan. 17.—I have been reading Capt. Corpening's weekly articles on horses in your Graphic section. Being a horseman, I was much interested in them and noticed several small errors, but when he says that Dan Patch is still the world's champion pacer he is sure a long way off on his statistics. Dan Patch never did have a record of 1:55; it was 1:55¼, made with a windshield which was a runner hitched to a cart with a windshield attached, going directly in front of the pacer. That method of record making is ruled out, and that record was never recognized as an official record. Billy Direct holds the world's record of 1:55, made at Lexington, Ky., Sept. 28, 1938. I am not aiming to criticize Corpening, but a gross error like this should be corrected, especially now that the sport of light harness racing is becoming more and more popular. DARRELL HOLMAN.

NO HARM IN ASKING.

Richmond, Ky., Jan. 18.—I understand that at the present time there is a vacancy in the managing editorship of your paper. If you are interested in having me fill this position for you I will be glad to send you my recommendations.

For the past two years I have edited a college paper and I feel sure I could be of unestimated value. If you wish to, just send me a contract and I will sign and return it promptly.

Semi-sincerely, EDWARD EICHER.

NATIONS AND THEIR WAYS.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—We speak of the "aggressor" nations demanding this or that, but who are aggressor nations?

Using an American high school history book I have compiled figures to show the number of years the six powers have been at war since our Declaration of Independence in 1776:

	Yrs.		Yrs.
Great Britain	46	Germany	15
France	41	Italy	14
U. S. A.	22	Japan	11

Or, since 1854, when we "opened" Japan, the powers have been at war as follows:

	Yrs.		Yrs.
Great Britain	15	U. S. A.	9
France	13	*Italy	8
Japan	11	*Germany	8

*Includes present war in Spain.

Or the number of individual wars since 1776:

Britain	11	France	6
Italy	9	Germany	5
U. S. A.	7	Japan	4

Finally let's list all wars, declared and undeclared, since 1776:

Great Britain	21	France	19
U. S. A.	15	Italy	11
Germany	11	Japan	6

In a final futile effort let's count the number of square miles of territory snatched by the powers! . . . But that takes too long, and, besides, every schoolboy knows that the colonial empire of England is the largest in the world, and that of the French, second!

Aggressor, aggressor, who's the aggressor? F. S. M.

THIS HOUSING PROBLEM.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—What is there about this housing problem that makes even THE TRIBUNE go New Deal, and plug away for the adding of houses to railroads and coal mines in the misery area of governmental price fixing?

Did you ever print—or didn't anybody ever mention—the obvious fact that giving to price regulated housing concerns the "power to acquire land through condemnation" would be nothing more than confiscating the presumptive right that vacant lot owners have bought with long years of fruitless taxpaying—the right to earn a liberal profit if opportunity should appear?

Anybody with any understanding of competitive enterprise should know that there are ways of acquiring large tracts for modern housing without confiscation. Has THE TRIBUNE any interest in them—enough to ask a few authorities whether there are any such ways, and print their replies? Or is it committed to the supplying of new housing below cost and squeezing the difference out of present property owners? And to whom, anyway, are the subsidized dwellings to be supplied if not to deserving Democrats? HARRIS K. RANDALL.

GOALS AND HOW TO REACH 'EM.

Villa Park, Ill., Jan. 13.—May I add my 2 cents' worth and tell "Somebody's Maid" that it has been my experience that any one can reach any important goal in life if he [illegible]ly enough and goes about it intelligently? INTERESTED.

SEAT 2 JURORS IN NEW RACKET TRIAL OF HINES

Task Is Made Difficult by Talesmen's Opinions.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Only two jurors sat in the jury box tonight at the end of the first day in the retrial of Tammany Leader Jimmy Hines on charges of supplying political protection for this city's 20 million dollar a year policy racket.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of defense counsel, found selection of the jury difficult because of opinions veniremen had formed during the first trial of the Tammany boss.

The first trial ended with a fiasco last fall when Justice Ferdinand Pecora, a former Tammany assistant district attorney and a lieutenant in the Roosevelt-Farley machine, declared a mistrial on technical grounds. The justice ruled Dewey conducted improper cross-examination.

Veteran Judge Presides.

Hines, who is chief patronage dispenser for the Roosevelt forces in Manhattan, walked out of the courtroom free on bond. Dewey went on to run as the Republican nominee for governor. He was defeated by a plurality of 1 per cent of the vote by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

Today at the second trial Justice Charles C. Nott Jr., 69 years old, a veteran of 25 years on the bench, presided over the case in General Sessions court instead of Pecora. Dewey had asked for a change in judges.

Justice Nott postponed his ruling on a motion to drop the conspiracy charge in the thirteen count indictment against Hines until after a jury has been completed.

Former Chicagoan Chosen.

A former Chicagoan, the first juror selected, will act as foreman of the jury. He is Leonard T. Hobert, manager of the Hotchkiss Beef company here. Hobert said the concern was a subsidiary of Swift & Co.

The jury box was emptied twice during the day as a stream of 22 of the special panel of 250 talesmen were examined. The defense used up six challenges for cause, while the state exhausted three.

Hines, who presented a jaunty appearance as he began his second tilt with the law, is accused of being the political fixer for the Dutch Schultz gang after it muscled in on the numbers racket in Harlem. He is charged with protecting the racketeers from police interference and influencing judges to free those arrested in the racket.

Union Leader Sentenced to Prison as Dope Seller

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday sentenced George O. Robert, 44 years old, 4000 Washington boulevard, to six concurrent terms in prison of five years each for possessing and selling narcotics. He also was fined $5,000. Robert is president of the Drapery, Windowshade and Tapestry Decorators' union, local 1,046-B. He was convicted Friday after federal agents told of finding $20,000 worth of narcotics in his basement locker at 208 North Wells street.

Police Car Leading Funeral Cortege Crashes; Two Hurt

Two persons were injured yesterday when a state highway police car, leading a funeral procession, collided with another automobile at Kimball and Foster avenues. Those injured were State Policeman Herman Wolff, 4901 North Christiana avenue, and Morris Kaplan, 5517 North Christian avenue. They were treated at the Swedish Covenant hospital. Kaplan was in a car driven by Dr. S. H. Rosenblum, 1250 North Kedzie avenue, who was not in the funeral line.

Win Honors

Lieut. Franklin M. Kreml, director of the trafic institute at Northwestern university, and Lawrence J. Linck, director of the Chicago syphilis control program, were honored last night at a joint banquet of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce in the Sherman hotel.

Lieut. Kreml was awarded the national distinguished service medal by the United States junior chamber for his work on highway safety. The presentation was made by the organization's president, Philip C. Ebeling of Dayton, O. Mr. Linck received the Chicago group's distinguished service gold key for his service in fighting syphilis. The presentation was by Charles R. Beatty, award committee chairman.

Among the speakers was Dr. Miller McClintock, national authority on trafic. He said that elevated or depressed highways were needed to help solve the nation's trafic problems. Such highways running from Chicago's business centers to outlying sections would permit open highway speeds at almost complete safety, he said. Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, also spoke.

BAR ON BRITISH WRITER ILLEGAL, U. S. COURT RULES

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, holding that Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey had been improperly barred from entering this country, directed late today that the British writer be given a hearing on the question of his admissibility.

The court reversed action of Federal Judge Edward A. Conger in dismissing a writ of habeas corpus obtained to bring about Strachey's release from Ellis Island, where he was detained awaiting deportation last September. Subsequently he was admitted to the country under $500 bond. Strachey, a lecturer on communism, was returning to the United States for a speaking tour. He was arrested in March, 1935, in Glencoe, Ill., as an undesirable alien and returned to England voluntarily.

"There is no statutory provision, no regulation, and no decision empowering a consul to revoke a visa which he had once granted and issued to an alien," the court found.

PARLEY PLANNED TO GET ELEVATED HIGHWAY ACTION

Clayton Smith Asks Talks with City and State.

BY HAL FOUST.

Daniel Ryan.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, yesterday delegated the chairman of the roads and bridges committee, Daniel Ryan, to arrange a meeting of state, city, and county officials to devise an elevated highway construction program.

"The desirability of an elevated highway system has long been recognized," Mr. Smith said. "It is now an urgent necessity. A civilized community can no longer tolerate the annual slaughter of hundreds and the crippling of thousands on Chicago streets.

Calls Financing Only Problem.

"The engineering is no problem. There have been ample preliminary surveys to establish the need for elevated highways spreading fanwise from the loop to the outskirts of the built-up area. The only serious problem is financing. I believe this can be solved if city, county, and state officials get their heads together."

Mr. Ryan said he will communicate promptly with Springfield and with the city hall. He hopes to convene the first meeting of this conference within a few weeks.

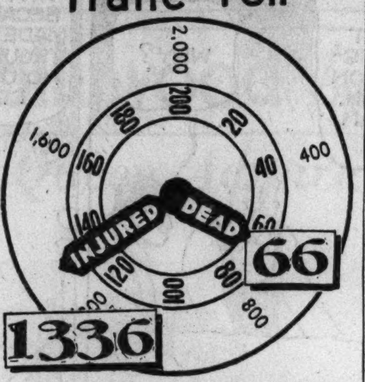
For the last six months, civic clubs, federated as area councils under Chicago Motor club sponsorship, have been petitioning the three governmental agencies to prepare elevated highway construction plans. The club's engineers prepared a tentative plan for 41 miles of superhighway to be constructed within the next ten years from existing gasoline tax revenue. The total cost is estimated at $55,000,000.

See Annual Saving of 130 Lives.

Under this plan, one elevated highway would extend northwest from the loop to Foster and Central avenues; another would extend west to Maywood. To the southwest, an elevated street in Cermak road and Blue Island avenue would connect the outer drive with a depressed highway in the Illinois-Michigan canal southwest from Western avenue with spurs to the airport and to western suburbs. To the southeast, the outer drive at 55th street would be connected partly by elevated structure with Indianapolis boulevard at the Indiana line by way of Stony Island and South Chicago avenues.

"This 41 mile system," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, "would prevent 130 deaths and 4,500 personal injuries annually."

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1939 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Pet Dog Routs Bandit in $20 Bakery Holdup

A pet dog owned by Mrs. Josephine Cordovana routed a bandit yesterday in her food shop at 7244 South Ashland avenue. The robber took $20 from the cash drawer and then demanded: "Give me the money that is in the back." When he started to the rear of the store the dog bit his legs. He fled.

CRASH IN SNOW STORM KILLS 1; 5 OTHERS HURT

Howard Smith of 25 Webster avenue, Highwood, was killed yesterday, and five other persons were seriously injured when Smith's car sideswiped an army-WPA truck during a snow storm five miles north of Champaign, Ill. The injured were Smith's mother, Mrs. Lela Smith, and Mrs. Lynn Crawford, Niles, Mich., passengers with Smith; and Luther Roberts, D. E. Osterdock, and Roy Wrench, WPA workers, who were on the truck.

Frank Stumpf, 40, of 9930 Prospect avenue, died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital from injuries suffered Saturday night when his automobile plunged into a ditch at Pulaski road and 79th street.

Willie Johnson, 28 years old, colored, of 2954 Vernon avenue, died in the County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Sunday when he walked into the side of a moving automobile at 32d street and South Park way. The driver was Wilmot Newell, 61, of 2233 Calumet avenue, a watchman.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday eighty-one persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, sixty-six were killed in Chicago, where 1,336 were injured in the same period.

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

Peru, Ind., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—George C. Greer, 52 years old, Peru factory employé, died yesterday of injuries received Saturday when he lost control of his automobile on a curve three miles north of here.

BAR HEAD CALLS FOR APPOINTIVE JUDGESHIP PLAN

A legislative program calling for the appointment of judges instead of the present method of election is outlined in a report by Henry P. Chandler, president of the Chicago Bar association, in the current issue of the Chicago Bar Record.

Under a proposed plan judges of the Circuit and Superior courts would be appointed by the governor from a slate of at least five eligible candidates for each post. The candidates would be selected by a nonpartisan commission appointed for long terms by the Appellate court.

Similarly judges of the Municipal court would be named by the mayor. At the end of four years the judges would submit to an election on the question of whether they should be retained in office. Thereafter the elections would be at ten year periods.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated; you probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines. It's this mass that helps a bowel movement.

The common sense thing to do is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast may give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-tonic, vitamin B_1. All-Bran is not a drug, not a medicine. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

TWO BOYS DIE IN FIRE; LOCKED INSIDE BEDROOM

Door Snaps Shut When Mother Seeks Water.

Wausau, Wis., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Two children burned to death this afternoon in their home in Schofield, a village south of Wausau, while their mother hammered frantically at a bedroom door, unable to open it.

The victims were Bournell Pittsley, 2 years old, and his brother Maylyn, 3, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Pittsley. Mrs. Pittsley, a night nurse at Memorial hospital in Wausau, was sleeping in an adjoining room when the children awakened her, shouting there was a fire in their room.

She put on a robe and tried to beat out the flames, then ran to a pump in the yard for a pail of water. The bedroom door slammed. The night latch was on and she was locked out. There was no other door and Mrs. Pittsley and neighbors were kept from entering through by flames and smoke.

Wausau firemen recovered the boys' bodies from the fire swept interior of the frame cottage. Pittsley, a truck driver, did not know of the tragedy until he returned from work.

DONALD STERN FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Donald Stern.

Private funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. today in the Rosehill cemetery chapel for Donald Stern, 20 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence F. Stern, 981 Sheridan road, Glencoe. He died of pneumonia Sunday night in a Hanover, N. H., hospital, an hour after serum had been flown from New York to Boston and carried by car through a blinding storm to Hanover.

Stern, a freshman at Dartmouth college, was stricken last week. His father, president of the securities company bearing his name, flew to his side Friday. His mother and a sister arrived by train Saturday. Sunday, when he became worse, Dr. Leon Bloch, a Chicago specialist, also flew east. After the American Airlines plane carrying the serum was grounded at Boston, Thomas Kelly, airlines chauffeur, volunteered to deliver it by car.

Surviving, besides the parents, are two sisters, Mrs. Robert Straus and Susan.

HENRY HAYES, 63, MORTGAGE FIRM EXECUTIVE, DIES

Henry Hayes, a partner in the real estate mortgage firm of Henry Hayes & Co., 10 South La Salle street, died yesterday in the Edwards hospital at Naperville. He was 63 years old.

Mr. Hayes lived at 1709 Carmen avenue. He was an officer of the old State Bank of Chicago for many years, and after the merger with the Foreman State bank he served in the real estate department of the First National Bank of Chicago. In 1933 he and his son, Richard, formed the mortgage firm.

His widow, Florence; another son, Howard, and a daughter, Mrs. Marian Siewerth, also survive. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5149 North Ashland avenue.

SEEKS TO TRADE RELIEF FOOD FOR LIQUOR; JAILED

Nathaniel Carver, 58 years old, was sent to the Bridewell yesterday to work out a $200 fine on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested Saturday after attempting to trade a basket of groceries obtained from a neighborhood relief station for liquor.

"You're one of the cheapest citizens I've ever had before me," Judge Thomas A. Green said. "You've had things too easy for a long time. If the community has to support you it might as well be in jail."

Carver has been on relief for five years. He lives at 160 East 116th street.

Two Citizens Capture Accused Purse Grabber

George P. White, 42 years old, 254 West 65th street, a WPA worker, was captured by two unidentified citizens last night after he had allegedly stolen the purse of Mrs. Betty Cover, 48, of 4423 Irving Park road. The theft took place at Byron street and Kilbourn avenue. Albany Park police said that the purse, containing $20, was found on White.

MRS. WITT DIES AT HERBERT.

Herbert, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lucy Witt, 81 years old, life resident here, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy White.

WIDOW, AT RITES FOR FRIEND, DIES AT MATE'S GRAVE

Mrs. Catherine Leonard, 7108 Eggleston avenue, a janitress in the county building, died in the Holy Cross hospital yesterday after collapsing beside the grave of her husband, John, in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Mrs. Leonard, who was 53 years old, was attending the funeral of Adlord Cotey, 5730 South Union avenue, a member of the intelligence service during the war, when her heart failed. Just as an honor escort blew taps at the grave she turned to a friend and said: "My, the ceremony is beautiful, and he is being buried right next to the grave of my husband." Then she collapsed.

Three daughters survive. They are Mrs. Ellen Grant and Mrs. Catherine P. Isaacs, who lived with her, and Mrs. Mary Semeneck of 8716 South Central avenue, Oak Lawn.

LORIMER ESTATE IS 10 MILLIONS; HALF TO TAXES

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—An estate valued at more than 10 million dollars was left by George Horace Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, at his death on Oct. 22, 1937, an inventory filed with the register of wills at Norristown revealed today.

The executors listed personal property at $9,749,318, with the total value of real estate put at $571,000. The estate has paid federal taxes aggregating $3,868,401. State taxes will total about $1,100,000, making payments to federal and state governments close to 5 millon dollars.

Lormer's stock holdings in the Curtis Publishing company, of which he was chairman of the board at the time of his death, aggregated $150,000.

Miss Veronese Beatty Will Be Bride in March

BY JUDITH CASS.

BEFORE Miss Veronese Beatty left for Palm Beach a few weeks ago she told her intimate friends that she was engaged. Today her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross James Beatty of Highland Park, are announcing the engagement of their daughter to Melville C. Branch Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville C. Branch of Richmond, Va.

The announcement is being made simultaneously in Chicago, Richmond, and Palm Beach, where Mr. and Mrs. Beatty are occupying their winter home at 1414 North Ocean boulevard. The wedding will take place at home in Palm Beach on March 11.

Miss Beatty and her fiancé met last summer at the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Michigan, where she was studying sculpture under Carl Milles and he was working under Eliel Saarinen, the architect. Miss Beatty, who is a talented sculptress, is one of the Chicago Junior league's active members. Her work has been admired at many of the league's springtime fine arts teas. A debutante of several seasons ago, Miss Beatty is a graduate of the Bennett school at Millbrook, N. Y.

Mr. Branch, who is a graduate of the Choate school and of Princeton university, studied architecture at the Princeton Graduate school for three years, and then studied abroad. He specializes in city planning. At the present Mr. Branch is working on a project for the New York World Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Branch and their two other sons, who are at Choate and Princeton, and their daughter, Mrs. Henry Converse, all will go to Palm Beach for the wedding. Miss Beatty's brothers and their wives, the junior Ross J. Beattys and the John T. Beattys, also will go south for the ceremony, which is to be a quiet one in the patio of the house.

Musical to Mark Dawes Anniversary.

"It's just one of our regular musicals," says Mrs. Charles G. Dawes in speaking of the party she and Gen. Dawes have planned for 8:30 o'clock tonight in their Evanston home. Since, however, today marks their golden wedding, the occasion will be a special one whether Gen. and Mrs. Dawes are treating it as such or not.

Several Lincoln, Neb., people received invitations to the musical. According to a charming little story that has come from Lincoln, a paper there fifty-one years ago included Gen. Dawes in a leap year list of the city's marriageable men, describing him as an "attorney at law and anti-monopoly agitator," with the "neatest mustach in London." "He seems to have a disposition to go back to see somebody in Ohio occasionally," the editor wrote, but added, "he is worthy of trying anyway."

That somebody in Ohio was Miss Caro Blymyer, whom Gen. Dawes married fifty years ago today.

Gertrude Busch Bride in New York.

Announcement is made of the marriage in New York on Saturday of Miss Gertrude Madeline Busch and Henri Pell Junod, both of Chicago. The ceremony took place at the Church of the Transfiguration, better known, perhaps, as the Little Church Around the Corner. Only the families were present.

William Paul Martin Jr. of Lake Forest gave the bride in marriage. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel J. Busch of Chicago. Thomas Hutchinson Boyd of New York was best man for Mr. Junod, who is the son of Mme. Louis Henri Junod of New York and the late M. Junod, former consul general for Switzerland.

Following a wedding trip to the West Indies, Mr. Junod and his bride will be at home at 900 North Michigan avenue. On his mother's side Mr. Junod is descended from Robert R. Livingston, who helped draft the Declaration of Independence; Gen. William Floyd, a signer from New York, and James Duane, first Continental mayor of New York. He is a graduate of the Salisbury school and of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. During the war Mr. Junod served with the Royal Flying corps. His bride attended Immaculata academy and the University of Texas.

Mrs. John W. Gary Again Heads St. Luke's Board.

Mrs. John W. Gary heads the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital for the thirteenth year. She and all the other officers were reëlected at the annual meeting yesterday. The annual fashion show will be given on Tuesday afternoon and evening, Oct. 17, in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter is giving a small luncheon today for Mlle.

Chicago Sees Wilder's New Stage Method

"OUR TOWN."

Drama in three acts by Thornton Wilder. Technical direction by Raymond Sovey. Costumes by Helene Pons. Presented by Jed Harris in the Selwyn theater, Monday evening, Jan. 23, 1939.

THE CAST.

Stage manager	Frank Craven
Dr. Gibbs	James Spottswood
Mrs. Gibbs	Evelyn Varden
Mr. Webb	Thomas W. Ross
Mrs. Webb	Helen Carew
George Gibbs	John Craven
Emily Webb	Dorothy McGuire
Rebecca Gibbs	Patricia Row

Also Raymond Roe, Tom Fadden, Charles Wiley Jr., Walter O. Hill, Milton Parsons, Doro Merande, E. Irving Locke, Billy Redfield, William Wadsworth, Edward P. Goodnow and many others.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The bare stage of the Selwyn theater, with its own white-washed rear wall as backdrop and scarcely more than a few chairs and tables as properties, is now the scene of one of the important theatrical experiences of this generation. In a series of prismatic reflections the simple realities of life and death in Grover's Corners, N. H., are transplanted into our midst.

"Our Town" is no ordinary three act play. Actually the narrative is a neatly organized series of vignettes, in which we meet some of the typical citizens of Grover's Corners and come to know a few of them extremely well. With genial adroitness Frank Craven, labeled the "stage manager," provides a framework of continuity. When the audience comes into the theater the curtain is already up. At the appointed moment Mr. Craven begins to explain things. He describes the village, identifies the characters, and generally prepares us for the freedom of Thornton Wilder's dramatic method.

Once the action is under way it becomes apparent that Mr. Wilder has obeyed no rule of thumb laws of play construction. Snatches of conversation, sometimes from two places at once, flashbacks, glimpses into the future—all these are part of one of the most unconventional experiments in drama the American stage has seen.

And yet, somehow these fragments of New England daily life soon begin imperceptibly to add up into an impressive totality. From the daily living of Dr. Gibbs and his family and of Editor Webb and his family Mr. Wilder has selected just the incidents and the exchanges of ideas that make us know them best. Through the whole continuity Mr. Craven moves, adding wryly humorous footnotes, or simply helping us to keep our bearings in the story when we might get lost without him.

The simplicities and commonplaces of life have always fascinated Mr. Wilder. The folk in "Our Town" are the stuff of which the solid New England population is made. Even at their most bromidic, they are real, flesh and blood people, living daily lives of the most complete usualness and normality. And at their best they express themselves with the wonderfully dry humor of New England, in which the obvious is understated with a brusqueness that verges on genius.

Of course two youngsters fall in love and are married. John Craven, the bright son of the "stage manager," and wistful Dorothy McGuire, represent the couple with completely engaging honesty. Their wedding so completely captures the essence of a million tearful weddings back home that there was audible sniffling during its progress last night.

Thomas W. Ross as Editor Webb, and James Spottswood as Dr. Gibbs, are two salty veterans who do not know what it is to let a play down. Helen Carew and Evelyn Varden as their wives, are just the kind to cook three meals a day and make them something worth talking about.

A neatly articulated cast, dotted such endearing youngsters as Patrica and Raymond Roe, maintain a mood of unabashed sentimentality. This sentimentality is really the most important thing about "Our Town." For Mr. Wilder has uncovered the one basic fact about New Englanders that they would give anything to hide—the fact that a crusty, matter-of-fact exterior is only a blind to hide some of the softest hearts in the world.

Tonight Cornelia Otis Skinner brings her revival of Bernard Shaw's "Candida" to the Grand Opera house for a fortnight's engagement.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Movie King and Queen Admire Their Crowns

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 23.—The 1939 king of the movies is Tyrone Power. The 1939 queen of the movies is Jeanette MacDonald. Their backgrounds and careers are as far apart as their birthplaces, and considerable distance intervenes between 2112 Fulton avenue, Cincinnati, where Tyrone was born, and 5123 Arch street, Philadelphia, where Jeanette was born. The point of closest resemblance is in their racial heritage, because she is Scotch-Irish and he is Irish. They veer off sharply from that point, as Tyrone was born to the theater, son of a famous Shakespearean actor who was good enough to have a book written about him by William Winter. Jeanette MacDonald, new queen of the movies, started out as a child dancer at church socials, progressed to the chorus line, and then became a musical comedy prima donna where she attracted the attention of Ernst Lubitsch.

Seventy papers polled their readers to determine what movie fans preferred. Last year the readers chose Clark Gable and Myrna Loy. This year it's Tyrone Power and Jeanette MacDonald. The choices of the two years indicate that the movie fan insists upon character and intelligence in its royalty, for all of these four who have been so honored are long on both casualties.

Curiously enough, both Jeanette and Myrna entered the theater under conditions that were identical. Jeanette made her stage bow on Broadway in the chorus of a Ned Wayburn production at the Capitol theater. Myrna made her stage bow in the chorus of a Franchon and Marco unit at Grauman's Chinese theater, here in Hollywood. This may be only a coincidence, but when you reflect that Joan Crawford, Alice Faye, Barbara Stanwyck and Ginger Rogers are a few other products of dancing lines, you are tempted to the conclusion that dancing is a definite influence for the good.

If there is this parallel between last year's queen and this year's successor, you can draw a parallel between Gable and Power, because oddly enough, they both come from Ohio. They are alike, too, in that both of them got kicked around and learned something about life by living it under conditions that not always were too auspicious. Tyrone tried to land a job in Hollywood for three years, with varying success. . . . Now and then he'd get a bit part. His fattest day's check was for $5.50, playing the part of a cadet in Dick Powell's "Flirtation Walk." But work was scarce, and he went on to Broadway, stopping off at Chicago to work in a concession at the World's Fair. . . . Arriving on Broadway, his letters of introduction from Michael Strange and Helen Mencken landed him a job with Katharine Cornell's company. It wasn't much of a job, because he understudied Burgess Meredith, John Howard, and Ted Emery, and none of them ever got sick. His first actual Broadway appearance was in a minor part in Miss Cornell's "St. Joan."

Miss MacDonald, I think, had the harder task, and that she pursued it to an internationally celebrated conclusion is a tribute to her canny determination. . . . She spent most of her money and most of her leisure studying voice, and her graduation from the chorus to a principal's rôle was not spectacular. . . . She learned her trade as troupers learn it—by a succession of rebuffs sweetened with occasional successes. When she was signed by Lubitsch she already had played most of the big cities of the east and midwest in shows that ranged from fair to middlin', presented to audiences that ranged from fair to middlin'. . . . Her most vivid memory of that phase of her career concerns the night at the Liberty theater in New York City when she accidentally kicked off one of her slippers and it sailed out over the footlights into the lap of Marquis de la Falaise, who was sitting with his bride, Gloria Swanson. "I thought then that that would be the closest I'd ever get to Hollywood," she tells you.

Her first pictures were with Maurice Chevalier, and when that combination was dissolved, because Chevalier wanted to be starred alone, it was predicted freely that both of them would slip out of the picture. . . . The prediction held true for Chevalier. . . . He skyrocketed downward faster than he had climbed up, but the MacDonald girl kept on climbing. . . . The partnership with Nelson Eddy accelerated her pace and this poll proves rather conclusively that she is the greater "draw" of the team. This was confirmed by the motion picture daily poll, which found the Philadelphia girl ranking second only to Shirley Temple as England's favorite.

Tyrone Power's rise has been much more spectacular. . . . He clicked instantaneously in "Girls' Dormitory," although he had only a bit part, and Zanuck was so impressed that he gave him one of the leads in "Lloyd's of London." . . . That picture spurted him to the top flight of matinée idols, and he has never lost that ranking, although he has been given such a diversity of rôles as the bandleader in "Alexander's Ragtime Band," De Lesseps in "Suez," Count Fersen in "Marie Antoinette" and Jesse James. These rôles, instead of weakening his position, strengthened it to the point where he topped Clark Gable in this recent contest. . . . Any time you top Gable, you have arrived. Gable's comment was typical. "It couldn't have happened to a nicer kid."

Tyrone Power and Jeanette MacDonald received their crowns as king and queen of the movies in Hollywood yesterday. The crowns carry the names of the 70 newspapers of the country who gave their readers the opportunity of selecting the rulers of cinema for 1939.

Club to See Old Blood and Thunder Films Tonight

Continuing with its program of great movies of the past, the Lake Shore Athletic club in coöperation with the Museum of Modern Art in New York will present two movies of mystery and violence at 8:30 tonight. The films are "Tatters—a Tale of the Slums," produced in London in 1907, the director and cast unknown, and "Underworld," with George Bancroft, Evelyn Brent, and Clive Brook, directed by Josef Von Sternberg in 1927.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

No one can tell us that a beauty treatment is just cleansing and creaming and patting. Its benefits aren't confined to the skin. A beauty treatment is as restful as a good nap, a makeup is twice as exhilarating and not half so hard to take as a cold shower, and the combination of the two gives you a lift comparable to finding out that a rich uncle has remembered you in his will. Your inner poise is somehow strengthened when your face has been massaged and beautifully made up.

When you feel depressed and jittery, walk into a beauty salon and have a face treatment. We did this the other day when the combination of gray skies, post-Christmas bills, and too many people gave us an escape complex. And, as usual, we were struck by the fact that one hour in a quiet booth makes you feel that that desert island retreat isn't necessary, after all.

First you flop into a comfortable chair, with your toes free of the tight shoes and a nice downy blanket to snuggle under. Then you're doused with cleansing cream, back, arms, and face. That is fairly pleasant but not a patch on what follows—the long, gentle kneading massage that makes rubber bands of taut nerves and relieves your winter-ridden skin of all its dryness. This part of a face treatment, if you ask us, is what counts for most. You get drowsier and drowsier and then, quite suddenly, but always pleasantly you're snapped out of it by stimulating patting and cool tonic.

Your physical energy is miraculously renewed. The spirits that were down to your galoshes soar higher than the feather on your hat. And your face, freshly and prettily made up even to a smidge of eye shadow, is a face you're glad to look at again. Your firm conviction that you were the homeliest, most bedraggled, and certainly the unhappiest woman in town is smashed to smithereens.

You haven't spent much money, but all's right with your particular world. Next time you're low, get thee to the beauty shop.

Young Family's Joys and Woes Told in Movie

"BLONDIE."

Produced by Columbia.
Directed by Frank R. Strayer.
Presented at the State-Lake, Tower, Belmont, Teatro del Lago, and Lido.

THE CAST.

Blondie	Penny Singleton
Dagwood	Arthur Lake
Baby Dumpling	Larry Simms
C. P. Hazlip	Gene Lockhart
Elsie Hazlip	Ann Doran
J. C. Dithers	Jonathan Hale
Chester Franey	Gordon Oliver
Mr. Hicks	Stanley Andrews
Alvin	Danny Mummert
Mrs. Miller	Kathleen Lockhart
Dorothy	Dorothy Moore
Mrs. Fuddle	Fay Helm
Nelson	Richard Fiske
Daisy	Himself

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's success in the matter of the Hardy family series has inspired Columbia to go and do likewise.

And so, in "Blondie" we have those youngweds, Blondie and Dagwood, and their child, Baby Dumpling, impersonating characters familiar to followers of Chic Young's comic cartoon strip.

The film, which will remind you of the old Christie comedies, deals with Dagwood's predicaments at home and in his office.

The boss is mad at him because he's indorsed the note of an ex-secretary who has fled those parts. . . . Blondie is on the warpath because she thinks Dagwood is two-timing her with a mysterious Elsie.

However, the common passion of Dagwood and an important customer for taking things such as carpet sweepers apart and putting them together again produces most satisfying results. . . . We leave the artless couple in love—and in clover.

This is a naïve little number, naïvely acted.

It is for those who have managed to hold on to their love for the simple things of life.

See you tomorrow.

Hopsack Duets Boon to Limited Clothes Budget

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Suave new color contrasts in definitly young looking clothes, with modest price tags to add more lure, are cut and fashioned with a flair for snap and simplicity. Just because you haven't the wealth of a Croesus to spend on your outfits doesn't mean, thank some kind fortune, that you can't find outstanding loot for your needs.

For instance, some lovely new duets of skirt and blouse top made of that stunning hopsacking material. The skirts are cut in a circle to smooth away inches over the hiplines and to flare with lots of snap around the hemline. There's a swanky wide belt of contrasting colored suede and the skirt without the detachable suede belt has a self-belt of no little smartness.

Blouse tops have brief sleeves cuffed with bands of the material with a short fringe. These match the pocket flaps, also fringed. What you'll have to decide for colors is up to your appreciation of old gold, paper beige, dusty pink, an aqua and a good looking English violet tone.

And the old mixing and matching game is still played by the experts. Over a nice, swishing taffeta petticoat and the entire costume under a dark wool or fur coat you have the last gasp in costume dramatics. Held over for spring, they're equal to any demand for something distinctive. Priced for skimpy budgets, they're the finds of the hour.

For more money, but worth every penny are the knitted skirts so cleverly knitted that the mixed stitches give the effect of a plaited skirt. These come in black and navy. For tops there are the softest and fluffiest of angoras in button down the front style and long sleeves. Chartreuse green is a top color that is featured.

Heart's Desire.

The eyes of a little girl on a Madison street car were blazing with excitement last Saturday morning and Margaret Joslyn, a fellow passenger, was curious to know what was about to happen to her. She struck up a conversation and the child confided she was on her way to compete in the WLS spelling bee.

"Well, I surely hope you will win a prize," said Miss Joslyn.

"Thank you, ma'am," answered the child passionately. "If I win I'll get myself a permanent."

Mixing His Zweigs.

Lecture listeners are still smiling over the introduction made by Theodore Koch of Author Stefan Zweig at Orchestra hall last week. Mr. Zweig had begged that there be no introductory encomiums. Mr. Koch was very brief. He told the audience that as he and Mr. Zweig got into a taxi to come to Orchestra hall a taxi driver had recognized the author from a photograph in a newspaper and had addressed him.

"I enjoyed The Strange Case of Sergeant Grischa, Mr. Zweig," he said. (By Arnold Zweig; no relation.)

Are Their Faces Scarlett?

The members of Dickinson chapter, 56, of the United Daughters of the Confederacy adopted a resolution at a meeting at Ocala, Fla., protesting vigorously against any other than a native born southern woman playing the part of Scarlett O'Hara in Gone with the Wind. The resolution was the subject of an editorial in the Tallahassee Daily Democrat:

> . . . Scarlett O'Hara is the daughter of an Irishman who was not a native born southerner or even a native born American, and a woman of French ancestry whose parents were neither native born southerners nor native born Americans. . . . Had there been a real Scarlett she might have been Vivien Leigh's grand-aunt.

Earlier in the editorial a slap for the U. D. C.:

> Daughters of the Confederacy honor and preserve the history of the southern cause. Knowing history, remembering that the south owes much to men and women who were born elsewhere . . . the U. D. C. should be the last to countenance the theory of the Dickinson chapter's resolution.

Speaking of the south, the little town of Lexington, Va., population 2,800, final resting place of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, is famous not only for its historical points and its universities. During the last two years it has contributed two major successes to Broadway. Brother Rat was written by two Virginia Military students and filmed in Lexington, and On Borrowed Time was written by Lawrence Watkins, a Washington and Lee professor.

Young Man with a Sour Horn.

When Toscanini was conducting the Bolero at Saturday night's NBC concert, hearts of listeners bled for the unfortunate horn player who went so sour at the end. One listener, name Dorothy Leman, visualized his distress as he contemplated facing the maestro afterward. Then it suddenly dawned on her. He was none other than the horn player pictured in a recent cartoon, in the New Yorker, possibly, who remarked airily: "Stokowski, Barbirolli, Toscanini, Stock . . . what does it matter . . . I can make a tramp out of any of them!"

Maria of Italy Is Married to Bourbon Prince

ROME, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Pretty, black-eyed Princess Maria, King Victor Emmanuel's last single child, was married today to Prince Louis of Bourbon-Parma. The ceremony took place in simple splendor in a small palace chapel. The prince is fifteen years older than Maria.

Three queens and four kings, reigning or exiled, attended the wedding. Former King Alfonso and former Queen Victoria Eugenie of Spain were among them, but not together. They have been living apart for some time.

Victoria Eugenie was escorted by former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, whose son, King Boris, also was present. Alfonso escorted the bride's sister, Queen Joanna of Bulgaria. The bride's parents attended, the king giving his daughter away.

The bride wore a white silk dress with a twenty-foot train and a lace veil held by a coronet of orange blossoms.

Benito Mussolini was there in gold braided court attire as premier and knight of the Annunciata, the highest Italian order. United States Ambassador and Mrs. William Phillips also attended.

The bridegroom, big game hunter and descendant of the once sovereign dukes of Parma, is 39 years old. His bride is 24. The couple planned to spend their honeymoon in Belgium and Mozambique [Portuguese East Africa].

Beauty Beaten

Men almost came to blows over Beautiful Bea! Then all of a sudden everything went whackey! Other girls beat her to the dates and parties—when she lost that fresh clear complexion that won men to her. What to do to get rid of the tired drawn look that made her skin look years older? She heard about that wonderful Dioxogen Cream for cleansing and skin toning, that releases stimulating active oxygen right onto your skin. And did her skin pick up? With that radiant wide-awake glow she has now—her weeks just aren't long enough.

Why don't you try Dioxogen Cream—and see what a help you'll find it for a lovely complexion. Use Dioxogen Cream to cleanse off your make-up. Wipe away. Then apply a little more and leave it on a few minutes. Feel the refreshing, stimulating delight of active oxygen breaking free on your skin. A real beauty tonic! A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by a detective, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bag, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated by divorce from him since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns.

INSTALMENT XIV.

INTRIGUE.

It pleased me, as much as I could be pleased in the situation, that the old man had instantly trusted me. Perhaps he would have had to trust anybody, but I thought his faith in me was considerably more than that.

Mary and I were talking of other and lighter things, but I was constantly turning over in my mind every wild idea that presented itself. The most obvious thing was to say, "Mary, there's going to be trouble for you if you stay here. Skip this wedding tomorrow, pack your grip, and fade out of here tonight with me."

But, of course, I couldn't say that. She'd think I was crazy and wouldn't do it anyway. Nothing that I could tell her about my private hunches would make her abandon her dying father or even refuse to go through with a marriage which was apparently something she had been resigned to for a long time. She might even be in love with Charles after a fashion. How could I be sure? Other women were obviously attracted to him.

After dinner the tables were removed—the big one came apart some way and was carried out in sections—and a cowboy band appeared. At least they wore cowboy clothes.

I commandeered Mary for the first dance and found in spite of the fact that I was rusty on my steps and knew none of the later ones at all I was quickly at ease with her. That was no more than natural because Mary was a marvelous dancer.

We were together for several numbers. I expected that Charles would claim Mary, but Charles seemed to have his hands full with the beautiful Mrs. Lodge.

I was cut in on finally, but not by Charles. It was one of the more elderly guests who took Mary away from me.

Not wishing to dance any more for the moment, and especially not caring about entangling myself with Josephine Dangerfield, I left the dance hall and went out onto the terrace. As I walked along I was surprised to see Dr. Lodge in his wheeled chair. He was sitting close to one of the windows peering through at the dancers, a scowl on his heavy face.

I thought that the doctor might not want to be caught spying on his wife. But it was too late to turn back so I coughed discreetly as I lit a match.

The doctor turned away from the window and spoke to me. "Good evening, Mr. Bowman."

"Good evening, doctor. I'm glad to see you're better."

"Better?"

"Yes. Your wife said that you were feeling ill."

The doctor laughed. "I'm surprised that she knew. Sit down."

I drew up a chair alongside. I did not mind in the least giving the cripple a chance for a little man-talk, "I've always had a great admiration for your profession, doctor," I began. "In fact I had a year's medical training—then I had to go to something else."

"Better off," said Dr. Lodge with a trace of bitterness in his voice. "A doctor or surgeon to be any good at his work doesn't have time for anything else. He leads a lonely life."

"I realize," I said slowly, "that he has to give up a great deal, but a——"

The doctor stopped me with a slight pressure on my arm.

I looked to see what had caused his action. Inside the window there were two chairs pushed against the wall. The music had ceased and approaching the chairs were Charles Ferdinand and the doctor's wife.

Mrs. Lodge sat down and Charles was about to leave when she detained him with a hand on his arm.

"Don't go."

"But I've got to, Selma. People will talk."

"Let 'em. This is our last night. Tomorrow you will be married and——"

He laughed shortly. "What difference will that make? You've been married all along."

"It isn't the same and you know it. I'm bound hand and foot to an invalid. I thought my life was over until I met you. I know I sound brutal, Charles, but I'm really very young, and I hate to see the unused years of my youth slipping away."

I was slightly nauseated at being forced to listen to this woman shamelessly baring her heart while her husband overheard her. I wanted to get away, but I couldn't.

Inside the woman was continuing.

"If you go now I must see you again tonight. When and where?"

"I don't know."

"You mean you don't care?"

"No—of course I care. You give me a terrific kick, Selma, but——"

"Shall we meet in the pool?"

"There are too many people about on dance nights."

"I can wait until just before dawn."

The music began once more.

Charles started to rise. "You're mad, Selma."

"One more dance," she pleaded.

"All right," he conceded, half angry.

They got up and swung away.

We, the doctor and I, outside the window sat in silence for a moment.

"I'm sorry," I began.

"You needn't be," said the doctor. "Everybody knows it——" He mused a moment. "My wife and your sister's future husband!"

His remark startled me into a realization that I was actually as much concerned in the matter as he was himself—at least presumably. Probably that was why he had not minded my knowing.

The doctor was continuing bitterly. "Civilization ties our hands with tissue paper ribbons. What do you suppose you would do, and what do you suppose I would do, if we lived in caves and there was a club handy?"

There was a tap on my shoulder. "So I've found you." It was Josephine.

"I thought you would sooner or later."

Dr. Lodge started to wheel his chair from the window.

"Don't let me drive you away, doctor," said Josephine.

"You're not," he replied. "It's getting a little cooler, and besides I've seen enough—more than enough." To me as he went he said, "If you get tired of dancing, young man, come over to my bungalow and have a highball with me. Mrs. Lodge and I have number fifteen."

"Thanks. I might if you're still awake."

"I'm always awake—worse luck."

He wheeled himself rapidly away consumed by I know not what gnawing fury in his heart. My glance and my sympathy followed him.

Josephine linked her arm companionably in mine. "Shall we dance or do you prefer to stroll in the moonlight?"

"Is there no alternative?"

"Not that either one of us would care for. You're falling for Mary Bowman, aren't you?"

"I scarcely know her. But what if I were?"

"It would be funny—that's all. What do you think Charles would do if I should tell him that it isn't all brotherly affection?"

"He isn't in love with her himself, and you know it."

"Next thing to it. He's in love with her money."

Pursuit Is One Way to Lose a Beau for Good

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Please do not think this is just a silly letter. It's terribly real to me. Honestly, it is.

"The boy I adorse has stood me up on a few dates and would not give me a reason. My mother and friends tell me that he isn't worth bothering about. Every one seems to be trying to discourage me. But I keep on loving him just the same. Even more, in fact. I try to tell myself, he isn't worth while, but something inside of me tells me that he is grand and I should not let him go. It's a month now since I have seen him, and every time there is a full moon or I hear the songs we used to hear together I get a huge lump in my throat and can scarcely keep from crying aloud.

"Sometimes, when I am in a more serious mood, I think of the things he has said and done to me and I could just hate him. Is it possible to love and hate at the same time." Tell me please what to do—run after him just a little or wait until he calls up or comes to see me?

"LORRAINE."

I believe, Lorraine, you know what to do. You suspect that it would be better not to run after him just a little, don't you? You wouldn't ask if there were not in your mind some suspicion of the folly of pursuit.

It is assumed that you are quite young and inexperienced. Perhaps this is the only boy to date whom you might claim as a suitor, if you could claim him as such. Are we right? Such being the case, you have exaggerated the importance of his place in your life. You perhaps feel that if he does not return and pay you serious court that you won't have another chance on earth.

You are emotional, as shown by your lumpy throat and tears. It's quite all right to be so if that is your natural makeup, but you have to watch that emotionalism isn't your trouble rather than love or hate.

You just get all worked up over one man, but if another were to come in sight soon, don't you think he would affect you likewise? Suppose you accept that premise, anyway, and wish for the other chap to turn up.

It won't do any harm to turn aside temporarily from this No. 1 heart occupant and see how he really measures up in comparison with another.

Made to Order Character Is Hard to Find

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

We were talking about work and play and people—how much of them we each needed in our lives.

"Mildred and I are different," said Bill Shaw [only his name isn't Bill Shaw] of his wife Mildred [only her name isn't Mildred!]. "I think Mildred could go on for months without seeing people in the evenings." [They are both professional people.] "But I have to get out and circulate—people are almost a necessity to me. Maybe I'm not as self-sufficient as Mildred, or perhaps I'm just naturally gregarious."

Educators and psychologists dwell a great deal these days upon social adjustment. Of course, we must all learn to live with people, enjoy them and get on with them. But "social adjustment" doesn't mean the same thing for all people.

There are Molly and Irene, for example—two girls as different as this husband and wife, Bill and Mildred. Molly is forever on the go—doing everything, going everywhere.

Irene is not at all like her. She likes other girls, but she doesn't seek them all the time. If she wants to do something and no one else wants to do it with her, she'll do it alone rather than trail along with the rest and do what they're doing just for the sake of being with them.

Her mother worries about it. Not having made the most of her own social opportunities, she wishes her daughter would. An experienced teacher reassured her: "As long as Irene fits in as well as she does with children, I shouldn't worry. She's just not like Molly and that's all there is to it. Besides, she has two absorbing interests. You'll have to take her as she is. And if you keep wishing she were like some one else you'd like her to be like, you're going to get into trouble, I'm afraid."

Probably those two girls will grow up being as different as the husband and wife in the first story. That woman, being a clever and fond wife, accepted his difference from herself. She more than tolerated it; she understood it.

The mother and father who can do the same are wise. The parents who are not wise are those who cling to an ideal or pattern and are disappointed because their children do not fit it: like the conventional mother who bemoans her daring and unconventional child, or the aristocratic, aloof parent who almost disowns the daughter who has what she calls "plebeian" tastes, or the intellectual father who is snobbish about his son's talent for all things manual. These parents are digging a chasm between themselves and their children.

Try to accept and really understand your child who is different from you or from your ambition for him and help him to develop along his own lines.

"Understanding the Adolescent" is the name of a leaflet sent on request and upon receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Hydrogenated vegetable shortenings [solidified oils] possess several advantages over other cooking fats. They are consistently so soft and plastic that they are easily mixed into batters and doughs; they are odorless and pure white in color; they keep beautifully at room temperature without becoming in the least rancid; and best of all, they may be heated, without smoke or odor, to the highest deep-fat temperatures used for cooking. Also, the same fat may be used a number of times for deep-fat frying, for it won't absorb the flavors of food cooked in it.

We used to think that for deep frying we needed a large iron kettle and quantities of fat. Some women still harbor this idea and, as a consequence, shy away from making doughnuts, French fried potatoes, croquettes, and other products of deep frying. But, to tell the truth, it's as easy to deep fry in a good aluminum saucepan, and much less bothersome.

A utensil four or five inches deep, and not more than seven to nine inches across, makes a good frying kettle. It's helpful to have a frying basket to go into the kettle or deep saucepan, but a strainer will do in a pinch. The basket or strainer is necessary only in frying small pieces of food, such as onions, potato chips, French fries, and the like. Even then it may be dispensed with if one has a good wire or slotted metal spoon with which to fish these foods out of the fat.

The old way to test the heat of the fat was to wait for it to smoke. But smoking is an indication that the fat is decomposing. We don't want fat to smoke. Another old-fashioned, still good, method is the bread cube test. But the most reliable test of all is made with the deep fat thermometer.

TEMPERATURES FOR DEEP FAT FRYING

DOUGHNUTS—350 degrees. This is a lower temperature than you will find in most cookbooks. Newly completed experiments have proved it most successful.

FRITTERS—365-375 degrees. This classification includes all uncooked mixtures. At this temperature a one inch bread cube will brown in 60 seconds.

CROQUETTES — 375-385 degrees. Cooked mixtures are fried at this temperature.

POTATOES—385-395 degrees. Potatoes are cut in one-half inch strips.

DEEP FRIED OYSTERS

Clean and dry large oysters. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dip in beaten egg, then in crums. Drop into deep fat heated to 365 to 375 degrees, hot enough to brown a bread cube in 60 seconds. Only a minute is required to cook the oysters. Drain on absorbent paper and serve hot with tartar sauce. Oysters may be dipped in mayonnaise or tartar sauce instead of egg before frying.

POTATO CUPS FOR CREAMED MEAT OR VEGETABLES

Pare oval potatoes and hollow each to shape a cup or boat. Parboil 10 minutes, drain, and dry. Fry in deep fat heated to 375 to 385 degrees, hot enough to brown a bread cube in 40 seconds. When well browned, drain on absorbent paper, sprinkle with salt, and serve filled with some creamed food. Potato cups may be kept hot in the oven if they must wait.

Pianist Reuter Plays Benefit for Music Fund

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Rudolph Reuter, resident pianist and pedagog, played a benefit recital in the Goodman theater last night for the Rho chapter scholarship fund of the musical fraternity Sinfonia. A fair sized audience battled its way through the storm to hear a program that began with Bach and Mendelssohn, featured the Schumann "Carnaval" as its major item, and ended with two miscellaneous groups of transcriptions, virtuoso studies, et cetera.

This pianist is intensely sensitive to the works of the out and out romantic composers. His performance of the Chopin Berceuse and Nocturne [F major] and of some of the more melting episodes of the "Carnaval" were delicate, songful, and full of rich and personal nuances of pace and force.

In one of the virtuoso studies—Liszt's "Waldesrauschen"—Mr. Reuter succeeded by means of the filminess and lightness of his playing in turning an empty little piece into what seemed for the moment like an acceptable bit of music. In another—the Godowsky transcription of Strauss' "Artist's Life" waltz—he found himself unable to exhume the simple and sad little tunes from beneath the layers and layers of virtuosity under which the transcriber had buried them. The waltz had a hard cleanness rather than a persuasive flow.

Another adverse comment one could make relates to Mr. Reuter's frequent habit [noticed again and again in the "Carnaval"] of not projecting his phrases with the sustained, expressive curve which many of them demand. The substance of his phrases, also, occasionally went by the board, and the right hand melody line would lack roundness and luminosity.

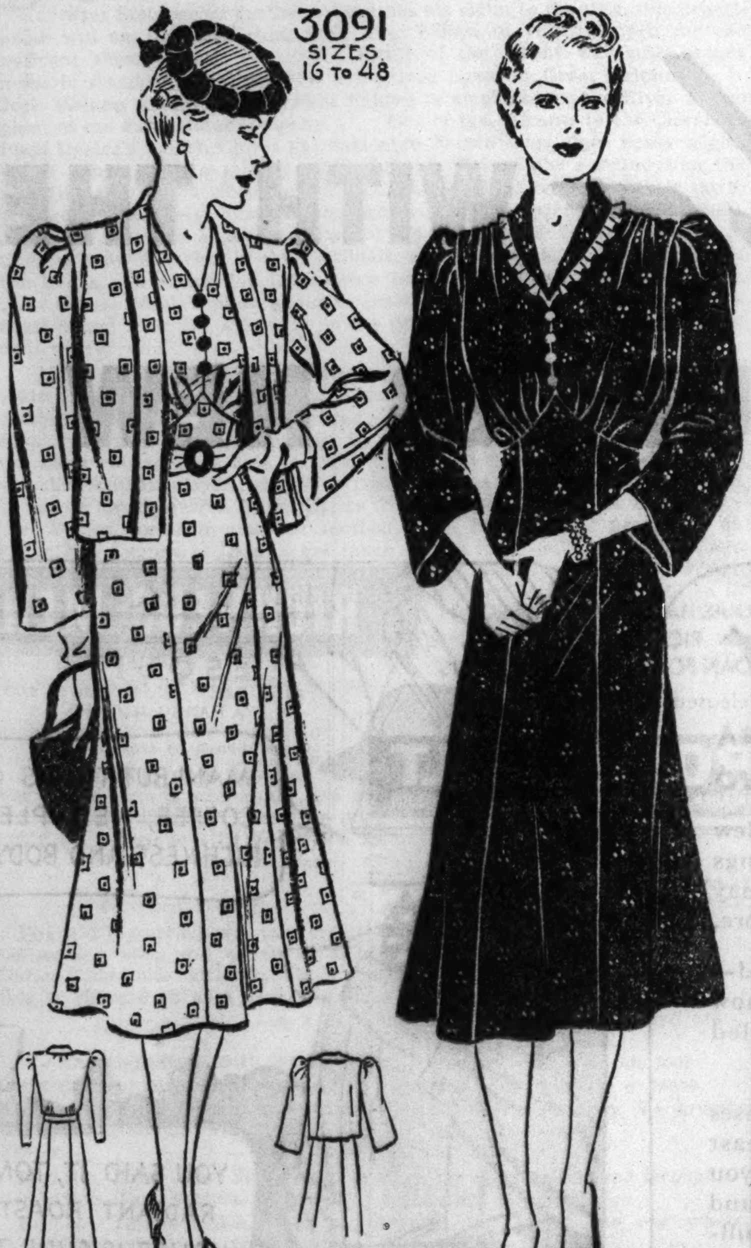
Designed to Slenderize



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

This dress was designed primarily to slenderize. This function makes it equally suitable for both misses and matrons, for who doesn't want to look slim as a pole? The waistline is cut up into the bodice, lending a long line to the skirt, which is paneled for flare. Shirring emanating from the shoulder seams and the waist gives the bodice fullness. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulders and are full for their entire length. They may terminate at bracelet length or extend all the way to the wrists.

The V neckline may have a collar or not, as you choose. If you like the idea of a jacket, the pattern provides for one, with sleeves like those of the dress, and length that is flattering, for it extends only to the hips. Buttons are used down the front of the bodice.

Prints are especially suitable mediums for this pattern, although plain shades certainly are acceptable if your taste prefers them. The design is adaptable for both northern and southern costumes, so take your pick of silks and cottons.

Style No. 3091 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of plaiting for the dress without the jacket. For the extra jacket, 2⅛ yards of 39 inch fabric are required.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Good Taste Is the Nucleus of "Distinction"

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Distinction means being different and doing it with taste."

That's Margaretta Byers' formula for distinction. We thought of the definition as we talked with Elsa Lanchester recently. Miss Lanchester, as you know, is the wife of the famous actor, Charles Laughton, and a stage and screen personality in her own right, as well as the author of a charming book entitled "Charles Laughton and I."

Miss Lanchester is different and has taste.

Do you ever think of women you look at or study as having "lines" or not having "lines"? We mean silhouette lines—not facial. Miss Lanchester was being photographed as we chatted with her. As she sat still for her picture, she presented about as lovely a "line" composition as we have met. Her cleverly shaped and coiffed head on a long, slender throat has just that coveted thing—distinction. She sat with legs crossed ideally right and with toes pointing down. Her figure is slight and extremely supple, so that, from crown to toe, there was that lovely, undulating line of body.

She claims a lovely freedom from a professional beauty's fear of loss of her pictorial assets. "I expect to be working when I'm 70. That's what you can do when you are a character actress." She tells that she and Mr. Laughton spend much time at their country cottage, where there's no electricity, no heat, no modern comforts at all.

They walk a great deal, chop wood, she says, but meaning the other half attends to that. Her book, she confides, took a year's effort to produce.

The truth is, of course, that the very chic and unusual Miss Lanchester is a woman of brains, without which vital equipment such distinction as hers of personality, of person and dress never could be attained.

Elman Concert to Benefit Francis Parker School

Mischa Elman, violinist, will play a benefit concert Sunday afternoon at the Civic Opera house to swell the scholarship fund of the Francis W. Parker school, 330 Webster avenue. Mayor Kelly is one of the box holders. Mrs. Emmons Blaine is honorary chairman and the Rev. Theodore C. Hume, pastor of the New England Congregational church, is chairman of the benefit committee.

WEDDING

Dr. Lionel Topaz announces the marriage on Jan. 20 of his daughter, Mae, of Pine Grove avenue, to Arthur Addelson of Brookline, Mass., son of Dr. and Mrs. Nathan Addelson.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Going over the answers to the examination I was glad to find that there is one bidding sequence which is thoroughly understood by the public at large. That is the proper conventional response to an opening two-bid. Question 48 proved this point:

Both sides vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
2 diamonds	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ A J 4 ♥ K Q 3 ♦ 7 5 2 ♣ 6 4 3 2

What call do you make?

Of the 20,005 answers sent to my office 16,381 had the correct answer, three no trump; 2,719 timid souls were apparently unimpressed by their two-plus honor tricks and responded with a demure two no trump; 452 bid three diamonds. These answers at least had the merit of being positive responses, but, I am afraid, not very good ones.

Four hundred and sixteen for some reason thought well of a two heart response; thirty-seven split their votes among four no trump, three clubs, and five no trump. I am delighted to report that there were only ten players in the entire lot that chose the ace-showing response of two spades.

Frankly South's hand was made as typical as possible for a jump response of three no trump. I was very careful to give South no suit except the almost nonexistent club suit—four to the six spot. South's distribution was purposely put at 4-3-3-3, which is, of course, more adaptable for no trump than for suit play. I must admit that the two heart answers surprised me. Is it possible that there still are many players who feel that a three card major suit can be named just as though it were of four cards or longer? I sincerely hope not!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's spade bid was extremely light, based as it was on only a four card suit, and he would have had great difficulty in finding a correct rebid if North had responded with either two diamonds or two clubs. As it happened, however, North did not have even enough values to keep the bidding open, and when both opponents passed [West because he was trapping and East because he was afraid to reopen] one spade became the final contract.

The defense was excellent and proved the importance of watching the drop of intermediate cards. West decided to attack the trump suit immediately, since to do so would not jeopardize his two trump tricks. He opened the spade four. After long thought declarer played dummy's seven and took East's eight with the jack. A low heart was led toward dummy. West hopped up with the ace and, when the eight spot fell from East's hand, continued with a low heart, the five spot. Dummy's king was played and promptly ruffed by East with the spade six. The club queen was East's return. Declarer won and, for want of a better play, exited with the club ten. West ducked and East won with the jack. West had failed to echo on the two leads of clubs, hence East knew that he did not favor the continuation of that suit. Acting on the line of defense implied by West's choice of opening leads, East now led back his remaining spade, the nine spot. South ducked, but West deliberately overtook with the queen. West had carefully noted the fall of every spade from the jack to the six and knew at this point that he could safely overtake the nine and continue with the king. Declarer's ace was driven out and, when West later regained the lead, he drew declarer's last trump and cashed good tricks, holding the contract to a total of three tricks—the spade ace and jack and the club ace.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of The Tribune, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Stephens Alumnae.

James Madison Wodd, president of Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., will address a dinner of the four Stephens college alumnæ clubs of Chicago this evening at the Medinah club.

Miss Veronese Beatty Will Be Bride in March

Nadia Boulanger, who arrives this morning for a three day visit with Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter.

After luncheon Mrs. Carpenter and her guests will go to the symphony concert. This is the only entertainment that Mrs. Carpenter has planned for her guest, for the distinguished French music teacher is to give several lectures during her brief Chicago visit.

Rack Wagon Will Take Guests to Barn Dance.

If you will look you can see a hay rack pulled by a team of horses on North Michigan avenue early Friday evening. Some of the young people who are going to a barn dance at the Vassar House restaurant that night have arranged for a farmer to bring in his rack and horses from Morton Grove to drive them to the party.

The conveyance will be at Miss Nancy Otis' at 1415 Astor street at 7 o'clock. From there it will go to Miss Kay Stenson's at 1445 State parkway, and then to Ashton Graham's in Bellevue place. By that time it will be filled—the capacity is forty—so the next stop will be the Diana Court building at Ohio street and Michigan avenue in which the Vassar restaurant is located. The barn dance is the first of a series of dinner-dances planned for the late winter and spring.

Sir Ronald Storrs Will Speak Today.

Sir Ronald Storrs will address a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at 12:30 o'clock today in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

Sir Ronald, who is the former military and civil governor of Jerusalem, and the former governor and commander-in-chief of Cyprus and northern Rhodesia, will speak on "The Problem of Palestine."

Those who will be at the speaker's table include Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, Mr. and Mrs. Max Epstein, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Col. and Mrs. Edward Davis, Mr. and Mrs. John Storrs, cousins of Sir Ronald, and Mr. and Mrs. René Weiller.

Junior League Will Hear Talk on Schools.

Mrs. Laura Hughes Linde, chairman of the department of government and education of the Illinois League of Women Voters will speak before the Chicago Junior league on "Governing the Public Schools" at 11 o'clock today at the Drake hotel. Mrs. Linde's talk is one of a series on local political affairs sponsored by the public affairs committee of the league.

Members of the Woman's Athletic club and their guests will hear a lecture on "The United States in a War-Minded World" at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Carroll Binder will be the lecturer.

Wellesley Women Start Luncheon Plan.

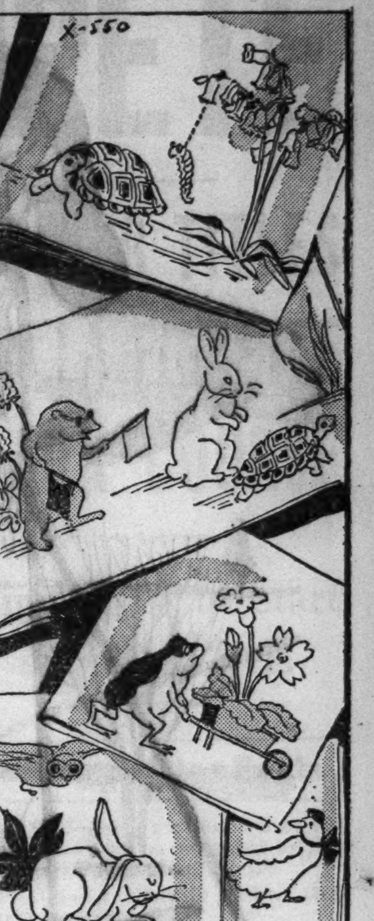
Wellesley women taking luncheon in town today will find a reserved table at the University club. Mrs. Burton W. Hales and Miss Ada K. Rew will be hostesses. This luncheon will be the first meeting in a new acquaintanceship plan of the Chicago Wellesley club.

Similar luncheons will be held on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month. All Wellesley alumnae, whether they are members of the club or not, are invited.

The Charles Garlands are saying "No, thank you; we've had our share of farewell parties" to their friends when the latter want to give going-away parties for this popular couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland are moving to Baltimore the middle of February. A few weeks ago the Garlands, who had come to Lake Forest from the east, moved to Philadelphia, only to return to Lake Forest to the delight of their many friends. This move is a permanent one, however.

Transfer Pattern Relates Tale of Hare and Tortoise



BY NANCY CABOT.

As famous as the race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit is the race of the hare and the tortoise. This hot iron transfer pattern tells the story in unusual fashion, including all the spectators passed en route. These ten interesting figures may be used for a border around a child's bed, a wall hanging, or may be stamped on aprons, bibs, or chair seats and backs.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the hare and the tortoise, No. X-550, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Macauley Everett Tippey of Logansport, Ind., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joanna Janette, to Merrill William Kiester Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kiester of Chicago. Miss Tippey has made her home for the last two years with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Tippey of Chicago. Mr. Kiester attended the Northwestern Military academy and Northwestern university.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Taussig of 4612 Greenwood avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Sarahart, to Jack William Loeb, son of Mrs. Clarence Loeb, of 4828½ Drexel boulevard.

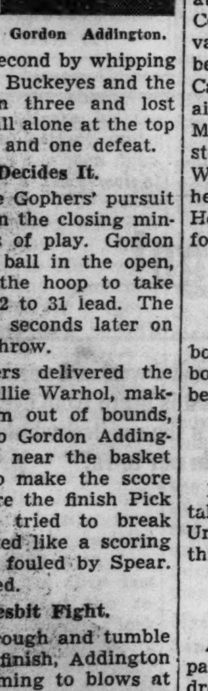
Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 23.—[Special.] — The Minnesota basketball team regained the Western conference lead tonight by beating Illinois, 35 to 33. The record crowd of 14,600 which gathered in the fieldhouse saw the Gophers get to the front in the last two minutes of play after chasing their opponents since the score was 4 to 3.



Gordon Addington.

The defeat dropped Illinois from first place to fourth, Ohio State moving up to tie Indiana for second by whipping Michigan. Both the Buckeyes and the Hoosiers have won three and lost one. Minnesota is all alone at the top with four victories and one defeat.

Addington Decides It.

The climax of the Gophers' pursuit of the Illini came in the closing minute and 56 seconds of play. Gordon Spear, getting the ball in the open, tossed it through the hoop to take Minnesota into a 32 to 31 lead. The Illini tied it a few seconds later on Bill Hapac's free throw.

Then the Gophers delivered the winning thrust. Willie Warhol, making a throw-in from out of bounds, whipped the ball to Gordon Addington, who caught it near the basket and flicked it in to make the score 35 to 33. Just before the finish Pick Dehner of Illinois tried to break away for what looked like a scoring chance, but he was fouled by Spear. His free throw failed.

Addington, Nesbit Fight.

The game was a rough and tumble bout from start to finish, Addington and Tom Nesbit coming to blows at one time. Illinois lost Jay Wardley and Minnesota lost John Kundla on personal fouls in the second half.

Addington dropped a free throw, then added a field goal to send Minnesota into a 3 to 0 lead a short time after the game opened. Illinois then went to work, Wardley and Nisbet sinking baskets.

Once the Illini ran their margin to 14 to 7, but the Gophers reduced this lead to 16 to 11. Another Illinois field goal brought the score up to 18 to 11 at the intermission.

Illinois Slows Down.

Going into the second half, the Illinois players' fatigue and the Gophers' relentlessness entered into the issue. It was the tireless, rough and ready battling that the Gophers had in reserve which gradually closed the margin.

OHIO BEATS MICHIGAN

Columbus, O., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Ohio State continued its drive for a Western conference basketball championship tonight by defeating Michigan, 45 to 31. The game, played before 9,605, was nip and tuck after the Buckeyes surrendered a sizable lead midway through the first half. They led at the half, 23 to 20.

Ohio, however, took command of the situation in the second half after the teams had matched point for point for the first nine minutes of the second period and the score was tied, 28 to 28.

From here it was all Ohio, the Buckeyes finding the scoring punch which was lacking in the first period and scoring 16 points while Michigan was making a free throw and a basket.

Kokomo Sue.

Sue was nervous on the train,
And her neighbors showed disdain
When she ate her liverwurst and Spanish onion;
But she wiped her greasy face,
Bowed her head and said her grace,
And began to read a volume of John Bunyan.

The conductor happened by
And the girl looked rather shy
When he touched her arm and asked her for her ticket;
She surmised just from his look
That the trainman was a crook,
And she felt quite sure his private life was wicked.

Then the newsboy loitered through
And he left a book or two
In the seat beside the one where Susie sat;
He's a slicker, thought the girl,
And with one decisive hurl
She let both books fly and knocked the fellow flat.

When the train pulled in at last
Sue was certainly aghast
When a redcap came to meet her on the fly;
She had heard of the old gag
About stealing a girl's bag
So she planted her umbrella in his eye.

Cops took Susie off to jail,
Notwithstanding her sad wail,
As she heaped on them a torrent of abuse;
And her friends in Kokomo
Will be frantic when they know
That their pride is in the city calaboose.

IT'S ALL OVER BUT THE FIGHTING FOR LOUIS AND LEWIS

They'll Rest Until They Go Into Ring Tomorrow.

New York, Jan. 23. — [Special.] — Joe Louis and John Henry Lewis ended training today. Now they have nothing to do but rest until summoned to the ring of Madison Square Garden Wednesday night for the fifteen round battle in which the former Golden Gloves star will defend his heavyweight crown against the Arizona colored boxer who is recognized everywhere but in New York state as the world light heavyweight champion.

At his quarters in Pompton Lakes, N. J., where he has done his conditioning, Louis went through a final workout featuring four rounds of sparring. Lewis concluded his preparatory work in Summit, N. J., with a light drill that included three rounds of sparring. Both came through the workouts unhurt and benefited by the exercise.

John Henry Plans a Walk.

Until they are summoned to the weighing ceremonies at noon Wednesday Louis and Lewis will rest almost exclusively. John Henry plans a walk of two miles after breakfast tomorrow morning. Joe plans nothing but rest. They will weigh in at the headquarters of the state athletic commission.

Without attempting to divulge figures on the advance sale—these figures have acted as a boomerang on other occasions—Promoter Mike Jacobs said he had every reason to believe the receipts will exceed $100,000 He based this calculation on a near sellout of the Garden. It is significant that Louis never has failed to draw $100,000 indoors in New York. His battles against Paulino Uzcudun, Bob Pastor, and Nathan Mann, in that order, each grossed more than that sum.

Roxborough Is Satisfied.

John Roxborough, one of the managers of Louis, said the heavyweight champion boxed satisfactorily in a round each against Jersey Joe Wolcott and Johnny Vorce, and two rounds against Jim Howell today.

Lewis' boxing was designed principally for speed. He sparred two rounds with Bob Smith, North Carolinan, and a round against Bobby Birch.

Louis weighed 200½ pounds when his training was finished. Lewis was at 183¼ pounds. They are expected to weigh in at or near these figures.

No change was encountered today in the general forecast of the outcome. Louis remained a prohibitive favorite. Admirers of John Henry pointed to his greater activity over the last two years. The Arizona boxer has engaged in thirty-one bouts for an equivalent of 252 rounds in two years, and in that stretch of time has been beaten but once, by Isadoro Gastanaga, whom he later knocked out. In the last year Lewis boxed eleven times for ninety-five rounds.

Louis has had eight ring engagements over the last two years, for a maximum of forty-eight rounds. In the last year he has boxed only three times for a total of eight rounds.

C. Y. O. Boxers Take Physical Examinations for Golden Gloves

Amateur boxers of the Catholic Youth Organization reported in the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street, last night for Golden Gloves physical examinations conducted by a staf of physicians headed, by Dr. William Rothman. The boys, who will compete in both the Open and Novice division of the Chicago tournaments, sponsored annually by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., were assigned to sections. Each received a ticket of admission, personal instructions, and a copy of the referee's instructions.

Tonight more than 900 boxers have been requested to report in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, for the second set of physical examinations.

Must Take Two Exams.

A medical record card is filled out for each contestant who passes his examination. This card is used for a second examination on the night the boy reports for his first bout. The sectional tournaments open on the west side, Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, Feb. 1. Final physical examinations will be held in Trafton's gymnasium on Jan. 31 and Feb. 10. Entries close Feb. 4.

The list of contestants for the west side tournament will be completed tonight. Starting Feb. 1 this tournament will continue Feb. 2, 8, and 9. The south side tournament opens Feb. 7 and boys appearing for examination next Tuesday will be eligible to enter this meet.

C. Y. O. Champs Draw Bye.

Last night's examination did not include the C. Y. O. champions who won their titles last month. This team of eight boys enters the Tournament of Champions to compete against the champions from forty seven out of town centers and the Open division qualifiers in the four sections in Chicago. The Tournament of Champions will be held in the Stadium Feb. 27, 28, and March 1.

One hundred and ten of 112 members of the C. Y. O. passed last night's examinations. C. Y. O. candidates who were unable to report will receive another chance tonight at Trafton's gymnasium.

Salvador Melendez, 4 feet 11 inch flyweight, was the shortest representative to pass the test.

The Sanchez boys, Anatol and Mike, are one of four sets of brothers entered in the meet. The others are Ed and Joe O'Connell, Anthony and Frank Bausone, and Eugene and John Cahill.

All except Joe O'Connell, C. Y. O. welterweight champion, and Frank Bausone, C. Y. O. bantamweight title holder, appeared last night. Joe and Frank qualify automatically for the Tournament of Champions.

The veteran of last night's group was John Hawthorne, former C. Y. O. light heavyweight winner, who has not boxed since being eliminated in the 1937 Tournament of Champions.

Other experienced candidates who passed the examinations included: Walter Cavalieri, member of the 1938 intercity Golden Gloves team; Al Jackson, Illinois Athletic club lightweight finalist; Al Noto, I. A. C. flyweight finalist; Bob Jarrell, I. A. C. featherweight finalist; Pete Stancik, 1938 novice C. Y. O. featherweight runner-up; Isaiah Wells, I. A. C. welterweight finalist, and Ernest Everett Wilson, featherweight.

Fred Jefferson, middleweight, came from Robbins, Ill., for the examination.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Feed box bulletins from the Blackhaws yesterday revealed that Manager Paul Thompson is fixing to devote some practice to the art of shot making. This means that the boys will be instructed in the importance of getting the puck in the cage, an attainment that frequently affords the difference between defeat and victory in a hocky match.

Paul's work in shot coaching will not be misspent effort, if it works. In all their seven games since New Year's night the Hawks aparently have been operating under the misapprehension that it would be illegal for them to score goals in multiple lots. Since the first day of the year the Hawks have scored one goal in each of six games and were shut out once. No Hawk except old Mush March has scored a goal in the Chicago Stadium since Jan. 8.

So Mr. Thompson is going to drill the lads in shooting. Another item on the it's-about-time list.

Johnny Keeps Lead.

Despite the goal famine, however, the league scoring leadership remained in possession of Johnny Gottselig, though the Hawk forward did not make a goal or assist from Jan. 1 until Sunday night, when he got his 25th point of the season on an assist on March's goal. The point Johnny made in the Americans' game was necessary to keep him ahead of Tommy Anderson, who also got an assist Sunday to raise his point total to 24. Other challengers of Gottselig's season long leadership are Toe Blake, Marty Barry, and Sweeney Schriner, all of whom can pass Johnny in a few minutes of hot luck and skill.

While the game Sunday night, the 1 to 1 tie with the Americans, evoked the greatest and loudest chorus of Bronx cheers of the season to date, Manager Thompson said he had been pleased with improvement in the defensive work of his charges. When Thompson took over the defense was the big worry, it then being not uncommon for the Hawks to blow two and three goal leads.

One Thing at a Time.

But while bolstering the defense it apparently was too much for the one track athletes to also keep their minds on scoring. Now, Thompson thinks, if they can acquire some of those plump leads they used to blow with regularity, they may win a few games before the season ends.

Thursday night the Hawks will play one of the two teams in the National league who are worse off than they are, the sixth place Detroit Red Wings.

Prior to the Wings' last visit here on Dec. 22, they had thrashed the Hawks three times in as many games. On Dec. 22 the Hawks promptly fired their way to a 3 to 0 lead early in the game. But alas, they crumpled thereafter. They were lucky to get through the game with a 3 all tie. The Wings were tied with the Hawks in the season at the start of business last Sunday night. The Hawks, however, pulled a point out of the American game while the Wings took a drubbing from the Boston Bruins.

Snead Leaves Golf Circuit Because of Mother's Illness

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager for the Professional Golfers' association, announced tonight Sam Snead had quit the winter golf circuit temporarily and returned to his home in White Springs, Va., because of the illness of his 75 year old mother. Snead left San Francisco Saturday, Corcoran said, after his elimination from the San Francisco open.

TRANSPORTATION—Laramie avenue is 5200 west; take North avenue car and get off at Laramie and walk two blocks south; Laramie avenue buses run from Harrison street to North avenue. Get off in front of park on either Hirsch street or Potomac street.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The twenty-second annual Silver Skates Derbies sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will be held tonight in La Follette park, 1333 North Laramie avenue.

Preliminaries and championship events will be held in all eight age classes. Three thousand eight hundred and thirty-five boys and girls who filed entries for the races, which originally were scheduled for Jan. 14 and 15, are eligible to compete.

Contestants in the four youngest age classes—boys' midget, boys' juvenile, boys' junior, and girls' junior races—will report to the clerks at La Follette park for racing numbers between 4 p. m. and 5:30 p. m. These boys and girls all are under 16.

First Race at 5:30.

The first preliminary in the boys' midget Derby for those under 12 will start at 5:30 o'clock. All preliminaries in these four Derbies will be completed and the championship races will follow immediately so there will be no necessity of these contestants remaining later than 8:30.

Contestants in the boys' intermediate, men's senior, girls' intermediate, and girls' senior races will report at La Follette park between 5:30 p. m. and 7 p. m. for racing numbers. Preliminaries will start immediately. No numbers will be passed out after 7 o'clock and post entries will not be accepted. There is a number for each skater and additional contestants cannot be accommodated.

These Are the Events.

The number eligible, the preliminary distance for each qualifying race, and the championship distance for each Derby follow:

Derby—	Entrants.	Preliminary.	Final.
Boys' midget	450	110 yds.	220 yds.
Boys' juvenile	678	220 yds.	440 yds.
Boys' junior	699	440 yds.	½ mile
Boys' intermediate	655	½ mile	1 mile
Men's senior	829	1 mile	2 miles
Girls' junior	378	220 yds.	440 yds.
Girls' intermediate	87	440 yds.	½ mile
Girls' senior	59	½ mile	1 mile

Each skater reporting for his preliminary race will receive a souvenir bronze button. The winner of each qualifying race will be awarded a gold medal. More than 250 medals were presented last year.

The eight champions will receive silver skates. There are four major awards in each Derby in addition to silver skates, including chromium skates, bronze skates, silver medals, and bronze medals for those finishing second, third, fourth, and fifth, respectively. Gold medals are presented to the skaters who lead the field for the greatest number of laps in the men's senior, boys' intermediate, and girls' senior Derbies.

Two Clubs Near Trophy.

If either the Northwest Skating club or the Catholic Youth organization wins the team championship, permanent possession of the Eckersall Memorial trophy will be gained. These skating clubs, coached, respectively, by Bill Beck and Pete Miller, have won the trophy twice each. A silver trophy also will be presented to the club which has the largest number of contestants reporting for the preliminaries in all Derbies.

Arrangements were completed yesterday by Earl Solem, president of the Illinois Skating association, so that Chicago skaters who are competing in the Olympic trials in Oconomowoc, Wis., may skate this morning and return for the Derbies in La Follette park.

A crew of men were busy yesterday spraying the course in La Follette park and the freezing weather Sunday and yesterday promises the best skating conditions for the Derbies in several years. Loud speakers will be installed to organize the contestants in preliminary races and to announce the results of all races.

CRANE SENIORS DEFEAT WELLS, 32-30; HOLD LEAD

Marshall Wins, 33 to 30; Crane Juniors Triumph.

The Crane Tech senior basketball team, undefeated leader of the west section of the Chicago Public High School league, defeated Wells, 32 to 30, yesterday for its fifth straight victory. The defeat was Wells' first in four starts.

Crane was leading by 6 points with one minute left to play when Killian and Bogdanski sank field goals and Bogdanski a free throw to pull Wells within 1 point, but Marshall countered with a free throw for Crane to give Tech its final 2 point margin.

Marshall remained a threat to Crane by defeating Kelvyn Park, 33 to 30, for its fourth sectional triumph. Marshall is unbeaten in the division. The Crane juniors also remained undefeated with a 36 to 31 victory over Wells. It was Crane's fifth victory in sectional competition.

The Lindblom-Kelly junior game, scheduled yesterday, was postponed.

Harvard school's heavyweights scored their tenth straight victory, defeating Francis Parker, 67 to 26, in a Private school league game.

Flush Kidneys of Acid and Poisons

Gain In Health And Stop Getting Up Nights

When kidneys are continually overburdened they often become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nightly visits to the bathroom are frequent.

A safe, harmless and inexpensive way to relieve this trouble and help restore more healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 35 cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed—don't be disappointed.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute. Ask for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—right from Haarlem in Holland. GET GOLD MEDAL—the original—the genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

Remember—other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble may be backache, puffy eyes, nervousness and leg cramps.

Lake Forest Snaps Carroll's String, 39-38

Waukesha, Wis., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Expert passing and a superb defense enabled Lake Forest college's basketball team to hand Carroll its first defeat in thirty-four consecutive games on the home floor tonight. The score was 39 to 38. The defeat also was Carroll's first in twenty games over a two year period.

Harrison and Gilroy led Lake Forest's attack with 10 points apiece. Johnny Pauler, center, kept Carroll in the game by scoring 17 points on six field goals and five free throws. Lake Forest led, 18 to 10, at the half.

American Legion Joins Clamor for Army-Navy Game

Added pressure was given to Chicago's movement to bring the 1939 Army-Navy football game here with passage of a resolution by the Cook County council of the American Legion asking that the contest be played on Soldiers' field.

This latest demand for the game was sent yesterday to all Illinois members of congress by Perce F. Brautigam, commander of the veteran body's Cook County council. The council speaks for more than 200 neighborhood and community posts, having a membership of 40,000.

CAVALIERS TOP PHILLIPS A. A. U. FIVE, 55 TO 48

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The La Salle Hotel Cavaliers, Chicago's entry in the Missouri Valley A. A. U. basketball league, last night defeated the Phillips 66 quintet of Bartlesville, Okla., 55 to 48, in the feature game of a triple header at the Coliseum. A crowd of 2,700 saw the three games.

The Cavaliers led at the half, 37 to 24, and although the Phillips team drew up to 46 to 44 with seven minutes remaining, the Chicagoans romped home thereafter.

The second game saw the colored Renaissance quintet of New York conquer the Sheboygan Redskins, 55 to 41. After some delay, the Redskins agreed to the New Yorkers' request for a no-foul limit. As it transpired, however, only two players were taxed four fouls.

The Renaissance led 16 to 7 at the quarter, 30 to 19 at the half and 44 to 32 at the third quarter. Pop Gates and Tarzan Cooper led the victors with fifteen points, while Otto Kolar, former Chicago boy, got 10 for Sheboygan.

In the curtain raiser, the Bill Rands' girls five defeated the Taylor Trunks, 35 to 22. The Rands, led by Nath Young and Madge Kline, led all the way by quarterly scores of 12-9, 18-13, and 25-17. Lineups:

The trophy award, made this year for the first time, was inspired by the old Goodwood cup, which was last awarded 61 years ago.

The Password "RHEUMATISM"

Long before the coming of white men, Indians of the Great Southwest proclaimed the pain-relieving properties of a certain mineral water that gushed from rocky depths in the Ozark Mountains. Tradition says that even the most hostile Braves—those tortured with rheumatism—were allowed to pass peaceably on their way to drink from the spring "down the valley." For 75 years suffering men and women have praised this natural, health-restoring aid. Let us send a case to you. Phone Monroe 5460.

Evenly Matched Rivals Meet Tomorrow.

Sixteen boxers—best of a record field of 148—will finish training today for the finals of the Illinois Athletic club amateur boxing tournament in the I. A. C. gymnasium tomorrow. Athletic Director Johnny Behr is of the opinion the survivors, who meet for the eight championships awarded annually by the I. A. C., are the most evenly matched finalists in the seven year history of the meet. The matches:

Al Noto, C. Y. O., vs. Anthony Bausone, C. Y. O., 112.
Frank Bausone, C. Y. O., vs. Willie Moon, C. Y. O., 118.
Homer Williams, Savoy, vs. Robert Jarrell, C. Y. O., 126.
Harry Sparrow, C. Y. O., vs. Al Jackson, C. Y. O., 135.
Jack Carter, Savoy A. C., vs. Isaiah Wells, C. Y. O., 147.
Edward Girard, Savoy, vs. Hiner Thomas, C. Y. O., 160.
Altus Allen, Savoy, vs. Hubert Allen, C. Y. O., 175.
William Snell, Evanston Y. M. C. A., vs. Lee Christiana, Lincoln Turners, heavyweights.

An overflow crowd of more than 800 is expected to be on hand when the 1939 champions are crowned. Officials said less than 100 tickets remain unsold.

Billy Seward, wild swinging 132 pound fighter from Ingamor, Mont., will meet Kenny Bell, former Quincy Ill., sectional Golden Gloves winner, in a four round supporting engagement in Park Casino tomorrow. The card is topped by two contests of eight rounds between Eddie Dempsey and Gene Spencer, and George Van Der Hayden and Bob Tinsley. Tony Sopko is paired with Johnny Rock at 154 pounds, and Willie Kline with Frank Navarri at 137 in two additional scraps at four rounds. . . . A newcomer named Jimmy Haley yesterday was signed to oppose Verle Davis of Kankakee in a six round semi-final to the eight round event involving Tom Kenneally and Lee Savoldi in White City Friday. . . . Milt Aron and Indian Billy Lee have been matched for a ten round headliner in Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioner Sheldon Clark of the Illinois Athletic commission yesterday handed King Levinsky and Pat Murphy a three months' suspension for infraction of rules in their recent wrestling exhibition on the west side. . . . Jesse Owens, former Ohio State track star, will referee two contests on the amateur boxing program in the Savoy arena, 47th street and South Park way, tonight.

◆

Max Marek, 1933 Chicago Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, has been given his release by the Catholic Youth organization, under whose direction Marek has been fighting professionally as a heavyweight for the last four years. . . . Max Baer and Henry Armstrong were visitors in the loop yesterday. . . . Baer stopped off en route to Hollywood, Cal., for a screen test and Armstrong paused to change trains for a Cleveland visit. . . . Baer said he will establish a training camp at Lakewood, N. J., in April for his fifteen round elimination bout with Lou Nova in Yankee stadium June 1. Max also revealed he may box Bill Boyd, Jack Dempsey's heavyweight protégé, in Seattle before facing Nova. . . . Izzy Kline, manager of Willie Joyce, yesterday asked the state boxing commission for a reversal of the decision which called Joyce's fight with Lew Jenkins a draw in White City last Friday. . . . In refusing the request, Commissioner Sheldon Clark explained: "If we start reversing honest decisions there wouldn't be any need for officials." . . . Clark will leave today to attend the Joe Louis-John Henry Lewis heavyweight championship bout in Madison Square Garden tomorrow.

Five intercity matches between Gary and Chicago amateur boxers will be held tomorrow in the 124th Field Artillery armory gymnasium. Floyd Klimczek, Gary welterweight, clashes with Harold Rodie, Chicago. . . . The state athletic board has disapproved Joseph Nelson's license to promote wrestling in Aurora following a report that the lad is a minor. . . . Milt Aron's request for a $2,000 guarantee to meet Johnny Barbara in the Coliseum on Feb. 10 has been rejected by Matchmaker James C. Mullen.

VINES FINALLY WINS ONE FROM BUDGE, 6-4, 6-4

College Park, Md., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines showed a reversal of form tonight and disposed of Don Budge, 6-4, 6-4, in the fifteenth tennis match of their professional series. Don has won ten of the matches.

Playing on a hardwood court, Budge took the lead in the first set, 4-3, then Vines took the next three games. The victor's placement was excellent and his service more than once too hot for the redheaded Californian to handle. An estimated 4,000 saw the match.

Baseball's Gambling Table

A Story of Expensive Failures and Surprise Bargains in Big League Player Deals

[This is the fourth of a series covering major league transactions in which, for better or worse, big money was spent either with a minor circuit or to move an athlete from one major team to another.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

THE biggest bargain of all time was the fellow known as the Babe, now out of the baseball picture. The Babe is a term sufficient to identify him even in the remote ports of call, but his full name was George Herman Ruth, who after starting from scratch in a Catholic orphanage, pitched, batted and otherwise popularized himself into the greatest figure the game ever has produced. Unlike some stars, the Babe, despite the gaudy sports page headlines in which he was involved, never developed a case of ego. That's why he'll linger as a superman in the memory even of those who never saw him in his various baseball specialties.

The Babe, after the season of 1919, was moved from the Boston Red Sox to the Yankees for what then seemed to be the staggering sum of $100,000. It was a lot of money, but developments proved Ruth literally had been given away. He was the keystone around which the New York club, homeless at the time, built baseball's most elaborate stadium to house champions of which Ruth was the individual standout. He revolutionized the game by his hitting. And his sale, in which he was a mere chattel without voice in the matter, was part of another revolution which eventually fetched a change in baseball's government.

Mystery Surrounds Deal Sending Babe to Yankees.

Behind the sale of Ruth were entanglements which still are secrets with the few remaining baseball men who were active in that hectic era. The man who sold Ruth and undoubtedly thought he had showed himself a master manipulator was Harry Frazee, a theatrical promoter who had gotten himself into baseball despite the restrictions with which the American league guards its eight franchises.

Joe Lannin late in 1916 sold his Red Sox holdings to Frazee without consulting the seven other club owners as well as Ban Johnson, the league president. The league met and decided Frazee was not acceptable. But U. J. [Sport] Herrmann, associated with Frazee in the promotion of the so-called drama, went before the league bosses and promised he would be responsible for Frazee's acts as a magnate.

Somewhere in the mixup was a $350,000 loan, the Yankees furnishing the money and, supposedly, taking a mortgage on Frazee's Boston ball park. Frazee probably needed the cash for some of his theatrical ventures. The loan might have been made before he started breaking up the team which in 1918 had whipped the Cubs in a six game world series. Or the loan might have been premised on Frazee's consent to sell to the Yankees the players the latter craved.

Involved in this activity was one Col. Tillinghast Huston, partner of Col. Jake Ruppert when the homeless Yanks were purchased, subsequently being tenants of the New York National league park known as the Polo Grounds. President Johnson developed a dislike for Huston, and it became mutual. The feud went on until Pitcher Carl Mays jumped the Boston team, declaring he never would return. It was the forerunner of his sale to the Yanks. Johnson, as president, smelled a mouse and ordered his return to Boston. The two clubs enjoined Johnson from enforcing his edict and that, with the help of the National league, which was awaiting a chance to shake off Johnson's power as a baseball leader, resulted in the breakup of the governing National commission. The new setup created the job awarded to Judge K. M. Landis.

The man responsible for converting Ruth from a pitcher into an outfielder was Edward Barrow, now president of the Yankees. During the season of 1918 which Ruth's pitching helped to make a pennant winning success for the Red Sox, Barrow, as the team manager, detected the Babe's power as a batter.

Babe Sets New Style—Swinging from the Heels.

The Babe soon saw to it that Barrow's judgment was correct. In 1919, his first year as an outfielder instead of a southpaw pitcher, homers began to bounce off the Ruth bat. He hit 29, a major league record. He was only starting. In 1920, his first year as a Yankee, he boosted the all time high to 54. The next year he raised it to 59. He topped the league again in 1923 with 41, and in '24 with 46 round trippers. His teammate, Bob Meusel, nosed him out with 33 in 1925.

By this time the homers' popularity was definitly established. Wherever he played Ruth was a three ring circus in himself. He drew the crowds and Col. Ruppert, Huston meanwhile having been eliminated as a partner, paid the Babe proportionately. Other players, concerned over the big pay Ruth was drawing, developed into cow tail swingers.

Ruth was back in the lead of the home run parade in 1926 when he hit 47. The next year he reached the total—60—which still stands as a challenge. He was tops with 54 in 1928, with 46 in 1929, with 49 in 1930, and in 1931 shared the league lead with Lou Gehrig. Each hit 46, and from then on the man who cost $100,000 and who at one stage drew a salary of $80,000 per annum, began to travel down hill to the exit gate.

Kettles Drops Brown Twice, but It's a Draw

Alex Kettles, 1937 South Bend sectional Golden Gloves heavyweight winner, and Clarence Brown, former Catholic Youth organization heavyweight champion, battled eight rounds to a draw in Marigold Gardens last night. Referee Phil Collins awarded Kettles the first, third, and last rounds and scored the second and fifth for Brown. The other rounds were even. The majority of the 1,343 spectators thought Kettles deserved the decision. Gross receipts were $1,626.

Kettles scored a nine count knockdown in the first round and a seven count knockdown in the third. In the last round Alex had his colored foe out on his feet. Kettles suffered a cut ear in the fourth and in the fifth Alex's right eye started to swell.

An eight round co-feature between Johnny Brown, west side featherweight, and Eddie Lander, south side, also ended in a draw. A layoff since last summer probably was partly responsible for Brown's showing. On the other hand young Lander's showing proved he is ready for the best in his division.

Tony Motisi, C. Y. O. welterweight, remained undefeated by holding Tommy Pallatin of South Bend to a five round draw. Johnny Williams, Danville, Ill., 148 pounder, and Johnny Rock, also went to a draw in a four round event. In the opener Pete Atkins knocked out Herman Hayes in the second round.

De Paul-Wesleyan Game Is Postponed to Tuesday

The De Paul university-Illinois Wesleyan basketball game, scheduled for next Monday evening, will be played Tuesday night in the De Paul gymnasium, Sheffield and Webster avenues.

Fight Decisions

At Marigold Gardens — Alex Kettles and Clarence Brown drew [8]; Eddie Lander and Johnny Brown drew [8]; Tony Motisi and Tommy Pallatin drew [5]; Johnny Rock and Johnny Williams drew [4]; Pete Atkins knocked out Herman Hayes [2].

At New York—Mickey Farber beat Al Roth [8].

At Pittsburgh, Pa.—Sammy Angott stopped Joey Ferrando [10]; Petey Scalzo knocked out Minnie Demore [6]; Emil Joseph beat Freddie Miller [10].

At Toronto, Ont.—Dave Castilloux beat Armand Sicilia [10]; Henry Hook beat Pablo Dano [10].

CUB CONTRACTS COME BACK TO OFFICE UNSIGNED

Some of the Cub contracts, sent out from club headquarters more than a week ago, have bounced back, bringing with them indications that there are men in the ranks who regard their contributions to last season's pennant achievement as worthy of more money than offered.

Three documents, accompanied by protests either at the amount of a proffered raise or no raise at all, have been submitted to Owner-President P. K. Wrigley for reconsideration. The identity of the balky athletes is a club secret, but it is reported that Billy Herman, the annual holdout, is not among them. Capt. Billy is not expected to sully his reputation for being a No. 1 bargainer.

The only signed contracts received since the precious papers were sent out came from Rookie Pitchers Walter Kirby Higbe and Albert Paul Epperly.

Billy Evans Is Sued for $75,000 in Car Crash Death

Cleveland, O., Jan. 23.—(AP)—William G. [Billy] Evans, head of the farm system of the Boston Red Sox, today was named defendant in a $75,000 suit filed by the estate of Anthony Salvatore, killed in a trafic accident Nov. 26. Evans was driving an auto involved in the crash.

Women Golf Stars Told to Pay Own Way

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The star women golfers who are regular competitors in winter tournaments have been warned by the United States Golf association to refuse free accommodations or reduced hotel rates, it was learned today. Failure to heed the warning will result in the loss of their amateur standing.

Edward L. Cheney of Cleveland, chairman of the U. S. G. A.'s amateur status committee, has sent letters to every player entered in the 1938 national tournament, played in Chicago last September.

Sponsors Warned, Too.

The letters explained that the committee had received reports that a number of players had accepted traveling and hotel expenses and other benefits, either directly or indirectly. Copies of the letter also have been forwarded to those hotels and resorts which sponsor tournaments, Cheney said.

It was learned tonight that Cheney already has received replies from several women, three of them thanking him for the warning, and another registering a complaint.

Miss Glutting Protests.

Charlotte Glutting, long one of New Jersey's ablest swingers and a member of the American Curtis cup team, today pointed out that a majority of the feminine players who keep the game in a high place in American sports are financially unable to play regularly. She said that five or six of the American cup team find it a struggle to play at all because of the cost.

Miss Glutting suggested two solutions. One was that amateur restrictions should be extended considerably, and the other was that every women's tournament should be open to pros and amateurs alike.

SKATE STARS VIE FOR 1,500 METER OLYMPIC BERTHS

15 Chicagoans in Field of 40 at Oconomowoc.

Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Fifteen of Chicago's original field of seventeen skaters are scheduled to report on the ice of Fowler lake tomorrow for their first test of the 1,500 meter American Olympic speed trials. A field of forty is entered.

Leo Freisinger and Eddie Schroeder, two of the original field, have made the team. Freisinger won the 500 meter trials Wednesday and Thursday. Schroeder made it two in a row for Chicago by winning the 5,000 meter trial Sunday. Neither will compete in the remaining two distance trials. A ruling of the speed skating committee of the American Olympic association prevents winners of any one of the trials from racing in the other three events.

Five Stars Carry the Burden.

The task of placing another Chicagoan on the eight-man Olympic team, which will compete in St. Moritz, Switzerland next winter, depends largely upon what five of these fifteen skaters can do in the middle distances tomorrow and Wednesday.

Tony Neberz, Al Kucera, Vic Ronchetti, all of the C. Y. O. Skating club, and Bob Heckenbach and Bob Sherman, Northwest Skating club, are Chicago's best bets to win the 1,500 meter event. Heckenbach, Neberz, and Ronchetti have been pointing for the 1,500 meter title since they began training three weeks ago on Fowler lake.

Ronchetti and Heckenbach lacked the speed to place high in the 500 meter event last week and the stride and endurance to come near the performance of Schroeder and Kucera in the 5,000 meter test. Neberz fell as he was making fast time in the 5,000 meters.

Watch These Boys Go.

Heckenbach and Ronchetti, two of Chicago's greatest American style racers, have resolved to give all they have in the 1,500 meters, as they have little hopes of winning the 10,000 meter grind Thursday. Heckenbach, still bothered by a leg injury suffered in the Illinois meet in Aurora Jan. 2, believes he can beat the national field of forty entrants.

Ronchetti hasn't come near his form of 1937-'38, when he won every major outdoor title in the United States.

Neberz has been complaining of leg weariness experienced in the 500 and 5,000 meter trials. Today's rest may prove an advantage.

Grueber Throws Root in 16:23 in Cicero Windup

Phil Grueber, heavyweight wrestler, threw Jack Root with an airplane slam in the feature match of the show in Cicero stadium last night. The time was 16:23. In the semi-windup Mike Markoff threw Gene Almon in 21:59.

by adding Sugar or Syrups

BUT WE'LL NEVER DO IT . . . And when we bottle we won't use anything but Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created in the beer itself

Today everything is rush and hurry . . . speed and more speed. Well, that may be all right for some things. But I don't think hurry has any place in the making of good beer.

We have made for 47 years a beer called Meister Bräu. We make it now the same as we made it then.

We could use machine-age methods—short-cuts that save time and work. But these are not old-time ways, to produce an old-time brew.

One of the "new" ways is to use sugars or syrups in the beer. This saves time and work. And makes a beer some people may like. But we prefer the old way. Brewing an all-grain brew.

And we could save money by using a cheaper grade of hops. But I found 25 years ago that makes a raw beer.

Our old methods keep the life in the beer—keep its natural foam and sparkle. Like in draft beer. Hence Meister Bräu has the true draft beer flavor.

I know you'll find a real difference in our beer . . . made the old, slow way. But to be sure of getting beer made this way, ask for Meister Bräu. You'll be thankful for a bottled or canned beer made like draft beer.

TECHNICIAN TOO SPEEDY FOR NINE HIALEAH RIVALS

Victory Boosts Rating in Flamingo Stakes.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Technician, stablemate of Lawrin, winner of the Flamingo Stakes last year, stepped into the front rank of candidates for this year's Flamingo when he won the Gulf Tide purse, a 7 furlong dash for 3 year olds, at Hialeah park today.

Eight of the ten starters were Flamingo eligibles and Herbert M. Woolf's bay son of Insco was easily the best. Carrying the light impost of 104 pounds, Technician took command at the head of the stretch and went on to defeat Mrs. Dodge Sloane's tiring Search by four lengths. Search barely lasted to head W. C. Stroube's Sirasia for the place. Technician, a $4.10 to $2 favorite, ran the 7 furlongs in 1:23 2-5.

Winner Displays Promise.

Winners of only two of his fourteen starts as a juvenile, Technician displayed considerable promise by his showing against topflight opposition and today he appeared to realize that promise. Search, giving away sixteen pounds to his rival, made a game effort as he showed the way to the head of the stretch.

Mrs. B. F. Whitaker's consistent 4 year old, Sickle T., ran off with the Coral Gables' purse at a mile and a furlong in 1:48 3-5, two-fifths of a second slower than Brevity's track record. It was Sickle T.'s third straight victory of the winter campaign. Bob's Boys trailed by three lengths in second place while beating Count Valiant by two lengths.

BLAZING SUN VICTOR.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Under the steady handling of C. Fields, Blazing Sun, a 5 year old gelding, stood off the challenges of Instead and the favored Pish Tush today to win the best race at the Fair Grounds, a mile and 70 yards claiming event. Blazing Sun led all the way and finished a length ahead of Instead, which nosed out Cardibre in a photo finish for the place. Pish Tush tired and finished out of the money. The winner, which paid $11.20, was clocked in 1:46 3-5.

DECLARATIONS ARE FILED FOR WIDENER STAKE

Miami, Fla., Jan. 23.—(AP)—A meeting of Stagehand, War Admiral, and Lawrin in the $50,000 added Widener race at Hialeah Park was virtually assured tonight as thirty-seven declarations were filed for the March 4 classic.

Of the seventy-eight original nominees, forty-one were weeded out by failure of owners to post the additional $100 subscription fee. Among these was Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit, now in California.

Stagehand, leading money winner of 1938 trained by Earl Sande and owned by Maxwell Howard, is expected to be brought here shortly from Columbia, S. C. Herbert M. Woolf's Lawrin, the Kentucky Derby winner, and Samuel D. Riddle's renowned War Admiral, which won the Derby in 1937 and the Widener last year, already are here.

Other outstanding Widener eligibles include Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's Pasteurized, winner of the rich Belmont stakes; Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Heelfly, Perifox, owned by Louis B. Mayer, Calumet farm's Bull Lea, and Volitant of the Saratoga stable, a leading 2 year old last year.

16 YEAR OLD BOY TAKES TRIBUNE CASTING CROWN

Eddie Yasulaitis Scores 99 for 4th Trophy.

Eddie Yasulaitis, 16 years old, made a near perfect score of 99 in the Tribune casting tournament last night in the International amphitheater to win the competition staged for members of the Chicago Fly Casting club. The tournament is one of the features of the International Outdoor Sportsmen's show being held from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. every day through Sunday.

It was the fourth Tribune trophy for Eddie, but until this year he competed in the junior contests.

Casters Compete Tonight.

Albert Cuchna, with a score of 97, was second, and third place was a tie between A. G. Eckwald and George Hess, both of whom scored 96. Eckwald defeated Hess in the castoff to qualify for the finals Sunday afternoon.

Members of the Illinois Casting club will compete tonight, practice starting at 7 o'clock and competition half an hour later. Unattached casters still have time to sign up for the fishermen's event and the obstacle event on Saturday and Sunday.

Varied Sports Program.

Among the various contests and exhibitions in the central arena and the south wing of the amphitheater are those for casters, archers, retriever dogs, table tennis, indoor trap and skeet shooting, horseshoe pitching, indoor ski jumping, log rolling, canoe tilting, and wood chopping.

Tuck of Barrington, Labrador retriever owned by Arthur Wachholz, won the retriever test held yesterday. Second place went to Dev of Barrington, Labrador owned by William Walker, Park Ridge.

WILLIAM INGRAM, FATHER OF NAVY ATHLETS, IS DEAD

Jeffersonville, Ind., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—William T. Ingram, father of Capt. Jonas and William A. Ingram, two of the United States Naval academy's most famed athletes, died here today at the age of 81.

Mr. Ingram, who was engaged in the real estate and sand and gravel business, had been ill for a number of weeks, but his condition was not considered serious enough to warant summoning of other members of the family. His third son, Warland, was the only one of the three present when he died.

William A. Ingram, known as Navy Bill, was a stroke on the middies' crew and also served as football coach and athletic director at Annapolis. He also coached at William and Mary, Indiana university, and the University of California. He now is in business at Piedmont, Cal. Capt. Jonas Ingram is commanding officer of the Brooklyn Navy yard.

BOZEMAN WINS 8TH STRAIGHT IN TITLE CUE MEET

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., won his eighth consecutive game in the national three cushion billiard tournament tonight by beating Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, 50 to 46, in 30 innings. He beat Reiselt, 50 to 31, in 47 innings this afternoon. Reiselt had a high run of 11 tonight to Bozeman's 9.

HALL, McCOURT DIVIDE.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Allen Hall of Chicago defeated Charles McCourt of Cleveland, 50-44 in 54 innings, today in the national three cushion billiard tournament. Hall had a run of five. McCourt's best was four. McCourt defeated Hall tonight for his first victory of the tournament, 50-48 in 45 innings. He had a high run of eight, while Hall's best was five.

LAYTON, DENTON SPLIT.

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Johnny Layton, representing New York, split with Tiff Denton of Kansas City today. Layton won this afternoon, 50 to 46 in 51 innings. Tonight Denton outlasted his rival in a long drawn match, 50 to 49 in 68 innings.

REPORT MEADE PASSES OFFER TO RIDE SEABISCUIT

Miami, Fla., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Charles S. Howard, owner of Seabiscuit, is reported to have offered Don Meade, leading jocky of the Hialeah Park meeting, an opportunity to ride America's No. 1 horse in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap March 4. The report stated that Meade turned down the offer because he is under contract to Trainer George Odom who will send Pasteurized to the post in the $50,000 Widener cup race at Hialeah on the same date. It was said that Howard made the proposal to Meade in a telephone call from California last night.

Meade, who is making a comeback at Hialeah after being barred from the turf for two and a half years, has ridden twenty winners in the first ten days of the meeting.

Hoyt Will Be Referee for Illinois Indoor Relays

NATIONAL BANKS REVEAL DETAILS OF INVESTMENTS

First Time Under New Rule Imposed by U. S.

National banks in Chicago yesterday for the first time released figures showing how their investment accounts were distributed among United States government securities, state and municipal bonds, other bonds and corporate stocks.

These detailed statements are required by new regulations imposed by the controler of the currency and must be filed with the controler's office by all national banks in the United States. National banks released their "short form" abbreviated statements at the beginning of January in answer to the regular first of the year "call" by the controler. The "long form" statements were filed subsequently and part of the latter statements was released for publication ysterday.

What New Forms Cover.

In the past national and state banks merely classified their investments in two groups: [1] United States government securities, and [2] other bonds, stocks and securities. In the new form they report: [1] United States government securities; [2] obligations of states and political subdivisions; [3] other bonds, notes and debentures, and [4] corporate stock, including stock of federal reserve banks. The first group includes securities guaranteed by the government as well as direct obligations of the government.

Yesterday's reports showed that the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company on Dec. 31 held 552 million dollars of government securities; $16,802,000 of state and municipal securities; $30,609,000 of other bonds, notes and debentures, and $15,803,000 of corporate stock, including stock in the federal reserve bank.

The First National Bank of Chicago reported 339 millions of government securities; $19,636,000 of state and municipal securities; $49,175,000 of other bonds, notes and debentures; and $12,532,000 of corporate stock.

Showings of Other Banks.

The City National Bank and Trust company reported 34 millions of government securities; $4,965,000 of state and municipal bonds; $4,752,000 of other bonds, notes and debentures, and $180,000 of corporate stock.

The American National Bank and Trust company reported $14,830,000 of government securities; $6,982,000 of state and municipal bonds; $2,836,000 of other bonds, notes and debentures, and $73,000 of corporate stock.

Other changes not shown in the published reports also are included in the current reports required by the controler. An attempt is made in the new forms to force all national banks to distinguish more carefully between ownership of real estate and investments in securities. There is a clearer definition of what constitutes ownership of bank premises and other real estate. Previously some banks have concealed ownership of real estate by classifying it as "investment" in securities of affiliates which actually own the real estate.

Brings Realty Into Open.

"The new manner of reporting," one banker said yesterday, "will get real estate into the open instead of confusing it with marketable securities."

The changes effective in the current reports are the first important alterations in methods of bank reporting in about five years. Among other things the controler now requires that banks report not only the amount of their holdings of long term government bonds but also that they show when their holdings of such bonds mature. Whether these statistics are to be used by the treasury in determining the maturity dates to place on new issues of government bonds has not been disclosed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 23.—In the severest break since the Munich war scare of last September, stock market prices today collapsed 1 to 10 points.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht: His ouster is market factor.

All sections of the list gave way in a series of selling onslaughts which came from many quarters. Brokers were unable to state one definite cause of the selling. However, they said the possibility of international complications if the rebels in the Spanish war win the victory was believed to be an influence. In addition, the disclosure that Prime Minister Chamberlain was to broadcast a defense speech later in the day was interpreted as indicating a possible European explosion. His speech came after the close of the market, and was milder than had been expected.

Other Possible Influences.

Fears over the German financial muddle hinging on the ousting of the conservative Reichsbank régime of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht was an influence, as was the belligerent speech made Sunday by Premier Mussolini of Italy.

Much short selling developed and offerings of American securities by foreigners were said to be in larger proportions than for some time.

Transfers totaled 1,881,120 shares. Trading was heaviest in the opening and closing hours, when the largest losses were registered. Volume contracted sharply when prices gave indications of resisting.

Standard industrial issues were in heaviest supply. Losses running to six points were recorded for such issues as United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Anaconda, American Smelting and International Nickel.

Indicated by Indices.

The extent of the decline was indicated by the Dow-Jones averages. The industrial group, consisting of thirty representative issues, closed at 141.32, off 5.44. The rail average fell 1.97 to 29.13. The utility index closed at 22.70, off 1.27. Of 901 issues traded, 812 declined, 30 advanced and 59 closed unchanged.

Preceding the opening here markets in London, Paris and Amsterdam were exceptionally weak. Financiers in Amsterdam began selling guilders in London to acquire dollars. Dispatches from Amsterdam said traders there, alarmed over what might happen in Europe, sought to transfer their funds into dollars as a refuge. The Berlin market advanced, however, on prospects of inflation.

Rail shares monopolized the tape for a time in the early trading. New York Central gave up 1⅝ points. Santa Fe and Southern Railway were hard hit, slumping 3⅝ and 2½ points, respectively. Union Pacific lost 3 points, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central and Chesapeake and Ohio each lost more than 1 point.

Aviations Are Weak.

Aviation issues were extremely weak as a group. Douglas registered a drop of 4¼ points. Losses exceeding 2 points were shown by Boeing, Bendix, Glenn Martin, Sperry and United Aircraft and Consolidated Aircraft.

Chief losers among pivotal utility stocks were Consolidated Edison, off 1½; North American company, off 1½c; American Water Works, off 1, and Electric Power and Light, off ⅞.

In the heavy machinery group, Westinghouse lost 5⅜ points and Case 6½. General Electric, International Harvester and Allis Chalmers each lost around 2 points.

Losses in the merchandising group ran to 3⅞ points in Montgomery Ward. Sears-Roebuck gave up 1¼ points.

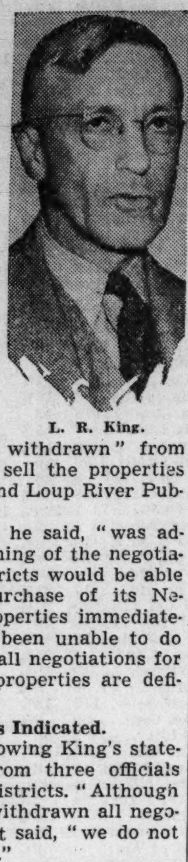
PROPOSALS FOR LEVEE WORK—U. S. Engineer Office, P. O. Box 97, Memphis, Tenn.—Sealed proposals will be received here until 11:00 A. M., February 9, 1939, and then opened, for constructing approximately 4,078,000 cubic yards of earthwork and installation of four corrugated metal culverts on east bank of Mississippi River below Tiptonville, Tenn., in Lake County Levee and Drainage District (Tiptonville-Obion River, Tenn.). Information on application.

Utility Cancels Sale Offer; Nebraska Scheme Imperiled

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The proposal for a state-wide Nebraska public power network was placed in a precarious position tonight when the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company withdrew from a plan to sell its Nebraska electric facilities. Two public power districts were to have been the buyers.



L. R. King.

L. R. King, president of the power company, issued a prepared statement which said Iowa-Nebraska "has entirely withdrawn" from the agreement to sell the properties to the Tricounty and Loup River Public districts.

"The company," he said, "was advised at the beginning of the negotiations that the districts would be able to finance the purchase of its Nebraska electric properties immediately, but they have been unable to do this. As a result, all negotiations for the sale of these properties are definitly canceled."

New Efforts Indicated.

Immediately following King's statement came one from three officials of the two power districts. "Although the company has withdrawn all negotiations for sale," it said, "we do not intend to give up."

Negotiations for the transaction were carried on for several months and authority for the sale was given recently by the federal power commission. Last week the New York investment firm which was to handle the financing announced the deal was postponed indefinitly.

In announcing the postponement, spokesmen for the investment firm indicated their action was the result of a bill introduced in the Nebraska legislature the week before. The measure would take from directors of the power districts and holders of their securities the right to fix rates.

Predicts Competition.

Dr. Clarke Foreman, director of the power division of the Public Works administration, which is financing construction of the districts' own facilities, said in Washington a probable result of the Iowa-Nebraska action would be competition between the company and the districts.

"We have no interest in the purchase," he said. "We merely allowed it by approving a change in the PWA bond indenture."

Horace Carey, president of the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation districts, said "I don't believe the whole Nebraska deal has fallen through. It might involve getting other bankers to handle the bonds. I don't think it indicates the deal is over, although a new line of approach may have to be started."

Linking of Lines Planned.

The Platte Valley district is one of the three principal ones in the state. It planned to participate in some private power company purchases, and link its lines with those of Tricounty and Loup River.

C. B. Fricke, president of the Loup River district, said "It is hard to know what to say in a situation like this. I don't know what we'll do until we have had a chance to study the matter. It is just another problem to meet."

Joining in his statement were the other two officials of the affected districts—R. O. Canaday, chief attorney and secretary of Tricounty, and Harold Kramer, secretary and general manager of Loup River.

Bonds Break; Chief Losses Occur in Rails

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The bond market broke today as stocks incurred the sharpest setback in four months. Loses of 1 to 4 or more points liberally sprinkled the loan list.

Down the most were secondary rail loans, which move closely in step with stocks, but off nearly as much were foreign dollar bonds as selling orders swept into local securities markets from abroad.

Touching off liquidation were reports that the Spanish insurgents were closing in on Barcelona, and rumors that Prime Minister Chamberlain was about to make a strong defense speech which would indicate the gravity of events in Europe.

Federal Loans Slip.

United States government issues, which had been touching new highs for a year or more, slipped back with other loans. Although one maturity showed a gain of 5-32ds of a point, all other active issues were on the downside, with losses in some cases as much as 8-32ds.

Down 1 to 4 or more points among domestic corporate loans were Baltimore & Ohio first 5s of '48 and 4s of '48, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Illinois Central 4¾s, New York Central 5s, International Telephone 5s, Studebaker 6s, and Western Union 5s.

Foreign Bonds Fall.

Off 1 to 3 or more points among the foreign issues were Italian 7s of '51, Milan 6½s, Rome 6½s, and German 5½s of '65. French 7½s, stamped, were up ⅞ point.

Transactions totaled $8,630,425, face value, the largest since Jan. 5. The turnover was $6,188,000 on Friday.

U. S. SUIT AGAINST CALUMET BANK'S RECEIVER HALTED

A $350,000 suit charging Clarence F. Buck of Monmouth, former Chicago collector of internal revenue, with mismanagement of the assets of the closed Calumet National bank while he was receiver, was dismissed yesterday in federal court by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

The motion for dismissal was made by Attorney Theodore F. Rein, who had filed the suit in behalf of Preston Delano, United States controler of currency. Counsel for the Eagle Indemnity and Royal Indemnity companies, which had bonded Buck for $350,000, contended the federal court had no jurisdiction. Rein agreed to refile the case in Circuit court.

Steel Output Rate Sags to 51.2% as Week Opens

The nation's steel mills started this week with operations at 51.2 per cent of potential capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This rate is a decline of 1.5 points from that of the preceding week.

DUTCH CURRENCY SLUMPS; BRITAIN CONTROLS POUND

The Dutch guilder declined sharply in terms of the dollar yesterday in foreign exchange trading. Under a heavy trans-Atlantic movement of funds to this country, the Dutch unit dipped 0.16½ of a cent to 54.09 cents.

Activity of the British control fund, however, kept the pound sterling and the French franc relatively steady. The pound closed ⅜ cent higher at $4.67⅝. The franc eased after showing early strength, finishing 0.00 3-16 cent lower at 2.64⅛ cents. Other principal European currencies were mixed.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported the engagement of $3,374,000 gold in England for shipment to this country.

SILVER CONTROL ISSUE DODGED BY MORGENTHAU

Roosevelt Is Playing Waiting Game.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today sidestepped any commitment on the administration's silver control program. This strengthened the belief that President Roosevelt is playing a waiting game before recommending its extension. A group of senators is demanding repeal of the silver purchase act.

There was a conspicuous failure to mention silver in the President's recent letter to congress recommending extension of his powers over the 2 billion dollar stabilization fund and the gold content of the dollar.

In view of growing resentment over the administration's decision to continue the subsidy of 21 cents an ounce to western silver producers, it is believed that President Roosevelt is waiting to see whether the silver bloc or the anti-silverites in congress are the stronger.

Power First Granted in 1933.

The President's power to regulate gold and silver prices was first granted in the Thomas amendment to the agricultural adjustment act of 1933, and later was incorporated in the gold reserve act of 1934. The powers over gold and silver prices are intertwined, and both will expire June 30 of this year unless renewed. The request for gold regulation extension alone indicates a standoffish attitude on silver and leaves it more to congressional debate.

Morgenthau today was asked about this interpretation.

"I'm 100 per cent in favor of what the letter said," the secretary replied. "As far as silver is concerned, until congress takes some action we'll continue to follow the mandate of congress."

Won't Discuss Price.

In response to further questioning he suggested that the silver bloc be contacted for information. Later he declared that the letter meant just what it said — retention of present powers which have been renewed in the past. But his conversation was limited to the dollar and the stabilization fund.

Concerning the stabilization fund, Morgenthau said that its profit from operation is now more than the 6 million dollars which he reported to congress at the last session. Previously he has said that the fund has paid all expenses out of profits from dealings in foreign currencies in support of the dollar.

The secretary also said that a public offering of 100 million dollars in five year United States housing authority notes next Wednesday, to be made through the treasury, may mark the beginning of the treasury's acting as marketing agent for other government agencies. The coupon rate and other details of the offering will be announced Wednesday morning.

Usually Borrows Directly.

Morgenthau said the authority had been borrowing from the treasury directly in the past, but that this time it was a case of needing "real money," so the treasury is carrying the loan to the public. He said the notes will have certain tax exempt features, and that he expects mostly institutional buying. The notes will still leave the market open for the treasury's bill offerings.

Out of the proceeds of this offering the authority will repay the treasury's general fund for money previously borrowed.

The treasury's latest weekly offering of bills was sold today at prices ranging from par to a low of 99.997, the average price being 99.998. Bids on last week's bills ranged from slightly above par to a low of 99.999.

RFC Sues Education Board for Payment of Warants

An action against the Chicago board of education for an accounting of payments on 1929 school board tax anticipation warants was filed yesterday in Circuit court in behalf of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The suit seeks collection on a pro rata basis of $110,000 worth of warants. The petition said the RFC held $75,000 in educational fund warants and $35,000 in buildings warants of the school board, but that interest and principal payments have not been met.

Bill Filed to Cut Interest on Loans to War Veterans

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Representative Thomas [R., N. J.] introduced today a bill to reduce interest rates paid by veterans on government life insurance loans from 6 per cent to 4 per cent.

Court Halts SEC Quiz on Giannini Firm

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—A federal district judge today ordered the Securities and Exchange commission to suspend its proceedings against the Transamerica corporation until the court hears arguments on Transamerica's petition for an injunction against the SEC.

The commission has been holding hearings in which Transamerica, 200 million dollar holding company for A. P. Giannini, California banking leader and former New Dealer, must show cause why its capital stock should not be delisted from the stock exchanges in New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. Transamerica is accused of filing false and misleading financial statements.

Transamerica's petition for an injunction was aimed at keeping the affairs of Bank of America, fourth biggest bank in the country and a subsidiary of Transamerica, out of the SEC proceedings. The bank is operated by Giannini and his son, L. M., who is its president.

Transamerica lawyers contended in the petition that the SEC did not have jurisdiction over bank matters. They assailed as illegal the commission's acquisition of information on Bank of America from the controler of the currency.

Since the petition was filed in the local District court, the SEC has been conducting its hearings without mention of Bank of America or any further attempt to subpena its records.

Today Judge Daniel W. O'Donoughue of the District court issued a verbal order as arguments began on Bank of America's injunction petition instructing the SEC to suspend its investigation until further arguments are heard on the injunction plea. He later deferred arguments until next Monday.

Donald R. Richberg, former NRA administrator and brain truster, who is chief of Transamerica's counsel in this case, had requested the suspension of SEC hearings.

WARNS U. S. SPENDING IS AS DISASTROUS AS 1929 GAMBLING ORGY

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—"Warn the people that this 1939 new era borrowing policy will prove to be as disastrous as the 1929 gambling policy." This action was urged as the "duty of American bankers" by Thomas A. Wilson of Binghamton, N. Y., in an address today to the New York State Bankers' association. Wilson is president of the association, which held its regular midwinter meeting.

Wilson, head of the Marine Midland Trust company, Binghamton, urged that private capital be encouraged to develop resources. He added: "I am convinced that because of the present fiscal policy, for every public dollar borrowed or put to work, two private dollars are scared into hiding.

"A continuance of present deficit financing," he said, "must inevitably lead to harmful inflation, a further reduction of the gold content of the dollar, or an almost confiscatory taxation."

USE OF CHECKS SHOWS INCREASE IN MIDDLE WEST

Checks written against individual deposit accounts in banks in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district in the week ended Jan. 18 totaled $1,159,334,000, a decrease of 3.8 per cent from the $1,205,055,000 reported for the preceding week.

This was disclosed yesterday in the weekly report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago covering 159 banks in forty-one leading clearing house cities in the district. Compared with the $1,108,575,000 reported for the corresponding 1938 week, there was a gain last week of 4.6 per cent.

Checks written against accounts in the Chicago banks alone totaled $657,298,000, against $639,217,000 in the like 1938 week.

BUTTER SLUMPS; END OF FEDERAL BUYING IS DENIED

Butter futures prices on the Chicago Mercantile exchange again fell to new lows yesterday. Continued rumors of an impending change in the federal price support program plus an unsettled cash market caused the slump.

Traders fear that the government may be ready to abandon entirely its attempt to peg prices. This rumor, which demoralized the market last week, persisted yesterday despite announcements by Federal Surplus Commodities corporation officials that no such move was contemplated.

January storage butter finished ⅛ cent a pound lower at 24⅜ cents.

CHICAGO TRAINS MAKE FASTEST RUNS IN WORLD

Compete for Speed to Twin Cities.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Keen competition was disclosed yesterday among three Chicago railroads—the Burlington, Milwaukee, and North Western—for the profitable passenger business between Chicago and St. Paul-Minneapolis. Out of this competition middle western travelers gain the fastest passenger train service in the world for a comparable distance and luxury travel second to none.

Faced with competition of a new train, the Morning Hiawatha of the Milwaukee road, the Burlington last Saturday reduced the running time of its morning Zephyr by 15 minutes, making it the fastest of the high speed trains to the Twin Cities. The North Western is waiting court approval for the purchase of two streamliners for the Twin Cities service.

May Shade Scheduled Time.

The announced running time of the Burlington's Morning Zephyr to St. Paul is 6¼ hours for the 431 mile run, an average speed of just under 69 miles an hour. But the running time will be nearer 6 hours whenever the Morning Zephyr is held to permit connections with eastern and southern trains. Then it will leave at 9 a. m. insetead of 8:45 a. m., as scheduled, and the running time will be six hours, making an average speed of 72.2 miles an hour.

The Burlington railroad had sought to place the Morning Zephyr on a 6 hour schedule but its request was turned down by E. C. Johnson, new chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives.

Trains Vie for Speed.

The Morning Zephyr left on its two first trips for the Twin Cities at 9 a. m. on Saturday and Sunday, and on each occasion it arrived ahead of time. Yesterday it left at its regular time. The first of the high speed trains to Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks declined sharply yesterday with the New York market. Trade was spirited, 52,000 shares changing hands during the session. Of the 151 issues traded, 122 dipped, and only six advanced. The Tribune average of 20 stocks finished at 10.73, off 0.61 from Saturday.

Volume leaders tumbled fractions to more than 2 points. Marshall Field closed 1 point lower at 12¾. Middle West was off ⅝ at 7¼, and Commonwealth Edison was down ½ at 27. Bendix Aviation had the largest loss among the leaders, dropping 2½ points to 23½. General Motors was off 1⅞ at 44⅛. Butler Brothers was down ½ at 7½, and Chicago corporation was off ⅛ at 1⅞.

Katz Drug was ½ lower at 4, and Swift & Co. was down ⅝ at 18⅞.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks declined yesterday in sympathy with the abrupt slump in other securities markets. Dealers reported that leading issues dropped from $2 to $4 in light trade. Shares of the American National Bank and Trust company, the Chicago Title and Trust company, and the City National Bank and Trust company all declined $2; First National bank stock, $3; Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, $3.50, and Northern Trust company, $4.

COTTON

Weakness in securities was largely responsible for a recession in prices on American cotton markets yesterday. The close was near the bottom with net losses of .05 to .10 cent a pound. Houses with foreign connections and spot interests sold futures, while mills bought.

Spot cotton closed .07 to .08 cent lower, with New York, 9.01 cents; New Orleans, 8.65 cents, Houston 8.42 cents, and Galveston at 8.37 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

Yesterday's sharp drop in security prices broke commodity markets. Futures prices declined generally in the widest tumble of recent weeks. The Dow-Jones index of eleven commodity futures finished at 47.34, off 0.56 from Saturday.

The sugar futures market was the only one to withstand the wave of selling. Cuban buying and switching operations in the domestic contracts absorbed liquidation in the March delivery, and final quotations were unchanged to 0.01 cent a pound lower. The world contract, dominated by a steady London Market, finished 0.01 to 0.015 cent a pound higher.

Declines of other commodity futures ranged to more than ½ cent a pound. Hides incurred the largest loss, dipping 0.45 to 0.57 cent a pound at New York. The decline at Chicago was 0.45 to 0.50 cent. Sales here established a new high trading record.

Under heavy selling pressure coffee futures dropped 0.08 to 0.11 cent a pound. Rubber futures were off 0.22 to 0.26 cent,

FOOD INDUSTRY MEETINGS BRING 20,000 TO CITY

Several Big Associations Begin Conventions.

About 20,000 persons connected with the nation's food industry yesterday crowded Chicago's hotels to attend annual meetings of their associations.

Neil Carothers predicts business gain.

The largest meeting was the joint convention at the Stevens hotel of the National Canners, the Canning Machinery and Supplies, and the National Food Brokers' associations. About 500 companies are represented at the Stevens meetings.

It requires about 350,000 growers of crops to supply the needs of the nation's canning industry. And the packing industry—that part of the industry that sterilizes its products by heat after the products are in the cans—uses about 11 billion cans.

Discuss Use of Surpluses.

The most important subject at the canners' meetings was the problem of dealing with their surplus stocks—a problem much different from that of many other nations whose problem is to find food to put into cans.

Despite the fact that the acreage devoted to supplying crops for canning was cut about 10 per cent last year, unusually good weather resulted in larger crops than were harvested in the preceding year on the larger acreage. Surpluses were especially large in peas, string beans, and kraut.

Officials of the National Canners' association said the pea crop last year was the largest and of the best quality in the history of the industry.

Consider Research Bureau.

The associations are discussing plans for a bureau of economic research to help in solving marketing problems. Since 1913 research work conducted by the canners' association has largely been devoted to scientific efforts to help production.

Mayer discussed problems created by new legislation, including the wages and hours and the food and drug acts. He said the association must recognize that these laws were on the books to stay, and must find ways to work inside them.

Carothers, who has been an outspoken critic of federal administration activities, said that despite the many handicaps in its way the prospects are that business this year will show an improvement over last year.

Investors' Guide

Tuesday, Jan. 24, 1939.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WHY SELLING FLAT?

Investors' Guide: I notice in the New York bond quotations that the 4½ per cent bonds of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad due in 1978 are listed as selling "flat." I am the owner of one of these bonds and received the last interest payment which came due Sept. 1. I had the impression that bonds were not sold flat unless they failed to meet interest payments. Can you explain why these are still quoted flat?—G. H.

Answer: This railroad, known as the Nickel Plate, paid interest on the bonds you hold, but not until early in October, more than a month late. The New York Stock exchange has advised us that the bonds will continue to be traded on a flat basis until the company has established a policy of paying interest when it falls due.

Ordinarily for bonds not in default the buyer must pay the listed price plus interest that has accumulated between the last coupon date and the time of purchase, because he will be paid this interest as a bondholder on the next interest date. Bonds in default or those which delay payments are sold flat, which means that the quoted price includes accrued interest, if any.

"IRISH DIVIDEND."

Investors' Guide: I heard a broker the other day refer to an "Irish dividend." What kind of a dividend is that?—P. D.

Answer: An Irish dividend is actually not a dividend at all. When stockholders are called upon to pay an assessment to a corporation it is sometimes referred to as an Irish dividend.

NO DIVIDENDS.

Investors' Guide: I am thinking of buying some common stock in the Chicago corporation. Has this investing company ever paid a dividend on the common?—F. R. B.

Answer: No.

HOLDS BOLIVIAN BONDS.

Investors' Guide: I have some 8 per cent bonds of Bolivia and, of course, they are in default. Will you please tell me the address of the Foreign Bondholders' council in New York. I would like to get some information from this organization.—M. R. T.

Answer: The address is 220 Broadway, New York City.

GRAINS RECEDE ON ALARM OVER EVENTS ABROAD

Uneasiness over the European political situation and pronounced weakness in securities resulted in a lower range of grain prices yesterday. Corn led the decline, closing with losses of ¼ to ½ cent a bushel. The September delivery sold at a new seasonal low price.

Wheat showed resistance to selling pressure early in sympathy with an advance of 1 to 1⅜ cents a bushel in Liverpool futures. The market weakened later and closed ⅜ to ½ cent lower.

The United Kingdom purchased approximately 2,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat yesterday, mainly from Argentina. This was the largest day's business reported in some time. Brokers said the purchases were probably induced by the European political situation.

The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation announced export sales of wheat and flour so far this season have aggregated 78 million bushels. The announcement explained that this amount had not yet been exported and estimated the actual exports for the period at approximately 53 million bushels.

CATERPILLAR, J. I. CASE 1938 PROFITS DROP

Implement Maker Tells of Rising Taxes.

Three large manufacturing enterprises yesterday reported that their earnings in fiscal years ending in 1938 were much lower than in the preceding year. They were the Caterpillar Tractor company, the J. I. Case company, and the National Supply company. Other companies announced varying results for different periods.

B. C. Heacock, president of Caterpillar Tractor, reported the company's earnings for the year ended last Dec. 31 were $3,235,709. In 1937 profit was $10,168,690.

However, operations in the last 1938 quarter were more profitable than in the last 1937 quarter, Heacock said. Profit in the last three months of 1938 was $1,163,607, against $1,032,754 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Case Earns $2,422,372.

Net income of J. I. Case, maker of farm machinery, was $2,422,372 in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1938, compared with $3,894,356 in the preceding year. The year's results were described by Leon R. Clausen, president of Case, in his annual report to stockholders.

The decline in profit could be attributed to several factors, the report said. Sales volume for the 1938 fiscal year was smaller. The costs of manufacture were higher than in 1937 because of higher taxes, wages, and material costs, Clausen said.

Tells of Growing Taxes.

"Taxes have become an increasingly important element of cost in the company's business," Clausen said. "Total direct taxes for the year amounted to $1,472,711, which is equal to 60 per cent of the net income earned, and to $7.55 per share on the common stock. Pay roll tax rates for unemployment benefits in most states were 50 per cent higher in 1938 than in 1937, and in 1937 were 100 per cent higher than in 1936. Higher tax cost must of necessity be reflected in higher selling prices."

The J. I. Case general offices and principal plants are in Racine, Wis.

John M. Wilson, president of the National Supply company, reported that net earnings of his company in the year ended Dec. 31 were approximately $1,300,000 after provision for charges and taxes. This compared with net profit of $7,857,500 in the preceding year. The company manufactures well and pipe line supplies.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Sawmill Frolics Is On.

Jan. 23, 1939.

"LUMBERJACKS" started the old sawmill humming at the farm last week. That strange noise coming out of the woods caused travelers to slow down or stop along Roosevelt, Maramy and Warrenville roads. It is a strange noise to the younger generation but a familiar one to rural men and women who are around the half century mark.

It is the same song of the saw heard by the early midwest settlers as they trundled along in chuckling covered wagons looking for new places to live. The zooming of the old sawmill was music to these pioneers. It meant lumber to build homes for the travelers' families and barns for their horses and cows.

Discard Ax and Maul.

To workers at the farm, the sawmill furnishes an easy way of working dead logs into fence rails. They have discarded the axes, wooden mauls and gluts, and iron wedges once used to split rails of the Abe Lincoln type and are now using the saw to rip up the logs into four sided rails.

The sawmill outfit tucked away in the farm woods furnishes the setting for a lot of fun as well as work for these modern Paul Bunyans. There is the same big talk of the Bunyans among the "lumberjacks" as they move across the lumberman's "stage" decorated with a hundred logs piled in front of the saw. A plume of black smoke from a camp fire floats through the timber. A team of horses tugs away at big cuts of oaks being snaked over the snow to the mill site.

To the horses, mules, cattle, and sheep in the open meadows at the edge of the woods, the sound of the sawmill means that it is time to play circus in the pasture. With the first ring of the saw last Tuesday morning high steppers snorted in unison and filled the air with steam from their nostrils as they made fast tracks in the fresh snow. Mares and colts went wild. Even Muletta and Mulina, the farm's famous span of long eared mules that refuse to get excited over the shouts and screams of thousands of admiring school children who visit the farm every summer, joined in the frosty morning frolics near the mill.

For a Rustic Fence.

The hundred logs, mostly oak and shagbark hickory, are being sawed into rails for use in building a rustic fence. The rails are 4 by 6 inches, 12 feet long.

In building the fence the posts are set in pairs, ten feet apart. A four inch space is left between the posts to allow room for the rails. The fence will be of the three rail type. At each pair of posts there is a twelve inch overlapping of the ends of the rails. Three one-quarter inch rods are put through each set of posts to hold up the rails and to prevent the posts from spreading apart.

CHICAGO TRAINS MAKE FASTEST RUNS IN WORLD

Vie for Speed to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

go into service between Chicago and the Twin Cities was the North Western's famous "400," which had an average speed of 58.4 miles an hour. The "400" started service in January, 1935. The Burlington's first Twin Zephyr lifted the average a few months later to 66.3 miles per hour when it started its 6½ hour schedule to St. Paul.

Although the Morning Zephyr is the fastest train in the world for travel from terminal to terminal, America has some trains that travel faster for part of their runs.

The Pennsylvania railroad's Detroit Arrow eastbound between Liverpool Tower at Gary and the junction tower at Fort Wayne travels 116.4 miles at an average speed of 78.5 miles per hour.

Reach 108 Miles Per Hour.

The same train runs from Warsaw, Ind., to the junction tower at Fort Wayne, a distance of 37.6 miles, at an average speed of 83.5 miles per hour.

The Santa Fe's Super Chief covers a 202 mile stretch on its eastbound trip from Los Angeles in 145 minutes, or at an average speed of almost 84 miles and the 10.8 miles between Caddoa and Prowers, Colo., at an average of 108 miles an hour. The New York Central's Twentieth Century travels at an average speed of 58.3 miles per hour on the Chicago-New York run and the Pennsylavnia's Broadway travels at an average speed of 55 miles per hour.

Railroad leaders point out that operation of the roads privately, with competition allowed full play, has been a factor in developing the unusually good service between Chicago and the Twin Cities. They say that had the government owned the roads it is hardly likely that the public would have had improvements each year.

Service Is Test for Equipment.

The Chicago-Twin City service has served as a laboratory for testing railroad equipment because each of the three competing roads has used different types.

The Burlington has used diesel-electric locomotives. Last year these locomotives had an availability record of 99.59 per cent. The Hiawatha's giant steam locomotives also have been highly successful, being able to handle extra cars during rush travel periods with ease. The Milwaukee also has been developing new equipment for the run and has had three entirely new trains, including the first of the Hiawathas.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed bids for the Air Conditioning at the University Theater and Iowa Union at the State University of Iowa will be received at the office of the Superintendent of the Department of Grounds and Buildings at the State University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa, on Wednesday, February 8, 1939 at 2:00 p. m. and will then be publicly opened and read aloud, after which no bids will be received. Separate bids will be received upon the following divisions of the work:

Preparatory Services and Refrigeration Contract.

Temperature Control Contract at University Theater.

Temperature Control Contract at Iowa Union.

All bids shall be made on the printed forms attached to and made a part of the proposed contract documents. The contract documents may be examined at the office of the Superintendent of the Department of Grounds and Buildings from whom said contract documents may also be obtained on deposit of the sum of $15.00. This deposit will be refunded upon the return of the contract documents in good condition.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a cash deposit, or certified check on a solvent Iowa bank, in the amount of five per cent [5%] of the total amount of the proposal. Checks shall be made payable to the order of the Iowa State Board of Education, M. R. Pierson, Secretary. Should the successful bidder fail or neglect to furnish a satisfactory surety bond, refuse to make a contract on the basis of his bid, or fail to meet the requirements of this notice and the specifications regulating the award, his certified check may be forfeited as liquidated damages. No bidder may withdraw his proposal for a period of thirty days after the date set for the opening bids.

By virtue of statutory authority the contractor shall give preference to Iowa Domestic Labor, according to the provisions of Chapter 62-Bl, Section 1171-dl, Code of Iowa, 1935.

By virtue of statutory authority a preference will be given to products and provisions grown and coal produced within the State of Iowa.

Payments will be made as follows: on or about the 15th day of each month 90 per cent of the value, based on the contract prices of labor and materials incorporated in the work and of materials suitably stored on the site up to the first day of that month as estimated by the Architect, less the aggregate of previous payments. The final 10 per cent will be paid forty days after the work has been accepted as complete, provided all bids for labor and material have been paid and all conditions of the contract complied with.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids and waive informalities.

Dated at Des Moines, Iowa, this 20th day of January, 1939.

By order of the Iowa State Board of Education.

M. R. PIERSON, Secretary.
State House, Des Moines, Iowa.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

MEN FOR A PERMANENT CONNECTION

My company has authorized me to contact 6 men immediately who live on the north or northwest Side of Chicago and suburbs, test them out for several days while in training, without any expense or cost whatsoever to these men and place them immediately in our north side branches on a permanent basis with liberal participation in the profits with no investment.

Steadiness and good character needed, not ability to talk, nor a clientele, nor any previous experience. We are not advertising for salesmen, because our very successful method of putting our prospect into the market is so unusual that it must be taught especially, but it is so simple to learn that no time need be lost in getting started. While getting started men of average ability must be willing to get along on a reasonable weekly percentage.

You learn from practical men earning substantial incomes every week. We do not require men with electrical device sales experience because this work is so different from sales jobs as interpreted by the great majority of men. However, to be accepted you must be willing to work hard and study to qualify for the larger pay schedules. Call at the Sheridan Plaza Hotel, 4607 North Sheridan-road, to Mr. Wilson Tuesday, 10:30 to 11 a. m. only.

Immediate Opportunity

FOR CHICAGO MEN. ALSO FOR MEN LIVING IN ILLINOIS—INDIANA—WISCONSIN.

NEW, AMAZING PRODUCT THAT ENJOYS THE SAME POSITION IN ITS FIELD TODAY AS THE ELECTRIC LIGHT DID TO THE KEROSENE LAMP YEARS AGO.

Under our unique merchandising plan men who qualify will be set up in business for themselves and assisted in getting started successfully.

Under the co-operative plan branch dealers get phenomenal results, earnings as high as $20 daily.

Permanent; no investment necessary; no lean seasons. We can train any intelligent clear thinker to sell this electric product and assure him of at least $40 commission his first week.

If you are wide awake and want a business that pays big earnings, investigate this unusual opportunity.

EMPLOYMENT DEPT., 9 A. M. TO 4 P. M.
203 N. Wabash-av., R. 618.

5 OPENINGS

5 men to assist in the selection of juvenile talent in the local school districts of Chicago. Also 2 men to qualify for transfer to St. Louis within 2 weeks. This calls for men 21-45 yrs. with neat appearance and good education. This is educational work and pays a substantial comm. of $12-$24 per day to right men. We work only in built-up lead file system of actually interested prospects. From the beginning we close sales for you. Restricted territories. Apply 203 N. Wabash, Rm. 818 11 a. m. or 2 p. m. today only.

No Merchandise to Sell.

We need the service of several men between 25 and 45 years of age to explain our unique plan to future furniture customers. Some direct sales experience helpful but not necessary. Must be satisfied with about $30 a week to start, on bonus and percentage basis. Drawing account privilege can be arranged if desired.

For complete details see employment manager at most convenient address.

Local Loan Gives You the Service You Want

The easier we make it for you to borrow the more we save you in time and money. Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. We make liberal Furniture and Auto Loans but most of our loans are to employed men and women on their signature only because the average employee is entitled to this service. If steadily employed you are entitled to—

$25 TO $300
SALARY LOANS

On Your Signature Only
WITHOUT CO-MAKERS OR ENDORSERS.

You may make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months] and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money. We cannot tell you all about our service in an advertisement. Just phone or call at one of the following offices.

Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person. You'll be surprised to find how rapidly the money is advanced

STUDEBAKER
We're Out to Make This the Biggest January in Years

ENTIRE USED CAR STOCK REDUCED IN PRICE

FROM NOW UNTIL JANUARY 31ST ONLY!

Amazingly Low Prices in Effect

Our business has been exceptionally good so far—BUT WE'RE OUT TO MAKE A STIFF QUOTA OF USED CAR SALES. There's one sure way to do this. CUT PRICES! Come in today—see for yourself the record-breaking values offered. BUT ONLY UNTIL JAN. 31.

$1,000 cars low as $850
$ 800 cars low as $650
$ 600 cars low as $485
$ 400 cars low as $285
$ 300 cars low as $175
Others low as $35.

ALL POPULAR MAKES.

Fords, Chevrolets, Plymouths, Dodges, Pontiacs, Buicks, Chryslers, Studebakers, Hudsons, Terraplanes, Nashes, Oldsmobiles, Packards, De Sotos, etc.

ACT AT ONCE!
First Come—First Served.

AND REMEMBER—STUDEBAKER'S TIME PAYMENTS ARE ASTONISHINGLY EASY.

And here's why—buying a car on the time payment plan from Studebaker, not only assures you of a fair deal, but positively eliminates any embarrassment that might grow out of financing through an outside company. STUDEBAKER FINANCES THEIR OWN TIME PAYMENT DEALS, thus allowing fairer rates, and payments fitting exactly within your budget.

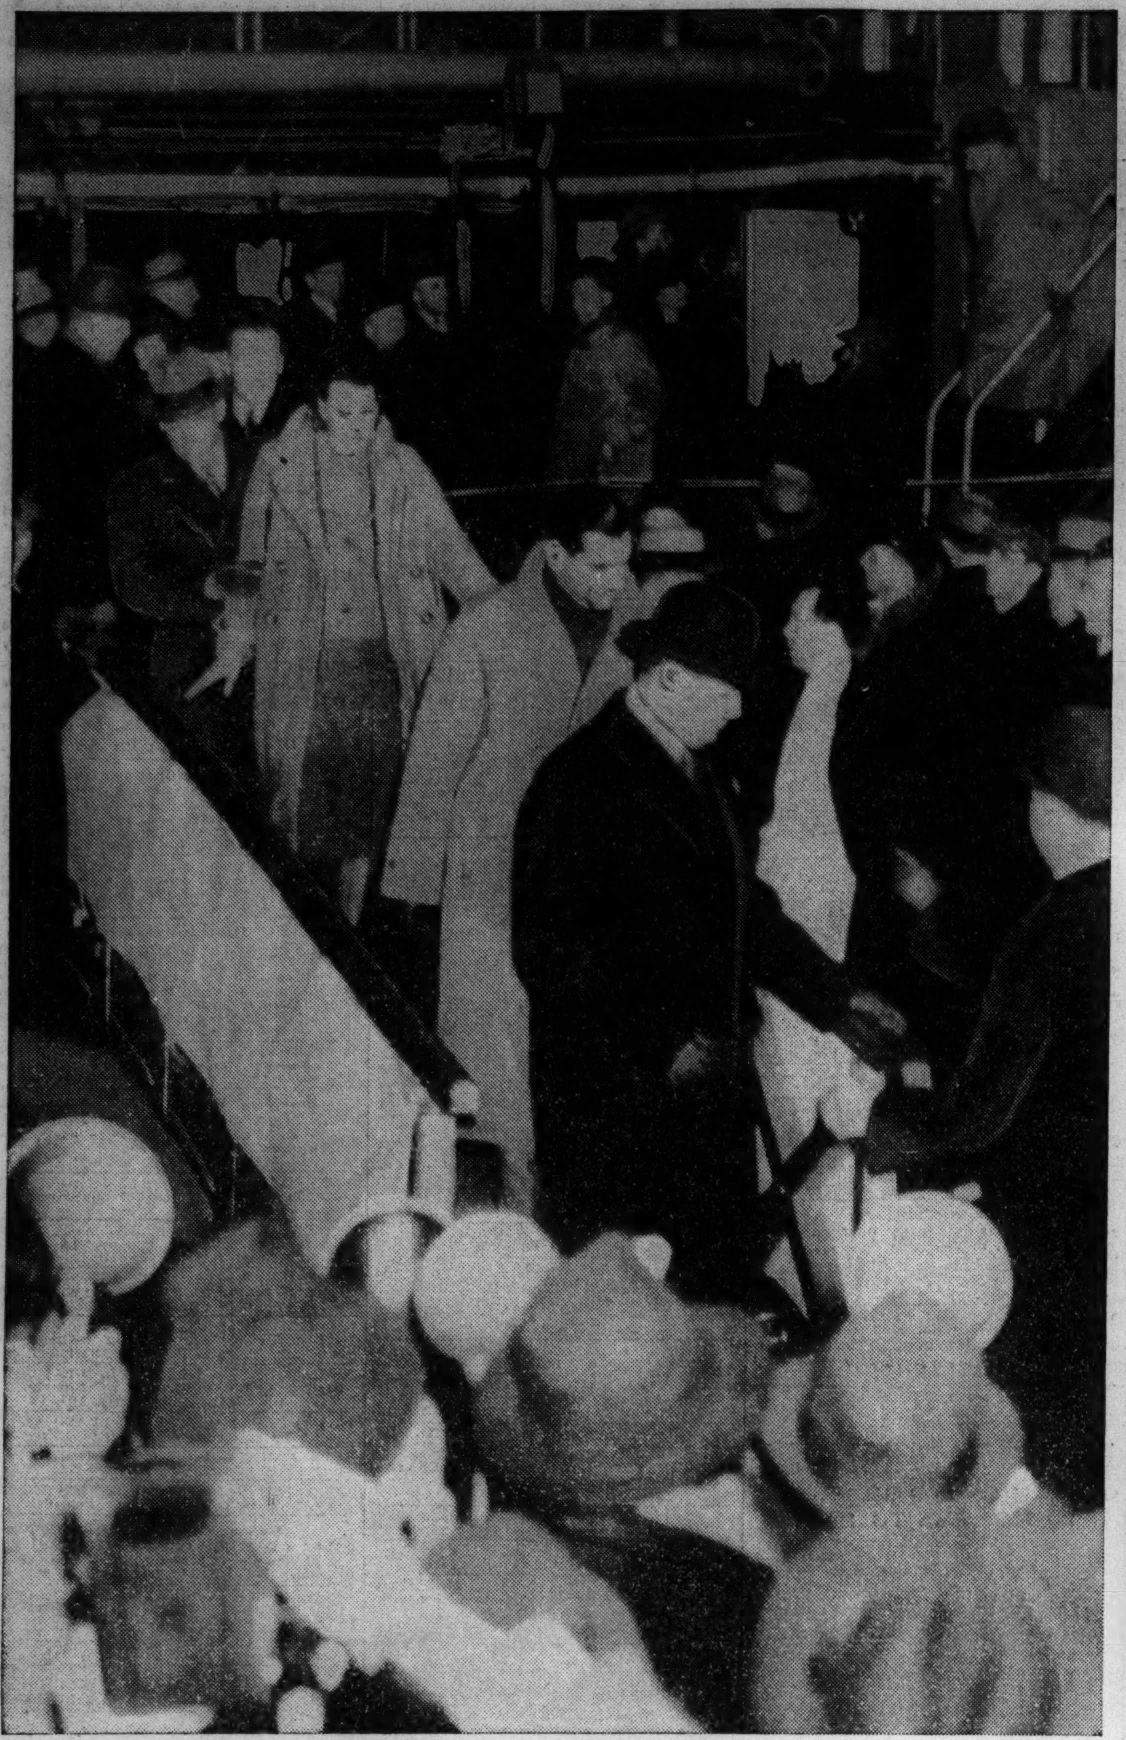
Floating Survivors of Air Disaster Guide Rescuers by Singing—New York Welcomes Them as Heroes



First of the survivors of airliner Cavalier walking down gangplank of the oil tanker Esso Baytown, after it arrived in New York yesterday following dramatic rescue at sea.

Mrs. Donald S. Miller of Lincoln, Neb., who saw her husband sink after the crash of the airliner, leaving the Tanker Esso Baytown.

Another passenger widowed by the crash, Mrs. J. Gordon Noakes, leaning on the shoulder of an unidentified companion in New York.

Experimental Douglas bomber, built for United States army, in flames after crashing in parking lot of aviation plant in Los Angeles yesterday. Test Pilot John Cable was killed.

Air view of the tanker Esso Baytown fighting gale and stormy sea while still 40 miles from New York with the 10 rescued plane passengers aboard. New York gave the ship a rousing welcome as the Baytown's officers told of the heroic action of the survivors in guiding lifeboats to them by singing.
